TWENTY-SIXTH YEAR.

LAST EDITION.

FRIDAY, JANUARY 1, 1909.

TWO CENTS.

The Herald Wishes All a happy and Prosperous New Year.

AMERICANS HURRY CASH TO SUFFERING SICILIANS; HUGE SUMS ARE RAISED

Cities in All Parts of County Heed Appeal.

Chicago, Ill., Jan. 1.—"One dollar now will do the work of $10 a week from now," thus urging immediate help, the Chicago branch of trade and half a dozen other organizations today started in, determined to raise $100,000 or more for the sufferers in Italy, before Sunday night. The headquarters of the various relief committees were open at an early hour, and checks and cash began to pour in as fast as clerks could handle them.

Michigan in Line.
Detroit, Mich., Jan. 1.—The Michigan branch of the Red Cross society has already received $500 in response to its appeal for subscriptions for the earthquake sufferers of Italy, and a committee of local Italians has received pledges of $10. The Italians of Detroit will hold a mass meeting Sunday afternoon.

Minnesota in Action.
St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 1.—Over $500 has been received by the Minnesota branch of the Red Cross society for the earthquake sufferers in Southern Italy. The headquarters of the various relief committees were open at an early hour, and checks and cash began to pour in as fast as clerks could handle them.

Wisconsin in Line.
Milwaukee, Wis., Jan. 1.—Milwaukee for the relief of the Italian

FIRE DAMAGES THREE BLOCKS

Skowhegan, Me., Sustains Four Hundred Thousand Dollar Loss.

Skowhegan, Me., Jan. 1.—Fire damaged three business blocks and burned five tenement houses on Water street. In the heart of the town, early today, two of the houses were dynamited, to check the progress of the flames, and it was only after eight hours' work that the department, assisted by the apparatus from Waterville and Fairfield, succeeded in bringing the fire under control. The loss is $400,000. The fire started from an unknown cause in the basement of the brick Gould block, which was totally destroyed. The second and third floors constituted the Hotel Oxford, managed by Sam W. Gould, the owner of the building. Two firemen, Harry Jackson and Henry Mitchell, were injured and were taken unconscious from the ruins. The Milburn block, a four-story brick and wood structure, also was burned. The First National bank building, a three-story brick structure, was damaged in the upper stories. Several tenement houses in the rear caught fire from the sliding chimneys. Three were burned and two were dynamited.

MAKES APPEAL FOR EARTHQUAKE VICTIMS

MRS. DONALD McLEAN.
Washington, Jan. 1.—Mrs. Donald McLean, president of the Daughters of the Revolution, has issued a call to the members of that organization throughout the country to contribute to the fund for the Italian earthquake sufferers, through the National Red Cross society.

ITALIAN EARTHQUAKE RELIEF FUND.

The sympathy of the people of the United States goes out to the victims of the Italian earthquake. Funds are now being raised all over the country for the relief of the thousands of sufferers. No doubt there are many persons in Duluth who will be anxious to join in swelling the fund for this noble purpose, and The Herald will be pleased to receive any contributions and forward them to the American National Red Cross society.

FETE IS CLOUDED

Sicilian Disaster Casts Shadow Over Roosevelt's Reception.

Italian Ambassador, Dean of Diplomatic Corps, is Condoled.

Washington, Jan. 1.—Seldom has there been a gathering so fraught with elements as that which assembled today to extend to President Roosevelt wishes for a happy New Year. It was the last opportunity of the public to meet their present chief executive, and it was distinguished by the attendance of diplomatic representatives of nearly all the nations of the world, the officials from every branch of the government and citizens in every walk of life. A shadow of sadness was cast over the company by the recent terrible calamity which has fallen upon the Italian people, whose ambassador was present as the dean of the diplomatic corps, and by the absence of the representatives of the emperor of China, who is wearing a bandage of mourning for the late emperor and dowager empress of his country. To Mr. Roosevelt the occasion was memorable beyond any in which he has participated since his elevation to the presidency. In the exchanges of salutations there were many references to the events of his career during the coming year, when he will face the dangers of the African wilderness. A number of those present have come into office during his administration. Several hours before the formal reception began at 11 o'clock, citizens, men and women, representing every social class, began to assemble in front of the beautiful portico of the historic white mansion, waiting an opportunity to enter and be presented to the president. The first greetings were extended by the president and Mrs. Roosevelt by the vice president, the members of the cabinet and their ladies. (Continued on page 15, 7th column.)

FATAL FIGHT WITH BRIGANDS

Police Engage in Battle on Outskirts of Tiflis.

Tiflis, Jan. 1.—During a fight between the police and a band of brigands on the outskirts of Tiflis today, two men were killed, who later were identified as the leaders in the murder of Councillor of the Empire Chavodze, who was killed and his home plundered on the night of June 27, 1907.

Directors Vote on Increase.
Seattle, Wash., Jan. 1.—Stockholders of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway company of Washington are meeting here. The announced purpose is to vote on the increase of the capital stock of the company from $3,000,000 to $10,000,000; to amend the articles of incorporation; to change the name of the company and to transact any other business. Those present are Burton Hanson, general solicitor; George R. Peck, general counsel and H. R. Williams, president of the Washington company.

Pasadena Has Fete.
Pasadena, Cal., Jan. 1.—Pasadena opened her gates to the entertainment of 100,000 guests upon the occasion of her annual New Year's festival, the tournament of roses today. Not only were all records for attendance surpassed, but the beauty of the decorations and the splendor of the pageant was declared to be far superior to all past efforts.

Town in Feud Thrown.
Jackson, Ky., Jan. 1.—This place is in a state of terror between the rival camps of ex-Sheriff Ed Callahan and the friends of James T. Dean, for whose murder Callahan will be tried. The main street of the town lies between the courthouses where the Callahan faction has ensconced itself, and the general store of the late Judge James Hargis, in which are the Deans.

FLEET AT SUEZ SOON

Three Warships Search in Vain for His Body.

Suez, Jan. 1.—The United States battleship fleet, homeward bound, at 8 o'clock last night was 619 miles from Suez. The fleet is due here Sunday morning.

While passing through Bab-el-Mandeb into the Red Sea, Jesse Schottland, an able seaman of the battleship Illinois, fell overboard and drowned. The Illinois, the Kearsarge and the Kentucky remained behind the other vessels to search for the sailor, but without success. Otherwise the voyage was uneventful. Perfect weather was experienced all the way from Colombo. The scout cruiser Yankton is four miles in advance of the fleet.

COMMISSION'S COST LESS.

Wisconsin Organization Makes a Very Good Showing.

Madison, Wis., Jan. 1.—According to its report just issued, the railroad commission, which supervises not only railroads, but public utilities as well, cost the state of Wisconsin $48,169.77 in 1908. Compared with other like commissions in the country, the cost is less than most of them while the work accomplished was in most cases greater. The largest item was the expense of the engineering department, $21,000. The salaries of the three commissioners were $5,000 a year.

RULERS OF COUNTRY TO WHICH "HAPPY NEW YEAR" SEEMS ONLY HOLLOW MOCKERY

KING VICTOR EMANUEL.

Rome, Jan. 1.—The presence of the king and queen of Italy in the stricken earthquake district has done much to infuse energy into the different relief committees. Considering the means at the disposal of the rescue workers, wonders are being done. The queen looks far from well. She is exhausted, and the terrible scene she has witnessed have affected her strongly. She weeps frequently and of more than one occasion she has covered the hands of some unfortunate woman with her tears. The king desired the queen to return to Rome, but this she refused saying she could not sleep from thinking of the miseries of her subjects. By remaining on the spot she feels that she can do something to relieve the general misery.

Trains leaving here for the south are filled almost entirely with newspapermen, relatives of victims, or volunteers or rescue committees. These committees are composed of every nationality of Europe. Some of the volunteers do not speak a word of Italian, but they go forward simply because they have hands with which to work. All volunteers are thankfully accepted, and there is room for thousands more.

LAPARI ISLANDS ARE NOT DESTROYED, NO LIVES LOST THERE; REGGIO DEAD: 20,000

PREDICTS QUAKE FOR THREE YEARS

Rome, Jan. 1.—Prof. Alfani of the Florence observatory, predicts that the seismic activities will continue for three years to come. He recommends the enforcement of restrictive building laws in the earthquake zones of Italy.

The personal accounts of survivors obtained today all go to confirm the first reports of the extent of the disaster, and they but add to the gruesome recital of suffering and pathetic inability to help the injured. One feature of the disaster at Reggio is the large number of homeless children. In some cases little babies were found creeping about in the ruins, and it seems impossible to restore them to their parents, even if the parents are alive.

Duchess Cares for Victims.

Naples, Jan. 1.—The Duchess of Aosta, who still proudly sings her enduring miracles of love, pity and endurance at Naples, where the wounded are arriving in great numbers. This noble woman has given not only pecuniary help, but has nursed the earthquake victims with demonstrations of affection.

LID LAW IN TANGLE

The Louisiana Authorities Clash in Their Interpretations.

Foreigners Are to be Prevented From Operating Barrooms.

New Orleans, La., Jan. 1.—Various interpretations of the new law, which went into effect in Louisiana at 12 o'clock last night, will compel many changes, some of them drastic, in the present method of conducting the whiskey business in this state. The attorney general of Louisiana and the city attorney of New Orleans are wide apart in their constructions of the law. The latter holds that saloonkeepers who are already in business need not secure permits to continue for 1909. The attorney general thinks that the prescribed distance of 300 feet or more between saloons and schoolhouses or churches means a requirement by a straight line. The city attorney believes it means street or road measurement. The clause of the new law which prohibits foreigners from operating barrooms will undoubtedly involve a test on constitutional lines. Many claim that it is an abridgment of treaty rights which they participate in. Among the prohibitions of the Gay-Shattuck law are: That a saloon and a grocery shall be conducted without a license; that no woman, girl or minor shall serve in a barroom; That foreigners and residents of other states shall not be issued licenses; That musical and musical devices shall be barred from barrooms; That an officer of a brewery or distillery or even a stockholder, shall not be permitted to obtain a license to conduct a barroom; That those financially interested in a brewery or distillery shall not have any interest in a barroom or even in the lease of the premises thereof.

NEGRO ADMITS HE KILLED GIRL

Held on Robbery Charge He Confesses to Murder.

Cheyenne, Wyo., Jan. 1.—The mystery surrounding the murder of Miss Adda Bailey of Denver the night of Sept. 12 has been cleared, through the confession of Mack Johnson, a negro who had been confined in jail on the charge of robbery. The negro was taken before Judge Matson and was permitted to enter a plea of murder in the second degree. He was sentenced to ninety-nine years in the pen, and officers started at once with him for Rawlins, where the state prison is located. In order to avoid possible lynching, another negro was taken along, so that Johnson could not be easily singled out by a mob. Johnson confessed that he shot the woman when she resisted his attempts to rob her as she was passing along a lonely street.

Three Years For Stealing.
Grand Rapids, Wis., Jan. 1.—Robert Englemann, who stabbed August Johnson without provocation, decided to plead guilty to the charge and appeared before Judge Webb and was sentenced to three years in the state's prison.

Minneapolis Tourists Safe.
Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 1.—Special to The Herald.—Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Rand of Minneapolis were not victims of the Italian earthquake. For a time their friends feared that they had been in the center of the catastrophe, but cable messages announce that these tourists are safe at Naples.

Nothing is Heard From United States Consul at Palermo.

Taormina, Where There Are Many Americans, Escapes Earthquake.

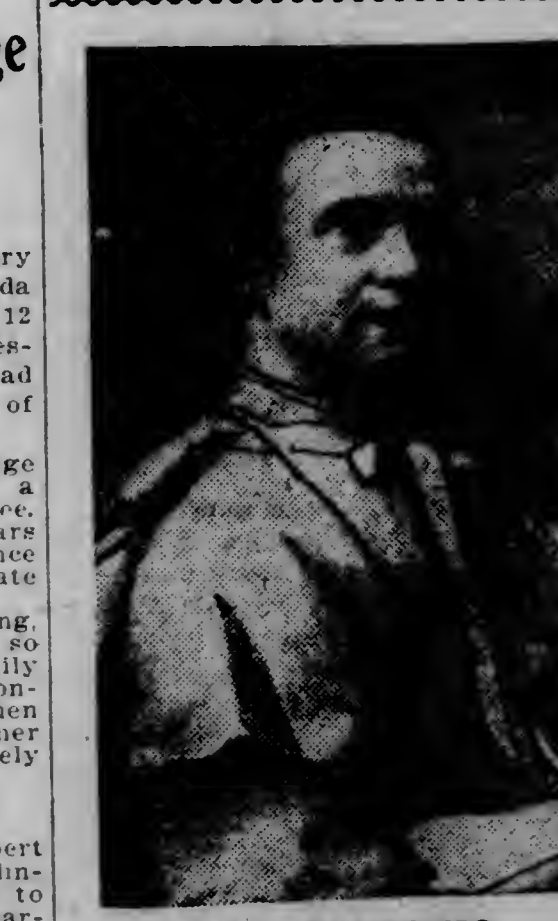

Ambassador Griscom to Await Fleet Before Going to Messina.

Rome, Dec. Jan. 1.—The Lipari islands have not yet been destroyed, nor has there been any loss of life there. This news, received with prayers of gratitude throughout Italy, has just been brought in by a torpedo boat, sent out to investigate. A telegram from the commander of the vessel informs the minister that a severe earthquake was experienced through the islands on Dec. 28. Some buildings were damaged, but there were no fatalities. An official dispatch received here from Reggio says the death list there amounts to 20,000. Despite the first assertions that William H. Bishop, United States consul at Palermo was not on the island of Sicily at the time of the earthquake, the American embassy now believes that he is there. All efforts to communicate with him, however, have been fruitless.

Lloyd C. Griscom, the American ambassador, has decided not to go to Messina at present. He will await the arrival of the American battleship fleet now approaching Suez from the Red sea, in the stricken districts. The warships probably will get to Messina next week. Mr. Griscom will then go to the south. The ambassador, this morning, sent to Messina Maj. J. F. Reynolds Landis, the American military attaché; Bayard Cutting, Jr., the American vice consul at Milan; Winthrop Chandler, and the interpreter of the embassy, with full instructions concerning methods to be adopted in the search for Americans supposed to have been in Sicily and Calabria at the time of the earthquake.

Filled With Victims.
Naples, Jan. 1.—Up to the present time 2,000 persons from the earthquake zone have arrived here. The hospitals are all filled and the churches public halls and theaters are being fitted up to receive others. Many of the injured were taken by force to the hospitals, becoming frenzied with the idea of being compelled to enter the institutions. Three tank steamers filled with drinking water have left here for Messina. A large number of the persons saved in the sailors of the Russian warship Makharoff deprived themselves (Continued on page 15, 4th column.)

URGES CATHOLICS TO GIVE FREELY

MGR. FALCONIO.

Washington, Jan. 1.—Mgr. Falconio, the apostolic delegate, has issued an appeal to the church for contributions for "the vast multitude of sufferers" from the Italian earthquake. The appeal urges generosity, and says offerings may be sent to the Vatican either through the apostolic delegation or through Cardinal Merry del Val.

the Catholic church at Chanhassen. Before this he was in charge at Jordan eight years, making his home in this city.

SUPERIOR NEWS

TO HAVE WED, IS KILLED

Alfred Frederickson Meets Sad Fate on Eve of Wedding.

Came to Superior to Take Bride and is Struck by Runaway.

A fatal accident, which occurred in Superior yesterday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock, was made doubly sad by the fact that the victim had come to the city to be married.

Alfred Frederickson, a land irrigator, who had been spending the holidays with his fiancée, whom he was going to marry within a week, was struck and fatally injured by a runaway team at the Broadway and Tower avenue crossing.

The young man was crossing the avenue, when one of the Pease Hardware company's heavy rigs ran him down. He was knocked to the pavement, where one of the horses fell over him. Dr. J. C. Adams, who was just summoned, ordered the unconscious man to be taken to the hospital, where he died on the operating table.

From an examination, it was learned that he had been struck on the side of the head, probably by the wagon tongue, and had also suffered internal injuries, caused, no doubt, by the horse falling on him.

The last evening it was viewed by the young woman who was to have been Frederickson's bride. Her grief knew no bounds and she was completely broken down by the tragedy which had come into her life.

Frederickson was 28 years old, and is survived by a sister residing in one of the Pacific coast cities. No arrangements will be made for the funeral until word is received from her. The run-away started from the vicinity of the Union station, and by the time it reached Broadway and Tower avenue, where the accident occurred, the rig had been demolished and the driver thrown.

CHARGED WITH ASSAULT.

Half-breed Is Said to Have Attacked Indian Girl at Gordon.

Charged with assaulting an Indian girl, Frank Wade, a half-breed, was arraigned in the municipal court of Superior yesterday.

The man will be given a hearing in Judge Parker's court on Jan. 8. In the meantime he will spend his time in jail, being unable to raise the $500 bail demanded.

It is alleged that Wade a month ago, attacked Lizzie Benjamin in the home of her mother at Gordon. It is claimed that he entered the house unannounced and without a word of warning sprang at the girl, beating her and kicking her, and finally dragging her by the hair for several hundred feet outside the house. As a result of the assault, the girl was confined to the hospital for three weeks, with three broken ribs, besides several other injuries.

After the alleged assault, Wade is said to have gone to the Olanah reservation near Ashland, where he remained in hiding until a few days ago, when he returned to Gordon. He was arrested at Gordon Wednesday by Deputy Sheriff Miller.

The girl left the hospital Monday and before returning to Gordon told her story to District Attorney McKay, with the result that Wade was arrested.

FACTS THAT TALK

Progressive Medical Association of Duluth Closes a Year of Great Activity—520 Dismissed Cured—Many Came From a Distance of 300 to 5,000 Miles to Get Cured by Duluth's Famous Specialists—Their Process of "Dissolving Diseases" Has Made Them Famous.

There is nothing that speaks more clearly than actual facts which are every day before us, and when we propose to demonstrate to any man afflicted with any of the diseases that come under our specialty, that we are constantly dismissing cured cases that have been existing in chronic and malignant form for months, it should be certainly enough that we do all we claim—cure diseases of the Pelvic System if they are in reach of medical science.

Numerous Pelvic Diseases and Their Dangerous Development.

It is not generally known that such a large number of men are afflicted with some Pelvic disease and chronic complications arising therefrom. The most prolific source of chronic troubles in Pelvic and private diseases is from what is considered the simplest contagious disease, and from neglect and improper medical attention it develops into Prostatitis and finally Kidney and Bladder affections that become so serious as to be incurable. So many men of all ages begin with a little inflammation which should be cured in a few days. This condition through improper attention or neglect of treatment allows the disease to incapacitate them for the physical and mental duties of man. Impure blood is a disease that in the primary stage, by our system of treatment, is checked in its ravaging course and never amounts to more than a trifling blood disorder, though there are many who are gradually decaying and their misery doubled by the use of injurious treatments. Skin Diseases, Nervous Decline, Weakness and associated diseases are equally sure of a detrimental course if they are not treated promptly and scientifically. What is more vivid than the old adage, "A stitch in time saves nine," to a man whose health is being impaired by a treacherous ailment, and how can a man spend his money more wisely than to save his physical and mental powers.

Varicose and Hydrocele. Enlargements, Wasting, Weakening and Debilitated conditions so common among men, in fact, all troubles peculiar to men, are successfully treated by us, because we have practiced our specialty long enough to formulate scientific methods upon which we can depend and conscientiously promise our patients entirely satisfactory results.

We Cure Impure Blood, Skin Diseases, Eczema, Itching, Burning, Pimples, Blisters and Discolorations of the Skin.

Blood Poison is either specific or nonspecific. If specific it has arisen by the transfer of poison, and it often appears in the form of scrofula, eczema, or similar affections. The non-specific form is ordinary skin diseases and eruptions, which are due to the blood becoming laden with impurities from the whole system getting out of gear so that poisonous matter accumulates in the blood.

In the treatment of all blood diseases the mistakes too often made are in giving medicine—so-called "blood purifiers"—and in taking patent medicines that are usually harmful because they stop the work of the excretory glands in throwing the poison to the surface, so that the outward signs will disappear for a while, and in so doing the poison in the system increases sometimes to the extent that it attacks the internal organs and becomes fatal. Don't allow the poison to be locked in your system. Have it eliminated, the components of the blood repaired, the completely reorganizes the blood, cleansed so that you will always have pure flesh and blood and robust health. Our treatment is a specific that completely reorganizes the blood, cleansed, by means of which every particle of infectious matter is eliminated. It has been thoroughly tested in the most severe cases and will eradicate every trace of the disease so that a sign never reappears.

Our study and extensive practice in the treatment of all forms of Kidney, Bladder and all Urinary Troubles have familiarized us to the extent that we have attained skill which insures successful treatment in all cases not absolutely incurable. We determine the condition by a scientific analysis of urine, and the severe gono-urinary troubles we have cured by our systematic course of treatment gives us such confidence in our method as to assure good results.

We Dissolve Rupture and Varicocele.
Varicocele is the direct cause in thousands of cases of rupture, as the enlarged veins are extending up into the inguinal canal and go through the internal wall of the abdomen and causes the passage of the intestines through this orifice and down into the scrotum.

This disease is often associated by Hydrocele, enlarged, prostatic gland, spermatorrhoea, stricture, bladder and kidney disease. Often varicocele and the whole train of associated diseases is brought on by that secret device of habit which destroys body and soul over of the best and of the most hopeful of young men.

We found in former years that cutting and dissecting out these veins did not cure our patients. The deep-seated nerves that control the function and nutrition of the sexual organs were still causing the patients trouble and more pain than before. And after our discovery of the poison we invented the "Direct Method of the Dissolving Process," and this method is as superior to the old time cutting and blood letting and drugging as the modern electric light is superior to the old-fashioned tallow candle.

We offer you Consultation Free, Confidential and Private—A personal, thorough and searching examination is required, though if inconvenient to call write us for information. Office hours are from 9 a. m. to 8 p. m., excepting Sundays, from 10 to 1. No. 1 West Superior street.

perior municipal court. His examination is set for Jan. 7, and in default of $500 bail is held in the county jail. While standing by a bar on the night of Dec. 2, Akkala was slashed across the face with a knife wielded by a man, who immediately rushed across the street with a bar on the man's neck and was brought to the city by Sheriff Hughes. Akkala, who has only recently recovered from his injuries is alleged to have identified Seewald as the man who slashed him.

DENIES THE THEFT.

William Rujavick Says He Found a Valuable Diamond Brooch.

William Rujavick, charged with the theft of a diamond brooch valued at $1,050, yesterday waived examination and was bound over to the January term of the superior court by Judge Parker. He is held in jail, being unable to put up $1,000 bail.

Rujavick claims he found a brooch like the one lost by Winnie Anderson, a keeper of a lower Cunningham's avenue resort, but he says that it is his. There were thirteen stones in the pin, of which he took six as his share for finding the jewelry. The rest, he claims, were divided among the thirteen teachers. The school will meet on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, beginning at 7:30 o'clock.

Night School to Open.

Night school will be started next Friday at the Blaine high school building and will be in charge of Brick Carlson, who is the newly principal of a school in the southern part of the state. There will also be other teachers. The school will meet on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, beginning at 7:30 o'clock.

Scots Have Banquet.

Henry Taylor, British vice consul at Duluth, was the principal speaker last evening at the celebration of "Hogmanay" at the Hotel Superior. The affair was held in the Broadway dining hall. Everything was arranged in true Scottish style. The hosts, Frederickson's bride, her sister and the bridegroom, were seated at the supper and an elaborate musical program was given, followed by dancing.

SHALL POLITICAL REFUGEES BE EXTRADITED TO RUSSIA?

At a public meeting to be held in the First M. E. church next Sunday afternoon, Duluth citizens will hear an explanation of the attempt of the Russian government to extradite Christian Rudowitz, a Russian political refugee, under the representations that he is guilty of murder, arson and sedition.

Rudowitz's case has attracted attention all over the United States and strong pressure is being brought to bear to secure a reversal of the judgment of the United States commission at Chicago, who decided that Rudowitz must be given over the Russian authorities.

It is probable that Duluth citizens will adopt a resolution, to be added to the petition, and be brought to other parts of the country, calling upon congress to repeal that part of the treaty with Russia, which provides for the extradition of criminals. It is pointed out that Russian political offenders are put through the severest punishments and the Russian government is unscrupulous enough to place false charges of ordinary crimes against men wanted for political activity.

Rudowitz's friends charge that he has been guilty of no crime except free thought and free speech. They say he was active in a revolutionary movement in Russia and the Russian government wants him to set up as a horrible example to other political offenders, to whom the United States might loom up as a haven of refuge. They do not want Rudowitz because he is Rudowitz, but to prove that political refugees cannot get beyond the reach of the all-powerful czar, and just as sure as they rebel against him will they be subjected to the tortures, which only barbaric Russia can devise.

George B. Leonard, himself a Russian refugee, and a practicing attorney in Minneapolis for the past ten years, will be the principal speaker at the meeting at the M. E. church Sunday. Local preachers will also give their views.

These societies are the Finnish and Swedish temperance societies of Eveleth. The program was composed mostly of speeches and musical numbers. Rev. Wargelin made a speech, as did also Charles Stockman, Frank Mattson, Edw. Johnson, the Children's Legion, composed of the children of members of the temperance societies, also gave a few musical numbers besides recitations by some members. Rev. Wargelin also conducted a piano solo. Refreshments were served and the program was stretched until after the bells rang out the old year and ushered in 1909.

WRECK OUTCOME WAS VERY LUCKY

None of Passengers Seriously Hurt Despite First Rumors.

Eveleth, Minn., Jan. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—The wreck on the Mississippi road about two and a half miles from here on the way to Sparta and Hibbing yesterday was not as bad as first reported. The train was composed of the engine and two coaches. About a mile from the Troy mine, about 11 o'clock, the rails spread and the two coaches went over on their sides onto a 10-foot embankment, while the passengers, about ten in number, were thrown violently from their seats.

All of the passengers had minor bruises and one was brought to the More hospital here on a stretcher. Conductor Gratto, who was in charge of the train, walked to the Troy mine from the wreck and there telephoned to Eveleth for help and medical assistance. Doctors Gans, Ranney and Deaconery of the More hospital went out on a special and came back with the injured people about 1:30 in the afternoon. Dr. Mousor of Sparta took the Sparta people to their homes from the train.

Those who were on the train at the time of the wreck and were more or less injured were A. M. Gaddell of Proctor, brakeman; W. K. Mahoney, express messenger; Otto Nelson, Harvey of Eveleth; Joe Siegel of Hibbing; J. C. Maeroff of Duluth; traveling agent Joe Kral; Max Barish and Gay Barish of Ashland, Supt. A. J. Stivala of Hibbing; Mrs. E. E. Frohman, Sparta; J. E. Parry, Otto Hancock, vice president of Sparta, and his back hurt.

Heavy Freight Engine Blamed.

It is believed that the spreading of the rails was due to the heavy freight engine that was pulling the coaches, and to the severe cold spell, which might have contracted some of the spikes, thereby loosening the rails. Conductor Gratto must have known the rails around here very well as he went to the Troy mine on one of the first trains that ever led into Eveleth.

Late in the afternoon a special went out to the wreck with Supt. Kreller and Roadmaster Gilbert of the Mississippi road at the head of a repair crew. They had about 150 men with them and about 100 feet of rails, some of which about 100 feet had spread out. The engine itself did not tip over, but the rear truck and tank left the rails leaving only the front truck on.

All the passengers, who were taken to the More hospital here had their wounds dressed and at a late hour all of them had left the hospital, though some had their heads, hands and legs out in many places.

MERCURY HITS LOW MARK

Duluth Was Fourth Coldest City on the Continent.

The year 1908 was ushered in with the coldest snap of the winter in Duluth. All day yesterday the thermometer registered below the zero mark, and the temperature dropped constantly during the early evening and last night until the low point of 15 degrees below was reached early this morning.

This morning the mercury still registered several points below the zero mark, but warmer weather is promised for tomorrow.

The cold snap was common to the entire Northwest, but some points suffered more than others, notably Duluth, which was the fourth city in the country in point of low temperature. Medicine Hat, Can., registered 20 degrees below, and Port Arthur, Ont., and Havre, Mont., both had 15 degrees below. Duluth stood with 15 degrees, and in nearly every city in the Northwest the figures ranged from 10 to 15 degrees below.

The weather will moderate all through the Northwest during the night and tomorrow will be warmer.

WANT NATIONAL PARK.

Indians Would Have One at Old Fort Harrison.

Terra Haute, Ind., Jan. 1.—The Sons of the American Revolution will ask congress to establish a national park at the site of Fort Harrison, on the east bank of the Wabash, three miles north of the city. It is proposed to have a centennial celebration in 1912, the year in which Zachary Taylor, in command of the fort, repelled the Indians.

Fort Harrison was exceptional in the fact that two of its commandants afterward became president of the United States—William Henry Harrison and Zachary Taylor. When Gen. Harrison, marching from Vincennes to give battle to Tecumseh, came to the high bank at a sweeping bend, he selected the site for strategic reasons. For the same topographical reasons the site is a fine one for a park. Nothing of the old fort is left. Some of the logs were used in a farm-

LARGEST WHOLESALE GROCERY HOUSE IN THE NORTHWEST AND MOST POPULAR HOUSE

HE GRINDS AN ORGAN

Nephew of John Burns in Move for Personal Revenge.

Is Backed by the Famous
litical Enemies.

London, Jan. 1.—"I am the nephew of the great John Burns, M.P., president of the local government board. Because of my lameness I am ignored by him, and cannot get work, although of good character. This is the only means of providing for my wife and family."—This is the startling inscription recently exhibited in the streets of London.

by Alexander Henry Elliott, who is going about with a barrel organ for the purpose of calling attention to the hardness of heart of the British cabinet minister and ex-laborer.

There is no doubt about Elliott's credentials. He is not a "fake" nephew. At the same time, his methods of attack have given rise to a sort of political tempest in a teapot. As a rule, British politics are free from personal attacks. This is the first time issues of this kind have been raised. Elliott's tactics are backed up by the Labor party, who hate John Burns because they consider him a traitor to the laboring man's cause.

Labor Charges Against Burns.

In addition to the keen personalities indulged in, Burns came in for severe public censure at the recent meeting of the council—representing through its delegates, upwards of a million members of labor organizations and distress committees for the unemployed—met ostensibly for the purpose of seeking a remedy for unemployment, the convention turned into a vote of censure on John Burns. All sorts of things were alleged against him, the most noteworthy being that he had failed to provide work for the unemployed, despite the fact that he has already granted funds up to $8,752,000 and loaned the enormous sum of $50,000,000 at very low interest, for the express purpose of giving the unemployed work.

It is very doubtful if the nephew of Mr. Burns would have gone on the streets in this fashion had he not been "assisted" by the Labor party, who considered the opportunity to attack their arch enemy too good to be lost. They provided him with an "outfit," consisting of a barrel organ, donkey and the placard already mentioned.

The nephew himself "did the rest," losing no time in seeking the suburb where Mr. Burns lives, and playing before the little workman's cottage which the cabinet minister occupies.

Mr. Burns, Jr., and played, only desisting when the students threatened to tar and feather him if he did not move on, for young Burns is immensely popular among the boys.

Kept on the Move.

At this point the assistance of the police was brought in. There is a by-law in London that no street organ virtuoso is allowed to bring his machine on "the move." And so Mr. Burns' nephew has been kept pretty well on the march.

And now the newspapers have taken up the question, and the cabinet minister has come in for a great deal of hard words, especially from the Labor section of the press. On the other hand he has his defenders. Many anti-labor papers consider this exposure of family affairs quite unfair. The partisans of Mr. Burns praise him highly for not putting one of his relatives into a soft job, and point out that if he had given his nephew a government position he would have been just as harshly criticised by the labor members. And so the merry war goes on. Mr. Burns himself standing aloof.

A Varied Career.

As to the nephew of Mr. Burns, his career has been a varied one. Seen by the writer, he made a statement of his grievances.

"My name is Alexander Henry Elliott," he said. "And I consider that I have a grievance against my uncle, John Burns, because he promised me a position under the board of trade which he has not fulfilled. I can speak several languages—French, Italian, Turkish and modern Greek. I was secretary to Sir Stephen Lakerman, K. C. B., in Turkey, and my stepfather was Maj. Gen. Shelton Pascha, who held a post in the Turkish government. My mother is Mrs. Burns' own sister."

"Some years ago I returned to England, but things did not go very well with me. I lost a good deal over various business ventures and wanted Mr. Burns to give me enough money—about $50—to buy a pony. In order to go into the vegetable trade. But he refused."

"I cannot see that there is anything else for me to do but to go on the streets and become one of the unemployed."

played, in whom my uncle takes so keen an interest.

Elliott has announced his intention of abandoning his organ—the police tactics of hustling being perhaps too much for him—and proposes going on the secure platform. He has already had several engagements offered him by labor organizations.

WOULD REDEEM MESOPOTAMIA

British Engineer, Retained by Turkey, at Work on Scheme.

Constantinople, Jan. 1.—It is an historical fact that the area between the Tigris and Euphrates rivers in Turkey-in-Asia, consisting of about 3,000,000 acres, once supported a population of from ten to fifteen millions, where now it contains less than 1,000,000. In other words, the once flourishing land of Babylonia has become almost a desert waste with countless ruined cities, and only here and there a hamlet marking an oasis which has been preserved from destruction.

Of important bearing, therefore, upon the deterioration of this territory is the announcement of the Turkish government that Sir William Willcocks has been engaged to supervise the contemplated irrigation and canal works in Mesopotamia and elsewhere. For more than four years Sir William Willcocks has been making a study of the ancient irrigation works on the Tigris and the Euphrates, and his forecast of the possibilities of reconstructing them on modern scientific principles is very interesting. In the cold weather of 1902 Sir William visited Bagdad and made a rough survey of the country; upon his return to Bombay he gave enthusiastic estimates of the future of this ancient granary.

The new constitutional government of Turkey has given Sir William the opportunity he has long sought, and his plans have been accepted by the young Turk party in control with enthusiasm.

"The future of Turkey lies in Asia," has become the motto of the day. The magnitude of Sir William's schemes may be gauged from the fact that rough estimates place the irritable area at nearly 3,000,000 acres, the expenditure at $100,000,000, and the capital value of the land when irrigated at $200,000,000. The possibilities are vast.

In the days of the Assyrian and Sasanian kingdoms the delta of the Tigris and Euphrates was the granary of the world. This alluvial plain extending 400 miles inland from the present shores of the Persian gulf, was celebrated for its fertility.

"I know," wrote Herodotus, "there is none so fruitful in grain. It yields commonly 200 fold, but when the production is greatest even 300 fold, and the blades of wheat and barley plants are often four fingers in breadth."

This productivity was mainly due to irrigation. The great Nariwan canal took off from the Tigris on the left bank, and supplied a whole plexus of canals and irrigated an immense area before it rejoined the river a little below Bagdad. On the eastern side the Dijlah canal, over one hundred kilometers long and fifty meters wide, irrigated the lands above flood level as far south as Bagdad. In the neighborhood of Bagdad these labyrinthine canals converted the plain into one vast garden. But the preservation of titanic hydraulic works argues the existence of a strong central government. The crumbling Sasanian kingdom was riven by the Arabs, and the desertion of its ancient bed by the main stream of the Tigris cut off the supply of the mighty canals and left them high and dry. The Persian nobles and landlords were powerless to repair the dikes. The main portion of the canal system became obliterated, and the smiling gardens succumbed to the conquering desert.

FARGO TO HAVE SEVERAL MEETS

Tri-State Grain Growers and Other Gatherings During This Month.

Fargo, N. D., Jan. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Fargo will entertain several state conventions and other meetings this month. Most interest centers in the tenth annual session of the Tri-State Grain and Stock Growers' convention, Jan. 12-22. This is patronized by farmers of Minnesota and the Dakotas, and the program includes many men who are well known in the three states for their progress and leadership along agricultural lines. Secretary of Agriculture Wilson will send some representatives of his department here.

During the same week there will be the annual meeting and show of the North Dakota Poultry association, the North Dakota Live Stock association, and the North Dakota Horticultural association. All these will have programs and sessions.

The Scandinavian Singing societies of the western Minnesota towns and of North Dakota are called to meet here Jan. 8, for the purpose of organizing a dual live stock association, and to arrange for a sangster next summer.

STOLE TO FEED HORSES.

Novel Plea of Rural Mail Carrier Charged With Embezzlement.

Fargo, N. D., Jan. 1.—(Special to The Herald.)—Forced to embezzle money given him for the purchase of money orders to buy feed for the horses he used on his rural mail route, was the plea of Albert Kranz, a carrier out of Devils Lake, when arraigned before Judge Amidon of the United States court.

Kranz said he was without credit, and his horses needed food. He thought he could make the money good when his pay check arrived, but the complaint came too early. He made only $15. His sentence was made as low as the court had authority, and he will serve six months in jail.

Rheinhold Mantel, convicted of mailing obscene matter at Olyn, was given thirty days and fined $100.

Unable to give bonds, Joseph Tanen-cour was brought here on the charge of selling liquor to Indians on the Turtle Mountain reserve, and will be held to the next grand jury.

NEW YEAR

WELCOMED

Duluth People Joyfully Hail the Advent of 1909.

Down Town Cafes Are Crowded Until Early Morning.

The glad new year was welcomed in Duluth last night by songs and laughter in the downtown cafes, and by prayers of thanksgiving and words of hope for the coming twelve months in the churches of the city.

Nearly all the local religious institutions held watch-night services and in most cases they were well attended. There were numerous New Year's eve parties in different homes of the city, where groups of friends gathered and merrily passed the time away, while waiting for the time ball on the Torrey building to begin the closing of the last day of 1908.

In spite of the extreme cold, crowds of people were on Superior street until an early hour this morning, either headed for home, or toward one of the more popular cafes. The cafes presented a gay and festive scene. Everybody seemed happy over the fact that another year had ended, and that the time for beginning to live up to their New Year's resolutions was so near.

The cafes were crowded to capacity until 2 and 4 o'clock this morning, and even after that a few of the merry-makers were around. Orchestras entertained the evening at the St. Louis and Spaulding, and the musicians stayed as long as the crowd did. When and women alike seemed to be having a good time, and it did not take much of an effort to get what they were after. Everyone entered gaily into the spirit of the occasion, and whenever a popular air was struck up by the orchestra there was no hesitating about joining the whistling.

Predictions that there would be a cold time in the morning were not on St. Croix avenue, because of the fact that it was the last night they were to remain in existence. The houses were practically deserted today, except for the caretakers. Some of the places were even closed before the midnight hour.

As in years gone by the birth of the new year was marked by a loud and general blowing of whistles and ringing of bells, a one long whistle started in, then others joined in, and in a moment the chorus was raised from all parts of the city. Locomotion added their shrill whistles, and the combination of noises could have been heard for miles.

Promptly at the hour of 12 the time ball on top of the Torrey building, regulated by a wire leading direct from the government station at Washington, dropped.

A string of red lights and could be seen from all parts of Duluth and Superior. Rhoads' eyes were turned towards the red circle as the midnight hour approached, and the happy anticipation of good things to come when a sudden change in the position of the lights indicated that the ball had dropped.

The signal was the whistles blowing and bells ringing. There were three or four dances in the city last night, and the dancing continued until after 12 o'clock. The largest affair was at the Spaulding hotel, and the naval militia danced there both, and both were brilliant successes.

ATTENTION Sir Knights

You are requested to attend in full uniform, a special convocation of the Knights Templar, to be held at Masonic Temple, Sunday next, at 2:30 o'clock p. m. At this convocation services will be held upon the subject of Knights Templar, W. A. McCremer, D. M. Clemens, Dec. 1, 1908. All Sir Knights, brother Masons and friends will please attend.

C. R. McCremer, Acting Commander.

FIRE TWICE.

Officer Finds Effective Method of Stopping a Fish Thief.

Gust Assmann was arrested at 4:30 o'clock this morning on St. Croix avenue. He was carrying a sack of herring, and when ordered to stop by Patrolman John Lusk he refused to do so. He took to his heels, and to frighten him into obedience the officer fired two shots in the air.

Assmann thought it wise to heed a summons of that character, and came quickly to a stop. He was taken to the Central police station, where he refused to tell where he got the fish. It is presumed that the sack was stolen somewhere, but the police do not know where.

Like Sunday Under Lid.—Montgomery, Ala., Jan. 1.—For the first time since Alabama became a state, or, in fact, since De Soto set his foot in its sacred soil, the legal sale of liquor is not a part of its economy. There is a Sunday law about the entire city.

MARKETS ARE IDLE.
New Year's Day Being Observed by the Exchanges.

Grain and stock exchanges are idle today.

The exchanges of the country are closed for the New Year holiday, but they will reopen tomorrow.

There was some talk in some of the exchanges of remaining closed Saturday, but as a majority were in favor of having a session, all of them fell into line, so business will be carried on as usual tomorrow.

LIKE MAN, LIKE TYPEWRITER.
"It is odd to note," said the man who repairs typewriters, "how the machine seems in many cases to reflect the personality of the owner and user."

"I have seen it a good many times, then I am going around in the course of my work. Take for instance a new and slightly still typewriter, owned by a man of nervous temperament and quick action."

"A man like that will have the machine working in a short time so that it will fit in with his character and therefore any machine of whom one speaks inevitably as dashing off a letter in the kind I mean."

"He'll get the typewriter going for him so that it cannot print slowly. It will carry less volatile writers along with it when they use the machine by chance."

They were also supposed to be able to turn aside the thunderbolts and therefore any house in which one was kept was perfectly safe from lightning. In some parts of France even to this day they are often called "moth birds," on account of the supposed power which their dead bodies have to drive away moths from woolen clothes.

OH, THOSE KIDS!
Mrs. Henry Farnham, the wife of the noted aeronaut, said in an interview in New York:

"What I particularly like about you Americans is your naivete. This naivete often makes selfish traits seem quite charming. For instance, I punched the other day with a Brooklyn woman. After luncheon, as we took our coffee in the drawing room, my hostess's son, a little lad in white, came in. He talked to me politely for a while, then he crossed the room to his mother."

"Ma," he said, in his little hard, nasal voice, "did you buy Harold a birthday present when you were out this morning?"

IN FATED REGGIOReggio, Italy, Jan. 1.—A state of frightful anarchy prevails. Mobs of ruffians roam among the ruins giving fire to the houses and do not hesitate to shed blood of those opposing them. A few soldiers who escaped un-harm have been imprisoned by an admirable spirit of discipline to organize the mob and prevent further depredations. The numbers of these criminals have increased to such an extent that the soldiers have on several occasions been forced to open fire on them.It was only after a pitched battle in which several were shot and killed that a semblance of order was restored. All entrances to the city, or at least to the suburbs, are guarded by soldiers. Many of the survivors are living exposed to the four winds.The Italian government has been unable to send any more troops to Reggio, even that is impossible.
Hands of thieves infest the country.
For scenes of shocking violence, and pillagers and robbers defy the few surviving policemen and soldiers.Some doubt is expressed at the department as to the correctness of the report because only recently a dispatch came to the department from Messina, viz. that the newspaper dispatch also reports the death of the Consul. The Italian government has been unable to send any more troops to Reggio, even that is impossible. Hands of thieves infest the country. For scenes of shocking violence, and pillagers and robbers defy the few surviving policemen and soldiers.FALLING WALLS MENACE RESCUERSRome, Jan. 1.—The commander of the Russian cruiser Admiral Makharoff, which has arrived at Naples with refugees from Messina, gives the following account of the disaster."Hearing at Acosta, Sicily, of the disaster, I hurried to Messina. The city was literally nothing but a heap of ruins. Every building there has collapsed, but in many places the roof boards remain standing, and as a result the general contour of the city is still visible. In spite of the strain of Messina shows little if any change.The harbor is filled with refuse of every kind, and at one end lies the wreck of the disaster.It is impossible to give even a faint idea of the desolation of the scene.
Every now and then one hears the crash of falling floors and walls. This constitutes the greatest danger to the rescuers. It is not safe to approach any standing masonry. Men from my vessel had very narrow escapes. I saw terrible accidents to the brave Italian soldiers, who were doing more than their duty.We lost no time in setting about the work of rescue. We established an open-air hospital on the shore.
We had some 2,000 patients, men, women and children. We also saved the safe of the city of Messina, weighing 200 pounds, with its treasure, weighing 200 pounds.We estimate the deaths at Messina conservatively at 80,000. The mind shrinks from the contemplation of the condition in the stricken city.

are still alive, but who are in a condition of extreme suffering. The BIG TIME AT THE Y. M. C. A.

Open House Proves to Be a Great Success.

Big Program of Sports Keeps the Visitors Busy.

There were sports of all sorts at the Y. M. C. A. building yesterday. Every body was busy and the many visitors went away delighted at the originality of the program.

The Ducks and Sea Lions met at water polo. This was a very amusing game and kept the spectators in roars of laughter all the time the contest was going on. The Ducks won by the score of 5 to 3. The Ducks, in order to distinguish them from the Sea Lions, were dressed in women's bathing suits.

The lineup was as follows:
Ducks—Fenton, Thompson, Ed Smith, Wagon, Greenfield, Congdon.
Sea Lions—George, Fahey, Chapman, Thornton, Gardner, Jones.

The second basketball team defeated the Hopefuls in the evening, by a score of 24 to 16. The game, although one-sided, was interesting and furnished amusement for a large number of people.

The teams line up as follows:
O'Donnell, Fenton, Fenton, Denby, Waldron, Greenfield, Congdon, Crichtfield, Junker, George, Fahey, Chapman, Thornton, Gardner, Jones.

The Company B indoor baseball team in the afternoon, by the score of 12 to 9. This was a good exhibition and both sides took occasion to pull off some of the fancy indoor play seen this year. Neither team had its regular players in the lineup, and the game will not be counted as a regular contest.

The bowling game, which was to have taken place in the morning between the Cubs and the Giants, was called off for the reason that a number of the Cubs failed to appear. Two scrub games were played, however, each team winning one.

A game of indoor baseball was played between the boys on the fourth floor and those on the fifth. The fourth floor boys won by the score of 22 to 10.

Every minute was a busy one at the big building and aside from the featured sports, there was much going on that was of interest to the visitors.

HOCKEY GAMES IN THE WEST END

Two Interesting Contests Were Played on New Year's.

Adams, 2; Bryants, 0.
Adams Alumni, second team, 0; Fairmounts, 0.

This is the way the two hockey games, played yesterday on the West end rink, resulted.

Both games were clean and fast, although the boys showed plainly the lack of practice. The Adams Alumni team played hard, but the players lacked accuracy in shooting. The mild weather of the past week coupled with the fact there was no light on the ice, made practice impossible.

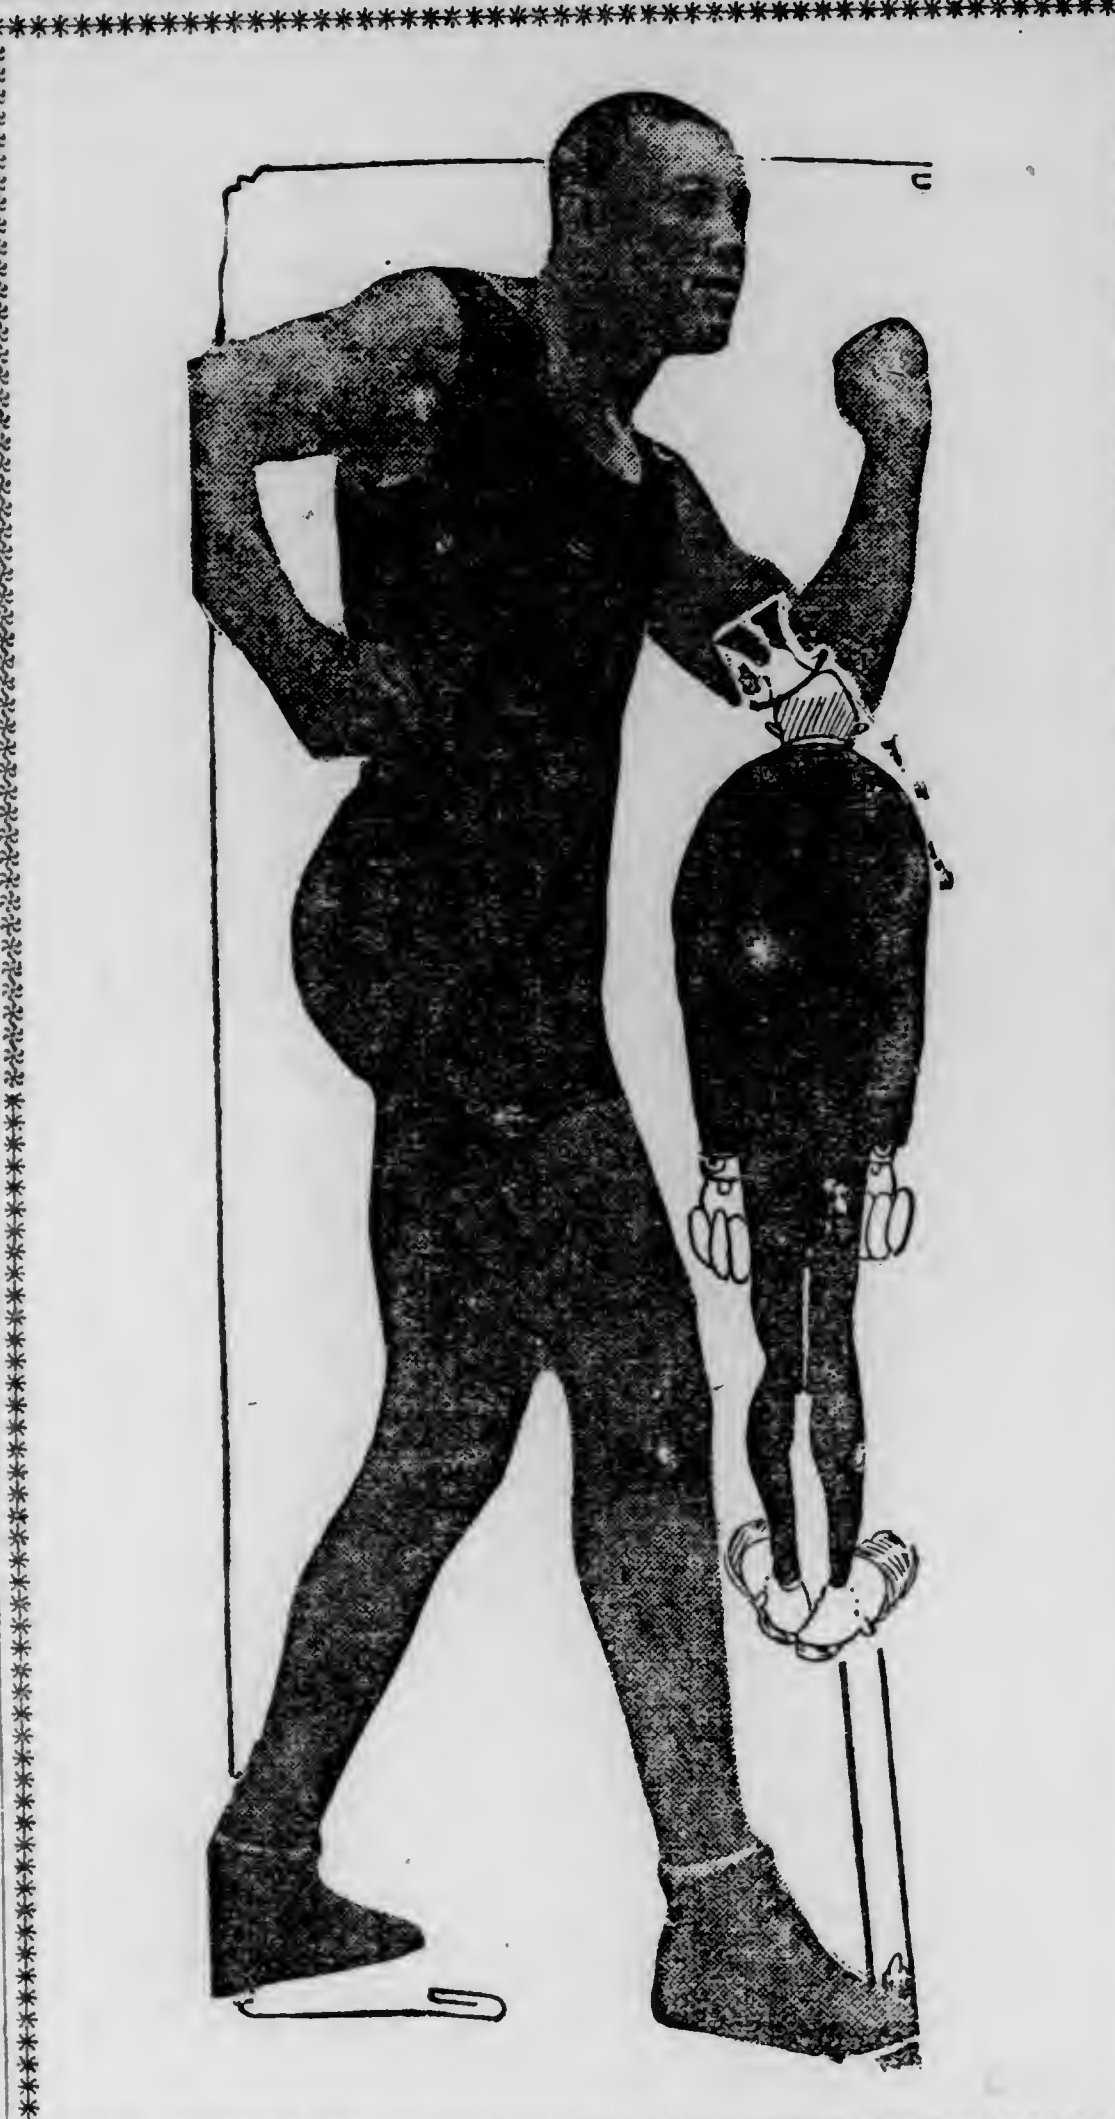

The light is to be put in position today, and from now on the boys will practice every evening.

The Adams and Fairmounts will fight their first game on the first teams have on scheduled contest.

Lexington, Ky., Jan. 2.—An offer to visit Australia to box Jack Johnson was received here yesterday by Marvin Hart. The offer came by telegraph. According to information given by Hart, the offer was for $10,000 as his end of the purse. Hart has not accepted, but to friends he said that

CUBS LIABLE TO TAKE A SLUMP

Murphy-Chance Trouble May Cause Players to Grow Discontented.

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 2.—Chicago's invincible Cubs, three times winners of the National league championship and the National league championship, are liable to take a slump.

The principal reason for the reports is the disagreement between Frank Chance and Charley Murphy. Not many fans and baseball critics hold some other club may head the league at the end of next season. The belief is growing that there seems to be trouble ahead.

HORSE RACES WERE POSTPONED

Owing to Sharp Weather Many Owners Failed to Appear.

The horse races that were scheduled to come off yesterday afternoon on the ice track at the foot of Twenty-first avenue west, were postponed on account of the cold weather. Many of the owners didn't care to expose their horses to the cutting wind that swept over the ice, and as a number of these men were among those regularly attending, the promoters decided to call them off and wait for warmer weather.

There were a few swift brushes between horses that are well known, but no regular races were held, or record-breaking time made.

It is probable that the races will be run off this afternoon. The well-known Duluth horseman, has offered a silver cup for the free-for-all event.

SUPERIOR IS OUT OF THE RUNNING

Duluth Curlers Defeat Wisconsin Men by Two Points.

In the curling games played with the Superior club in that city last night, for the Manly-McLennan trophy, the Duluth men again won out by two points.

This puts the Superior men out of the running unless the Duluth club should be defeated by the West Duluth men.

The total score was 39 to 37 in Duluth's favor and the games and details were as follows:

An Unknown Wins.
Los Angeles, Jan. 2.—George B. Miller, an untrained runner, won the second annual Marathon race between Los Angeles and Venice yesterday in 1 hour and 11 minutes. William Stanley, another unknown runner, won the 100-meter dash in 16 seconds. The men were weighed in at 105 pounds.

New Spring Record.
Peoria, Ill., Jan. 2.—R. E. Waller, the South African sprinter, yesterday established a new record for the 100-meter dash. Waller won the 100 meters at the Olympic games at London in 10 4-5 seconds. A few days ago he ran 100 yards in 9 2-5.

BALL PLAYERS HAVE MANY QUEER SUPERSTITIONS

(By Billy Evans.)
Of all the professions, that of the baseball player is the most superstitious.

The superstition is not confined to major leagues or minor leagues alone, but can be traced from the highest class to the lowly amateur.

Of course there are many superstitions in common to most of the players. Some have pet ideas of their own on which they place much reliance. The superstitions are a deep, dark mystery, but most of them date back to the days of old.

There has been a breach in the ranks of the world beaters, and it was the kind of harmony that was broken. The Cubs have demonstrated, and without which no team can expect to succeed.

The importance of harmony is probably better appreciated right here in Detroit than in any other city, outside of Chicago. For years Detroit harbored a team that was near the top in some years, but not on top, for years.

The reason was given proof when Hugh Jennings came here to manage the Tigers. His first task was to create harmony. This was his biggest job.

After he put harmony into the Tiger camp he made a championship aggregation out of his men.

A club owner may know a lot about baseball, but there are few of them who know quite as much about the game as their managers know. Some owners are simply incidentals, who work with pay day as his only goal, is a poor workman.

The same thing goes in baseball. That's the way the Tigers were working before Jennings came, and that's the way the Cubs were working before Chance brought harmony.

The difference between the two kinds of player has been demonstrated by the results achieved by the Cubs and Tigers. The same thing has always existed and always will exist. There may be men who are capable of doing better work than some of the Tigers and some of the Cubs, but they are not—laying together as the Tigers and Cubs, and therefore those two organizations are nosing out other teams.

When a ball player is satisfied he plays for two reasons—satisfaction and money. That is when he plays his very best. With the satisfaction gone and only the money left as an object, he decreases in value.

The men who are most valuable to their employers are the men who love their work. The man with whom the salary is simply incidental, who works with pay day as his only goal, is a poor workman.

He was having a little sport at my expense. A penny was his best effort. I was waiting for my when he came on his fourth annual appearance. Instead of kicking the broom he whips it in my case that he was a trifle superstitious and would be favored if I would leave it alone. I consented, and as Jack would have it he cracked out his pipe. Now I only smile when I see Ty kick the broom to the right of the door and only remember how sore it made me the first time I saw the Southerner.

Cured of a Severe Attack of Bronchitis by Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.
"On October 1st, last, my little three-year-old daughter contracted a severe cold which resulted in a bad case of bronchitis. I saw Mrs. W. G. Gibson, Lexington, Ky. She lost the power of speech completely and was unable to breathe. Fortunately we had a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in the house and gave it to her according to the printed directions. On the second day she was able to breathe better, and on the fifth day October 23rd, she was entirely well and coughed no more. I attribute this splendid medicine. I recommend Chamberlain's Cough Remedy unreservedly as I have found it the safest and quickest cure for colds, whooping cough, and any I have ever used." For sale by all druggists.

BUY IT NOW! Don't wait for it to go up Four or Five Dollars more per share. Get it while it's cheap. It's on its way to Fifty.

Many people—people who are not informed—will tell you this is bad advice. They will tell you that you are foolish to put your money into any mining stock; but these same people will tell you that the fortunes of America's Greatest Millionaires were made in ventures of this nature. Some people will tell you that I don't know what I am talking about. They will tell you, possibly, that the only reason I advise you to buy is because I have stock for sale—or they will tell you something else equally as foolish—but no person can give you a good, tangible reason as to Why You Should Not Buy Calumet & Sonora. If they say they can, ask them What the Reason Is.

If Any Person Says: Don't Buy, Ask Them Why Not? Make Them Give You Good Reasons. Ask Them for Facts and Figures.

I have not visited the properties of the Calumet & Sonora Company personally, but persons who know much more than I do about mining properties have done so, and I know that the reliability of their statements cannot be questioned—neither can they be refuted.

This Company has in Sight Actual, Marketable Commercial Assets that Can Be Sold Any Day for Four Million, Five Hundred Thousand Dollars

Among others who have reported on the property, Mr. Dwight E. Woodbridge recommends it and praises its management in the highest terms. The only objection he raises being, that the ore carries a considerable percentage of zinc and antimony, both of which cause excessive smelter charges in this country; and he also states that the import duty into the United States is against it. He says further, however, that with the completion of the railroad in Sonora, through the whole Cananea district to Guaymas on the Gulf of California, these objections will be eliminated, and He Is Right.

And here's a former secret—Now a piece of news: The Guaymas Railroad has been completed.

The Governor of Sonora traveled over it YESTERDAY. It was opened for the use of the public today. Don't forget that I told you this. The completion of this road enables the Company to ship its ore to Swansea for treatment, where all of its values will be saved, and where antimony is worth ninety dollars per ton.

Remember also—that aside from its own properties, the Calumet & Sonora owns One Hundred and Twenty Thousand shares of stock in the Duluth & Sonora Copper Company, and that company owns Forty-five Hundred acres in the Cananea District, on which copper has been shown up on almost every part.

The Calumet & Sonora Company has ore worth $4,500,000 ready for shipment. It is in ore in all of its tunnels, shafts, drifts, crosscuts and winzes. Its authorized capitalization is only Six Hundred Thousand Dollars, and of this more than one-fifth is still in the Company's treasury. Its stock is now selling on a basis of practically par, while its actual assets are more than five times that amount. Its properties are all owned in fee. It does not owe a dollar. It has the best of management. It will soon be shipping ore and paying big dividends.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

CROOKSTON IS HOPEFUL

New Year Offers Much for Metropolis of Red River Valley.

Industrial and Farming Interests of Polk County Are Booming.

Crookston, Minn., Jan. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—This city has every reason to welcome the new year with a spirit of optimism not felt in years, as everything indicates that 1909 will bring much prosperity to this section.

With definite assurance that the Crookston Lumber company will operate their big sawmill here this year after having been closed down for the past year, with a full complement of men for a day and night crew, numbering between 250 and 400 men, and a payroll of $5,000 per month, definite assurance that the federal building costing nearly $100,000 will be erected, work starting early in the spring, with an exceptionally large amount of other building operations certain; the recent organization of a Polk County Growers' association, which will better farming conditions, with over 100 students enrolled in the Crookston school of agriculture at the state experiment station here, with the farmers prepared with a bigger acreage ready for crop next spring than they have had in the past years, there is every reason to believe that 1909 will mark a new era in the prosperity and development of this entire section.

To this should be added the completion of the Warroad extension of the great Northern from Crookston, opening another great highway of commerce leading to Crookston. Every business institution in the city has prospered during the past year, and the churches, schools and all other public institutions are in a flourishing condition, and above all, more important than all larders and good bank accounts is the general good health and the absence of any epidemic among the people.

BOON TO FISHERMEN.

Lake of Woods Catch is Now Sent Over Warroad Extension.

Crookston, Minn., Jan. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—The completion of the Warroad extension has resulted in the branch from Crookston to Warroad being christened the "Fish" line. In the past the fishermen of the Lake of the Woods have landed practically all their fish at Kenora, and they were shipped over the Canadian Pacific to the Eastern and Southern markets. With the completion of the new line,

COL. PEAKE EXPECTED TO BE ADJUTANT GENERAL

Bismarck, N. D., Jan. 2.—A committee of national guard officers consisting of Col. Nichols, Capt. Murphy and Lieut. Ritchey waited on the governor yesterday and presented the name of Thomas H. Peake for reappointment as adjutant general of the state guard. The governor is said to have told the committee that he had already decided to appoint Col. A. P. Peake, commander of the First regiment, to the place, as under the law Adj. Gen. Peake was not eligible for reappointment, even if the guard had disbanded him.

It is thought here that Col. Peake will be the next adjutant general regardless of any pressure that may be brought to bear on him, as he will be half of Peake, whose term expires Jan. 7.

Took Break Through Ice.
Needless to say, Jan. 2.—Two little daughters of Peter Jensen were saved from drowning in the Fox river, when they broke through the ice, by men near by. Fargo, N. D., Jan. 2.—(Special to The Herald.)—F. C. Wales, roadmaster of the Fargo division of the Northern Pacific, was killed near Hastings, N. D., Thursday night while clearing snow from the tracks on the Casselton branch.

He was standing on the bank of a cut in which a Russell snowplow was operating, and when the mist cleared away he was found fifty feet from the tracks, apparently having been suffocated by the snow. Death was probably due to being stunned and suffocated.

Mr. Wales was born in Hennepin county forty-eight years ago, and was with the firm as a fireman in St. Paul twenty years before coming here.

FIRE HIS OWN SALOON.

Marinette Saloonkeeper Admits He Is Guilty of Arson.

Marinette, Wis., Jan. 2.—Frank Wojciekowsky, a former saloonkeeper at Crivitz, went before a justice, and, waiving examination, was bound over to the circuit court for trial. He is expected to go before Judge Hastings of the circuit court at Green Bay and plead guilty and take a sentence. Wojciekowsky's saloon at Crivitz was destroyed by fire on the night of Oct. 27. The destruction was total. He had an insurance of $2,000 on the building and $1,000 on the stock. It was afterward learned that a good part of the stock was saved and shipped to Milwaukee. With this as a clue, Deputy Fire Marshal Vanderhook went to work on the case and yesterday at Milwaukee secured a confession from the man. The fire was a large one and endangered the entire town of Crivitz.

ST. MARY On MONDAY JAN. 4th ST. MARY ONLY 50,000 SHARES AT 30c.

On Monday, Jan. 4, we will place on sale and deliver as sold 50,000 of the ONE DOLLAR shares of the St. Mary Mining Company at 30 cents per share. A large proportion of this has already been reserved by those who know a good thing.

The ST. MARY MINE is located in the Star District of Utah. The Red Warrior, Mowtzen and others are close by. The haul to the railroad and to the Majestic Smelter is only about four miles. Our smelter returns prove that the ST. MARY ore runs from $50 to $70 per ton; $1,500 to $2,500 by the carload.

The St. Mary company is capitalized for $500,000. There are 350,000 One Dollar shares issued BUT ALL PAID UP. The only stock on the market in the 50,000 SHARES NOW OFFERED. The property is paid for there are no debts. Duluth interests are acquiring the control of the stock and the majority of the board of directors will be composed of Duluth men. Mr. Patrick Ryan and Mr. D. P. Robling of Salt Lake City are heavy stockholders in the St. Mary and will remain so. They are at present the president and secretary, respectively, and the work at the mine will be under their supervision. Mr. Ryan is an experienced mine operator and in a brother of Dennis Ryan, the man who built the Ryan Hotel at St. Paul out of proceeds from the sale of the famous HORN SILVER MINE, located not far from the St. Mary, Red Warrior, Mowtzen, etc. Mr. Robling is a mining engineer and mine manager of considerable skill.

The St. Mary is one of the best properties ever offered in Duluth. 50,000 shares of its $1.00 stock is to be distributed at the exceedingly conservative price of 30c per share, and this 50,000 shares is the only why should not the stock do as well as Red Warrior?

Requests for stock must be accompanied by remittance in full or in part. If you lack knowledge of mining investments, then take advantage of our judgment on the St. Mary. We offer it as one of the best mining propositions ever offered before you. It is our business to know about mines, and we have thoroughly satisfied ourselves with reference to the St. Mary and our opinion is backed by others that know. Get your share before it is too late.

Butte & Superior.
A few days ago the Butte & Superior company made a small discovery on the 1,200-foot level of the Blackrock mine that is important as going to contradict the testimony and theories of "expert" geologists who have gone on record as declaring that no copper would ever be found in the Blackrock vein. At the recent trial of a suit in Davenport, Iowa, by the American Geological Institute against the existence of copper in the Blackrock vein, about 167 feet south of the shaft and near the center of the Blackrock vein, a small stringer of very high grade copper ore has been cut. Supt. Daxha found it on the floor of the level while

Before the Tramway shaft was put in commission for mining a few weeks ago, the ore mined from the new level of the Minnie Healy mine, about 30 tons per day, was hoisted through the Rarus shaft. The first of the new levels of the Minnie Healey is thirteen, about sixty feet below the old 1,100-foot level, upon which the fire trouble exists. The sixty feet of ground between the two levels is located as a barrier against the fire until it is absolutely under control. Much development has been done at the thirteenth level and a great deal of work opened, but as yet there is no stopping danger at the level the only one that makes out comes from the drifts. It is of a very high grade, fully 50 per cent of it being first class. The vein more than thirty-five feet wide, and prospecting on it is still going on. There are more than a dozen veins at that level. One, which is called a little one, is four feet wide and in a drift of 100 feet it is full of 20 per cent ore. On the 1400 level a crosscut from the Tramway shaft, a distance of 300 feet, the first ore in Minnie Healey's ground was encountered. It is twenty-five feet wide and has been opened for a distance of 150 feet, the same character and extent of ore continuing throughout the drift. Another big ore anybody has been exposed west of the crosscut by another crosscut 165 feet long, which passes through an ore body

Bisbee, Ariz., Jan. 8.—The extent of the new copper discovery at the Hoatson mine, which is said to be the largest ever penetrated on the 1,300-foot level of the Hoatson mine, was made on the 1,400-foot level of the Junction shaft. The ore body contains about 1 per cent sulphur. It is a continuation of the Hoatson ore body. It will be one of the big finds of the district, as it has been found so far east that there has not been fully developed. About 200 feet of it were cut on the 1,300 of the Hoatson, and it is understood that the entire body is so far as development will go. The ore is about 10 per cent copper. The ore bed extends over to the Copper Queen mine. The Handcarable claim adjoining the Del Norte claim of the Hoatson, 400 feet of development will be made. The work of development discontinued when the line was reached. At the Junction shaft a car is shipped daily from the surface to the 1,400 level. The average yields some 100 tons more than any other mine in the district.

Hovland A. Smith has returned from Globe, where he has been looking after his mining interests. He is now in the United States. He has large interests. During his absence he took bonds on several important properties, which are very much to be desired in the territory. He is now making of the mining business. Mr. Smith states that there is splendid progress being made. Much interest

The Origin of the Snow Fairies.

BY WILLIAM WALLACE, JR.

Boys and girls, you have heard of the Snow Fairies; but perhaps none of you know of their origin. But why should I say "perhaps," for I am very positive the story of the Snow Fairies' origin has never been told. And that is why I am going to tell it now, that you may hear something strictly new.

In the very, very long, long ago there dwelt in the Alps a family consisting of the parents and two children, a little boy and a little girl. They were very happy together till one day the father, going out on the icy mountain side, slipped and fell into a deep gorge that was filled with snow. Of course, he was instantly killed, and the poor wife, endeavoring to reach him, hoping that she might find him still alive, lost her footing in the snow and ice and was precipitated to the bottom, lying beside the already cold body of her husband.

Now, can anything be sadder than the fate of those dear little children, Dado, the boy, aged 9, and Pinto, the girl, aged 7? There they were, away up in the mountains, walled in by snow and ice, and surrounded by as wild a country as ever mortal man heard of. There they were, alone, both parents lying dead in the great canyon down the mountain side. And lurking about in the mountain forests were wild beasts whose roars, growls and howls made the night something to be feared by those little orphans. When father and mother were with them they feared nothing. But now that they were alone, and so helpless, their hearts were very, very lonely, and four stalked about with them at every step.

All day long the little Pinto wept and called for the mother she knew could not come to her, and all day long little Dado sat with downcast eyes, his heart too sad to allow of speech. Then as happen—and hoping against hope that all this calamity which had befallen her home might prove to be a dream—caught the sounds, and she looked up from the folds of her apron. Then she quickly touched the hand of her brother and pointed toward the newcomer, directing Dado's eyes thither. "See," she whispered; "it must be a fairy."

"Yes, my little one, I'm a fairy, and I came to earth to see what I might do for you. But how cold it has grown! Ugh, I cannot endure the snow, and it is falling very rapidly outside."

"See, Brother," she whispered, "it must be a fairy."

the night came down the little ones crept close together in a corner by the great fireplace, where the huge logs placed there the day before by their father still burned brightly, and gave out light and warmth.

"I am so hungry," whispered Pinto, thinking of food for the first time that day. "I am so hungry that my head spins round and round."

"You must eat something, Sister," said Dado, rising and going to the cupboard to find some food for his sister. But only a bit of dry bread was there, and Dado remembered that that day was to have been his mother's baking day, and that his father had gone out hunting for meat when he met with the fatal accident.

He gave Pinto the bread, but her sorrow choked her till she could not swallow food, and she put the bread on the table, declaring her hunger had vanished. "It's mother and father I want—not food," she whispered heart-brokenly, burying her face in her apron.

At that moment the door opened ever so gently, then closed again. But during the moment's interval between opening and shutting a white-robed figure had entered the room. Dado, who was looking intently into the fire, wondering what he should do on the morrow for food and fuel for his sister and himself, did not hear the slight noise made by the opening and closing of the massive wooden door, nor the gentle footfall of the intruder. But Pinto, her little ears eagerly listening for anything that might "Snowing?" asked Dado, rising and going close to the fairy.

"Yes, my little one, it is snowing heavily, and I, being a cloud fairy, and always keeping close to the warmer zones, cannot breast this storm. And here I am, as helpless as a human being. But while I cannot change myself nor my climate, I have the power to change others. I can wave my little wand and make or unmake fortunes. And I came here to help you, my little ones. Now, while I warm me by your cheerful fire, tell me your dearest wish and I shall grant it."

The fairy sat down beside the fire and Dado and Pinto drew close beside her. They told of the sad death of their parents, the particulars of which the fairy did not know.

Then they discussed many things, one of them being the weather, and the fairy said with feeling: "Do you know, my little ones, that the fairies would come to the mountainside often if we could brave the cold weather? But we feel the ice and snow keenly, and to remain where the temperature is more congenial. But there are so many little folk in need of the fairy's aid in the loneliness of the mountains that I cannot leave. No fairies that can brave the elements and stay near to those who need them. Ah, if only we had some hardy fairies among us—fairies who love the cold snow!" Hereupon the good little fairy sighed and stretched out her hands to the fire.

For a few minutes not a word was said, and Dado, who had been intently thinking, spoke: "Good fairy, cannot you change my sister and me into fairies—SNOW FAIRIES? If you can we will remain here in the mountains and be of help to the poor children who need fairies' help."

"Brave, noble little boy!" exclaimed the fairy. "I shall try to perform the miracle you suggest. But—and she turned to Pinto, who was listening eagerly to all that was being said—"perhaps the little maid does not wish to become a fairy."

"Yes, yes, I wish to be a fairy, a SNOW FAIRY as brother says. I would not be anything else—it brother is one," Pinto declared enthusiastically.

The good fairy smiled and raised her wand. Passing it slowly over the heads of the little orphans she murmured some strange words; then with a quick turn of the wand she cried: "Change, and now, from human to superb. From man; from boy and girl to Snow Fairies."

A sudden darkness fell in the room, and when again the light of the fire deepened the objects there Dado and Pinto had changed and in their place were two beautiful Snow Fairies, with happiness before them. "Ah, now we shall carry you, dear Cloud Fairy, to your own warm clime," said the Snow Fairy (who had been Dado) speaking to the little fairy whose charm had worked so mar-

How Little Bessie's Wish Came True.

BY MAUD WALKER.

Bessie and Billie were awfully lonely. Their mamma had gone from home the day before and left them in the charge of a very aged aunt. And this aged aunt—Bessie and Billie to make any noise while at play, for she said "children's noises, cats fighting and dogs barking drove her clean distracted." So you will readily understand that Bessie and Billie could not enjoy their play very much while their mamma was absent.

"We can play in the attic," whispered Bessie to Billie as they sat very quietly in the sitting-room after breakfast. Aunt Martha was sitting there also, darning a very long and very heavy woolen stocking. "If we want to play ghost or fairy up there Aunt Martha can't hear us."

"Oh, that's so whispering about!" asked Aunt Martha, turning her sharp eyes toward the corner where her six-year-old niece and eight-year-old nephew sat like tortured little mice, fearing to move lest the old cat might gobble them. "What are you whispering about? You speak aloud? Nobody is going to eat you! Come, who was doing the whispering? I dislike to hear of children who tickle my ears like a fencer who is talking about in them. One only hears stair. And up the steps they went like little culprits, fearing lest their tiny feet might make a noise to disturb the aged aunt below stairs, who was communing thus to her stocking: "Children are a dreadful bother. I am thankful I don't have to put up with 'em very much longer. Their mother ought to be home sometime tomorrow. And she, silly woman, thinks those two noisy, bad-mannered little brats are angels. If they run and scream like wild Indians, she laughs and says: 'Bless my babies! Just see how happy they are.' Balder! Ugh, six and eight! Ought to be put at books and work every hour of the day. They fool away valuable time playing with toys and reading foolish fairy tales. So few people know how to raise children. Hard as it would be, I'd like to take those two children in hand and show their parents what might be made of them."

Meanwhile, Bessie and Billie had reached the attic, closed the door to keep inside all their noise and opened their mouths and cried: "Goody, goody! It's so nice to get away from Aunt Martha."

"What shall we play?" asked Billie.

"I'll play ghost," said Bessie.

"Ugh, no! It's too scary. Brother. The attic is so dark and I'd get so frightened I'd hide and cry. Let's play fairy."

"All right, Sister, let's play fairy. What'll be the fairy—you or I?"

"You be the fairy, Brother, and play 'at I'm a little girl what's lost in the big forest, and 'at I'm crying for my mamma."

"All right," said Billie. "I'll play that I'm in a tree and when you come along under it I look down and see you crying. And I'll ask you, 'What's the matter, little girl? And you must say: 'Oh, I'm lost in the forest, and can't find my mamma. And the bears are about, and a big snake is under the boulder, and I don't know where to go. Oh, please, good Fairy, help me."

"Oh, that will be such fun," cried Bessie, clapping her hands. "And now let's begin."

"Yes, good Fairy, I'm lost in the forest and a big bear wants to eat me, and a big snake wants to bite my big toe. What is the matter?" asked Billie. "Can I do anything for you?"

"Yes, good Fairy, I'm lost in the forest and a big bear wants to eat me, and a big snake wants to bite my big toe. And I can't find my mamma. Will you help me good Fairy?"

"Yes, make a wish, and I shall grant it," replied Billie.

"Well, good Fairy, I want my dear mamma," replied Bessie, and her voice trembled a bit as she said this, for she voiced her dearest wish in very truth as well as in play.

"As she spoke Bessie's wand, saying: 'Wave, wave, for luck. Wave, wave, and keep those in distress. Wave, wave, and help the best home ever. Wave, wave, and struggle the snake before it bites her big toe. Wave, wave, and dan her mother for her, for that is her dearest wish.'

"Ah, bless my babies, what are they doing in this cold attic? And to the surprise of Bessie and Billie their mother came into the attic and had them in her arms, kissing them and hugging them till they could scarcely get their breath. And when at last they could speak, Bessie said: "Mamma, brother made the best fairy in the world. He brought you to me, my dearest wish."

Rhinoceros Blood As Medicine.

The blood of the rhinoceros is very highly esteemed by European and Chinese as a medicine for all kinds of ailments. Whenever a party of hunters are successful in shooting a rhinoceros they are very numerous they used to be—the native hunters carefully draw off the blood and bring it to the nearest town to sell. The precious liquid is worth its weight in silver.

"But it's as cold as the North Pole up there, child," said Aunt Martha. However, a smile of agreeableness played about the sharp corners of her mouth as she said this, for the truth is she thought it a good idea for the "vexatious youngsters" to play somewhere long away from her. She had not been a child for 60 years and had forgotten all about their needs and desires. "What, if you want to play there for half an hour, why, go up and do so. But mind, no tussling down on the floor, or shrieking, or laughing too loudly. I'd like to stay till mamma comes home," whispered Billie to Bessie, as they crept along the hall towards the LESSON NO. 41—THE TEDDY BEAR AND THE ELEPHANT.

A Word About Julia Ward Howe.

Julia Ward Howe, author and reformer, was born May 27, 1819, in a handsome home in Bowling Green, New York city. At the time of her birth that part of the city was the most desirable residence quarter, being both aristocratic and fashionable. Her father, Samuel Ward, was a merchant and banker of New York. Four of her ancestors were governors of Rhode Island, two of them being Wards and two of them Howes. On both paternal and maternal sides Mrs. Howe sprung from fine old blood.

When in her fifth year Julia Ward lost her mother, a beautiful and accomplished woman of 28. Six little ones—of whom Julia was the fourth—were left without a mother's love and care. Of her father Mrs. Ward has this to say: "On both paternal and maternal sides Mrs. Howe sprung from fine old blood. The Actress's Opportunity To Set Fashions - Where Some Stage Frocks Are Made - The "Devil's" Effect on Fashions - Lillian Russell Directoire - The Sensational Anna Held - Salome Influences Dress.

Do actresses set the fashions—or follow them?

It may be said, perhaps, that if the actress follows, she follows so closely in the van of fashion that the first expression of Madame Mode's whimsies are often accredited to her own originality. That some fashions are set by the stage is indisputable. For example: The Jane Harding veil, the Mary Manning curl, the Merry Widow hat, the drop earrings—first worn by Miss Barrymore in "Alice Sit by the Fire"—and other costume items which have leaped into extravagant popularity because in the glare of the footlights they proved so picturesque and attractive.

Peter Pan Dominated Fashion For a Time.

Everybody remembers the Peter Pan epidemic of a few seasons since—how the shops were fairly flooded with Peter Pan hats, Peter Pan veils, Peter Pan shirt-waists, collars and neckties, all because one original little actress devised a particular form of costume as her expression of an imaginary character. Naturally an actress has every opportunity to set the fashions if she will. Here are the inimitable advantages of carefully arranged background, clever light effects, colors chosen to set off her particular beauty to perfection, trained grace and self-poise—and the center of the stage. For the actress the couturier devises her pieces of resistance, the clothes confectioners built to express her ideals and her conceptions of the mandates of her mistress, Madame Mode. To the stage one looks, therefore, for the authoritative hints of what is to come, and many a style which after general adoption seems insignificant and ordinary, at its inception behind the footlights was almost startlingly impossible because of its conspicuous novelty.

Why Women Flock to Society

That woman studies the stage for style ideas is universally admitted. John Drew's airy society dramas, the plays of Miss Barrymore and Miss Maxine Elliot are always crowded with well dressed women seeking ideas in costuming. The dressmakers themselves make a point of "taking in" such plays and pick up many crumbs of style information that would not come to them through the regular channels. Many a dressmaker is staggered by the command to "make a gown exactly like the one worn by So and So" regardless of the fact the patron's face, form and personality are as different from So and So's as day is from night.

How Actresses Dress Off the "Board."

At a recent afternoon reception given by society folk for a charming young actress—an unusual mark of favor by the way, for society is prone to be chary of its favors to stagefolk—the Thespian guests were distinguished by their quiet and correct costumes. Scarcely a blarney or sensational effect was seen, and many of the frocks were rarely beautiful.

At the fashionable dressmaking establishment where are created some of the most important costumes for actresses and society women in New York one is received impressively. Luxurious waiting and fitting rooms are provided as well as a cosy ten room where, in the becoming glow of shaded lights, intimate gossip is exchanged over beverages which—it is whispered—are not always served in innocent toupées.

The Actress Plans With An Artist in Dress.

If an actress is ordering a frock—or a series of frocks, each of which must help express some emotion and situation of her play, Madame lends her ear, her intelligence, her artistic perception and her sympathy, building, bit by bit, in imagination the exquisite creations which will later achieve part of the play's fame. And into each one of the costumes—unless they be intended for a "period" play and must be kept true to a certain date—she will incorporate the utmost of style

Information newly received from Paris.

The actress subordinates style to her own personality and the emotions she seeks to express. The ordinary woman seeks to express "style," regardless of personality or individuality. It is the strong individuality thus expressed on the stage, which often sets a fashion, contrary to the arbitrary mandates of Madame Mode for that particular season.

An Actress' Gown Brings Out Her Best Points.

Mme. Nazimova, whose ethereal slenderness, like Bernhardt's, is one of her fascinations, set the fashion for the towering, stiffly boned stock collar, with her mysterious, melancholy gray gown worn in "The Countess." Miss Maxine Elliot's charming frocks, while correctly modish in every detail, are built, line for line, to express Maxine's personality. Lillian Russell, while willing to conform to general style decisions of the moment, insists upon her costume being a secondary consideration—her wonderful beauty always coming first. Miss Russell, Directoire, is still Miss Russell, and never for a moment appears to have stepped out of a second

Anna Held's Frocks Are Sensational.

The gowns worn by Anna Held in "Miss Innocence" are marvels of ingenious conception. They combine the most extreme features of the present mode with the coquetry, chic and daring that are the characteristics of this little actress. Nobody but herself could wear such costumes, yet many of their style features are copied by hundreds of women.

The satin gown worn in "Miss Innocence" and pictured here is cut on the "mermaid" lines, which outline every rounded curve of the petite figure. The little sleeves of shirred net, caught together with tiny frogs of silver cord, offer a dainty suggestion for an evening frock. The twisted ribbon girdle which hangs at the side covers a suggestion of chaste line and grace—a Middle Age notion considered quite the thing in Paris now.

The cloth cape which Miss Held wears with this gown is particularly graceful. It is caught at one side of the bust under a large jeweled ornament and sweeps downward and backward, making a rich background for the display of the silhouetted satin frock.

"The Devil" Offers Many Style Ideas.

Some of the handsomest costumes on the stage this winter were designed by the late Mrs. Osborn for the "Savage Devil." Society flocked to see this play not only because Mephistopheles is now the mode, but in order to study the striking costumes worn in the performance.

Many of these frocks and hats offered ideas which might easily be duplicated in other fabrics. Miss Olga Hoffmann's stunning afternoon costume of mauve velvet was one of the most delightful gowns in the play. This gown was in simple long lines, and on the big Russian turban of the purplish velvet was a loose cluster of Parma violets. With this velvet costume Miss Hoffmann carried a huge muff of chinchilla fur.

Every Dressmaker Talking of Miss Fredericks' Frocks.

The costumes of Miss Collier and Miss Pauline Fredericks in "Samson," have served as inspiration to many style seekers. No smarter costume has been seen on the stage this year than the white broadcloth carriage gown of Miss Fredericks. This exquisite gown, attempted by any but a master hand, would very likely display the proportion of a white slip. Handed as it is, the fabric falls in straight, lovely lines from the bust to the floor, the waistline being indicated and the sole trimming being the rows of white cloth-covered buttons. With this marvelous gown is worn a big white hat, faced with sable and trimmed with a veritable bush of feathery white egrettes.

Miss Barrymore Is Always Authoritative.

The gowns worn by Miss Ethel Barrymore in her new play, "Lady Fredericks," will surely find hosts of imitators. This graceful young actress' costumes are always much copied, just as her fascinating personality has many would-be imitators who seek by persevering poses to duplicate her languid, indefinite charm.

The gown worn by Miss Barrymore in "Lady Fredericks" is of chiffon over cloth of gold, the chiffon heavily encrusted with gold embroidery. With this gown, which is the costume of a powerful woman of the world, is worn a huge black hat, massed with egrettes. In the boudoir scene in the third act Miss Barrymore wears a lovely velvet gown, made with angel sleeves and embroidered delicately with sweetpeas in shades of pink to mauve.

Stage Neckties Always Make Pictures.

No item of stageland raiment offers more suggestions to the amateur dressmaker than the lovely tangos and boudoir gowns of the leading ladies. No expense is spared, of course, to make these fascinating garments as bewitching adjuncts of the picture scheme, and while the intricate details of fashioning are somewhat beyond the skill of the tyro, the color effects and general lines may often be duplicated very successfully.

Pearls Braided in the Hair.

Another bond-to-be-tied-of costume is Miss Kalsch's gorgeous Byzantine dress worn in the same play. There is a surplus of cloth of gold which hangs straight to the feet, with slashes at the side to show the under tunic of pale green velvet. Long sleeves of the velvet are laced with jewels. With this costume Miss Kalsch wears her hair in two long coils, in which are braided ropes of pearls, and many society women are now having pearl strings braided in their tresses for evening festivities.

The oriental and Byzantine effects being exploited on the stage just now are bound to have their effects on costume. Odette Valery, the Greek-French dancer, has some ravishing Byzantine costumes. Salome is cropping up on every hand—even the statuesque Maxine Elliot essaying the role in her latest play.

The Russian Snook Makes Its Bow.

By summertime no doubt we shall all be familiar with this novel style feature. Just now it is the newest of the new. Miss Kalsch, in "Dora," has a snook of cloth worn over a gumpie with long sleeves of the same material. This snook, or Russian tunic, comes exactly to the knee, and beneath it is a skirt with a fitted blouse starting at the point where the snook ends. Such a snook is worn by a French actress, now playing in a Paris theater. Her snook is of gold lace over a trailing gown of white satin.

Billie Burke Is the Debutante's Model.

The busiest dressmakers always spare time to study little Miss Billie Burke's costumes to get new notions for debutante frocks. Perhaps this charming little actress sets more styles than any other woman on the stage, and the only unfortunate part of it is that all her imitators cannot be as bewitching as she is herself in her gait, her smile, her looks.

Miss Burke's simple little lingerie gown of Swiss embroidery is one of the much talked of stage costumes this winter, but the "simplicity" carefully analyzed, is an interesting example of what genius and dollars combined can accomplish in the way of a perfect debutante frock.

Another authoritative gown in Miss Burke's play, "Love Watches," is the gilded costume worn by Miss Maxine Elliot. This gown is embroidered in Egyptian motifs and is said to indicate one of the coming style features for spring and summer.

The woman who sets out to model her costumes on stage cannot but carefully consider—as does the clever actress—the probable effect of every line and tint with her own lines and tints; and whether the character of the gown will express the character effect which she wishes to convey.

Miss Blanchette Bates is a safe model for the average woman seeker after stage dress ideas. Miss Bates, who is a model of smart and correct in her costuming, is never extreme, and some of her gowns are particularly charming.

UP TO THE MINUTE & NECK DRESSINGS

HAT, muff and neckpiece sets are now made up of so infinite a variety of materials and in so many different shapes that the average woman, and especially the one who aims to dress daintily, considers that at least two such sets are necessary to complete the list of winter wardrobe accessories.

For ordinary service the darker and more durable furs are advisable. Black and brown caracul, plucked muskrat, natural and sabled squirrel combine well with broadcloth and with many other materials now fashionable for runabout tailored street suits. With such costumes are usually worn turbans or toques which have fabric crowns and fur-lined brims, neckpieces centered or edged with fur and round muffs with fur-lined ends.

With ottoman and satin afternoon two and three piece costumes are worn hats of matching material trimmed with ostrich, ermine, sable, mink and white fox bands. The neckpieces take the form of four-in-hand ties, narrow yard-long scarfs and chokers fastening with silk or satin bows, while the muffs are trimmed at the ends with little silken frills or made of fur and silk bands arranged entire deus.

Broadtail costumes charmingly with black velvet, corded silk or tussled chiffon in the high Elizabethan collarettes. In these the pett for the central band and finishes the streamer ends. The hats accompanying such neckpieces are of toque shaped with fabric crowns and fur brims, and the muffs chiefly of pett, with linings and little ruffles of the silken material.

Some of the hats included in the fur and fabric three-piece sets have full military cap crowns of soft silk or of velvet falling toward the left side in a point—these, of course, are for the quite young girls. The neckpiece is often a fur-bordered fabric triangle, with tassels and tassels, and the muff a six-pointed ching, which folds over the hand pocket in a tasseled fur-bordered triangle.

As brown furs combine so happily with golden shades any amount of gold net, flit and tissue is employed for the frillings of muffs and scarfs and for hat trimmings. Gold garnishings are also used with sensibility, one of the daintiest combinations consisting of a fur band tightly encircling the neck and edged with lace frills, the lower one about half the width of the upper, which stands away from the throat like a flower's petals.

Accompanying this collar is a round muff of seal with gold lace-trimmed ends and a fur-lined hat, trimmed with lace ruche. Silver and chinchilla are a favorite combination in three-piece sets. In these metal cloth, ribbon and embroidery are used with the white-gray fur just as with velvet, satin and jetted lace are employed with ermine. Still more artistic are the ermine furs combined with white or coral silk showing silver out-lined black embroideries.

Messaline, taffeta and satin sets have self-covered large and small lace, trimmed with the tiny brushes of the mink or the ermine. The closely shirred fabric neckpieces are trimmed with tails and fasten beneath satin bows. The brush-decorated, shirred flat muffs are usually of the rug order. This shape is simply an oblong piece of material of which one end is garnished with eight brushes and the other with eight lumps and paws. It is thrown over a velvet hand pocket in a manner calculated to reveal the hands overlapping the brushes or with only one or the other "extremity" trimmed ends in evidence.

Some three-piece sets of the more elaborate type are entirely of messaline, velvet or satin. Those of velvet are now considered exceptionally smart with gowns of matching color and material. They have no trimming aside from the satin bows fastening the neckpiece at the side, decorating the ends of the muff and encircling the hat crown.

Three-inch wide ruffles of heavy lace like Irish, point de Venise or Italian are used on the sets, including Charlotte Corday hats, the brim frills being gathered over corded silk brims matching the ruffles which sometimes are lace veiled. Similar frills edge the neckpieces and the flat muffs. The same idea may be carried out in silk and swansdown, but only for a debutante or for a school girl's charming costume. On such sets gold and silver lace is never used, as that sort of trimming is considered too elaborate for very youthful representatives of the gentler sex.

FASHION NOTES.

THE Dainty WOMAN'S HANDKERCHIEFS.

Hemstitched handkerchiefs are this season more in evidence than those having scalloped or points. Those designed for morning use of white shamrock and pure Irish linen are in both plain and crossbar effects. They have triple borders of dark brown, green, blue or gray; inch-wide borders and cross-barred colored centers; one-quarter-inch colored borders with a corner doral wreath including a colored initial or a broad white hem stitched in colors. Empire wreath designs are used on some of the corded handkerchiefs, while others have the figure in one corner only or a running design inside the border and a figure in one corner.

CABACHON TRIMMINGS ARE EASY TO MAKE.

Ready-made satin and velvet cabachon rosettes with metal centers are sometimes the sole trimming of tailored hats, or they are used as a foundation for wing clusters. Sometimes several long-looped wheel rosettes with crushed ribbon or velvet cabachon centers are put on a hat, but usually one is sufficient, especially if made of loop rows clustering like petals about a rose heart. Many of these rosettes are used in connection with a crush silk band trimming the entire crown, and for really hard service there is scarcely anything more practical, as when pinched the band may easily be replaced.

JABOT EFFECTS FOR TAILORED SUITS.

Eighteenth century ruffles are ethereal looking affairs, made from bunch white silk scalloped, closely set triple box pleated these attached through the center and attached to a wide inner ribbon band which joins at the back beneath a dainty bow. These ruffles are sometimes the finishing touch upon the top edge of an onion and a half wide embroidered band or chiffon lined silver and gold, shown under a huge, outspread bow.

KING PETER OF SERBIA.

(Copyright, 1900,

President Roosevelt has to his credit the rescue of a man and his wife of a naval officer, from what might have been a fatal accident. The president was riding in the White House on the morning of one December day in 1903 when he saw Mrs. Pettus, who happened also to be riding there, thrown from her horse. He reined up, dismounted, and, in a cowboy style, seized the horse of the imperilled lady and then, dismounting, freed her and then, dismounting, dismounted himself. He did it all before the man who was escorting Mrs. Pettus, or the president's orderly, who was with him, had time to get into the affair. It was a prompt, energetic, dashing piece of work characteristic of

When the accident happened, Kermit Roosevelt was riding only a few hundred feet behind the carriage. When he saw what had happened, he put spurs to his horse and dashed forward to the rescue. A chase of a quarter of a mile brought him alongside the runaway and he reached over from his saddle to grab the dangling reins. But the runaway horses swerved and in-

Mr. Hilton, who had been thrown from the car, was severely injured, soon joined his wife. It was not until about 10:30 a. m. that the rescuers found that her rescuer was Kermit Roosevelt, "a clasp of the old block." Roosevelt, who is a member of the president-elect Taft's set, was not extensive but was a very capable and a very personal risk to himself. Mr. Taft, who is a member of the same set, was a child from being ground to pieces under the wheels of a locomotive. Mr. Roosevelt was found on the platform of the railroad station at Cincinnati, where he was waiting for Charles. A train drew into the station and he was taken to the hospital. The rescuer of the by-standers, a little child, a few years old, suddenly left the side of the car, ran to the platform, grabbed, tumbled right in front of the car, and was run over. The rescuer of the child and quickly and unhesitatingly ran to the side of the car, grabbed the child, swung her from her feet by her arms out of harm's way and got away with a flying leap.

The President, the President-Elect, Alton B. Parker and David Bennett Hill Are Among the Prominent Americans Who Have Saved Life—The Heroic Life-Saving Act of Kermit Roosevelt, Who Will Accompany His Father to Africa.

From the list of government officials of his place who have saved human life, must not be omitted the name of the late John W. Barker, late president of these United States. Some how, the papers mention his name in the place of rescue work which he performed. When a young waitress at the hotel at Yellowstone lake fell into the water, Mr. Barker, who was sitting on the hotel piazza and smoking a cigar, saw her fall, jumped and pulled her from a watery grave. Some accounts say that he was sitting on the hotel porch, thirty feet deep and brought the girl to shore—she had fallen overboard. The waitress was not wearing a life preserver and some say he fished her out from the end of the hotel. Barker was rewarded and directed the application of first aid measures to bring her back to life.

Bryan a Life Saver. William Jennings Bryan, a heartily disinterested man, has been called a heroic type, and if he has not got the Carnegie medal he ought to have it. It was in 1897. A bad railroad accident occurred several miles distant from Emporia, Kas., on the Atchafalaya River, Santa Fe Railroad. Two trains going at high speed met head-on on a bridge. In one of the trains was Mr. Bryan returning from the Osage county fair at Burlington, Kas., where he had just been elected moderator. He was in the front of the car and when the crash came his car rode over and through the rest of the wreck without going to pieces. But when Bryan and those with him tried to get out they found their car had become a solid block of iron which collaborated, resented. Chafin gave a tremendous ovation from the injured; most of them were his friends and admirers who had gone to the fair especially to hear him talk. And he went among them with water and drink and food, and he took from the unburied cars for their heads, they considered him a venerable hero—as he was.

Eugene Wilder Chafin, the recent candidate for president on the Prohibition ticket may put forth a claim to having saved the life of a fellow being. It was when, during the campaign, Chafin was making a speech from a platform in front of a speakeasy at St. George's Hill. Suddenly a negro appeared, followed by a mob. Chafin says that he could tell from the Secretary Bacon and young Reid jumped into the water and swam to the sink, but they could not reach the man. He came up again, thirty yards away, but they could not get to him. In time to grab him before he went down again, and they kept him afloat until the launch came to his rescue. The men in the launch had meantime hauled in the man floating.

Though the man who had been rescued by Mr. Bacon was injured and did not come ashore, he suffered no harm around for some time. He suffered no harm from the accident, but it was a clear case of life-saving. He was a fisherman from Littleton, but he was drowned by the promptness and bravery of the assistant secretary of

He had swum out alone to show his prowess and had either tried too much or had been seized by a sudden cramp. Judge stated that always a strong swimmer, he plunged at once into the water and reached the drowning man just as he was going down for the third time. The doctor was unconscious. Judge stated that the burden for the rescue was a long pull, and he might not have been able to bring in his man had not David B. Hill come to his assistance. Hill had plunged into the water soon after the first and now came him as he struggled back toward the shore. Between them, they brought the Albany doctor safe to shore, where he was soon revived. Many people well known in society and among the high financiers, and some on the stage, have been very interested in the one time or another savers of Imperilled Life. One day in November of 1901, Joseph Letter gave a dinner party on board his yacht, lying in the harbor of New York, for the

In New York, Mr. Dodge accidentally fell overboard, and Mr. Potter, arrayed as a life guard, jumped in and rescued him. After he had been rescued, Mr. Dodge, after he and supported him until he was able to get on shore.

In the summer of 1933 a rather dramatic rescue took place. George Vanderbilt took a party of about 15 people to the beach at Bar Harbor. One of the party had a swimming pool, and though Mr. Vanderbilt was not a swimmer, he was with the group. One couple of strokes himself, one of the pleasures was to go to the beach and see the water.

One day there was a gathering at the beach. The water was very calm. Mr. Elliott P. Shepard, Mr. Vanderbilt, Mr. Potter, Miss Vanderbilt, and a number of other people were present. Frederick Rinkelander-Jones, young Mr. Elliott P. Shepard, and Mr. Potter were with him. Mr. William Stane, then 16, a Mrs. Charles Dodge, daughter of John Dodge, and a number of other people were present. The guests had been left alone. The guests had been left alone. The guests had been left alone.

Mr. Dodge, who could not swim, fell into the pool, nevertheless plunged into the water to rescue him. He was able to get to the surface, call for help, and was rescued.

His first exploit along the life-saver line was when he was a "middy" in the royal navy, and his ship was at Port Stanley, in the Falkland Islands. A boat was overturned and a life-saver ship sent to the rescue. But the life-saver ship was a sailor who could not swim. He was thrown into the water. Hastily trying to find a line about his waist, Baresford jumped overboard to the rescue. He swam a line to the sailor and caught him as he was going down. He pulled him up and then the strong tide which was running in would have swept them both away had Once Beresford jumped into the water at Liverpool and pulled the big black man who was drowning. The man did not even thank his rescuer. "Why are you so ungrateful?" asked bystander. "Huh!" replied the man. It was such a little matter.

While the men on shore hesitated, Henry appeared among them and volunteered to lead them. His attempt to reach the wreck was unsuccessful, but he said when driven by the storm: "We must try it again. We must reach them somehow." He urged the men and again they put off. The tug which bore them was lost in a blinding snow storm from the anxious gaze of the people on shore. It was 5 o'clock in the afternoon, four hours after the accident. It was not till 9 o'clock that the tug was heard announcing its return, with a long list of saved persons. The prince had not only directed the rescuers, but had worked with them.

His family had been forced from the throne by the usurpation of the other peasant prince, swineherd Milos, and he was serving as a volunteer in the army of the prince of Montenegro while the prince was waging a futile war against the Turks. BUILDING BOOM IS IN PROSPECT FOR DULUTH

New Year Finds Real Estate Men Enthusiastic Over the Outlook—Review of the Year 1908 in Realty Circles—Some of the Buildings in Prospect for 1909.

Men in every line of business welcome the year 1909 with full assurance that it will be the greatest in the history of Duluth, but none more so than the real estate men. The prosperity of a city is more surely reflected in the real estate market than in any line of business. When the city slumps, real estate values are the first to go; when a city progresses, real estate values and the realty market are in the van of the march of progress. Just now, the city is progressing and the real estate market is in about as healthy a condition as it has been for years.

The year 1908 did not bring forth great things in real estate, but looking back over the year, the men who are interested in values and sales of property may well be satisfied. A year ago, the outlook was gloomy. The panic had just worked its devastation with the finances of the people and there was little heart for real estate investments. The year hasn't been as good as many years Duluth real estate men have seen, but the business was such that it was merely the preliminary to a greater movement that casts a ray of optimism over the whole market on the beginning of the new year.

The sales during the past year weren't large on the whole. A few valuable pieces of business property changed hands, but the bulk of the business was made up of purchases for permanent use. The "Build Your Own Home" cry, which has been started in many new residences already erected, has had its effect in many hands have acted upon the realization that money that costs a ray of optimism over the whole market on the beginning of the new year.

The sales during the past year weren't large on the whole. A few valuable pieces of business property changed hands, but the bulk of the business was made up of purchases for permanent use. The "Build Your Own Home" cry, which has been started in many new residences already erected, has had its effect in many hands have acted upon the realization that money that costs a ray of optimism over the whole market on the beginning of the new year.

picked up by eager homebuilders at good prices and residences have either been erected or will be before many months pass. The boundaries of the fine residence district of the East end have been extended to take in Twenty-sixth and Twenty-seventh avenues and property up as far as Sixth street is now in demand. Third street has been the favorite and by the first of next year, that street will be lined with fine residences on both sides. From Twentieth to Twenty-seventh avenues east, Third street property offered desirable sites to prospective home-builders and they have taken advantage of them in untold numbers.

The city is surely extending its limits. Up on the hill, as far back as Fourteenth street, property is bringing good prices. Out at Lakeside and Laketer Park, good sales have been made during the year. West Duluth and the West end have shared in the general prosperity, and all over the city there is a feeling of optimism.

The building side of the city's growth has been more pronounced during the past year than has the real estate side. The amount of the permits issued by Building Inspector S. M. Kieley is over $300,000 greater than during the year 1907. At the present time, there are over a half million dollars worth of buildings in construction in the city and fully a half million dollars more planned to begin construction next summer. The city has experienced in recent years in progress the most rapid growth in its history.

The estimated cost of buildings, for which permits were issued by the building inspector up to Thursday evening was $2,329,526, against $2,427,735 during the year 1907. During December alone permits were issued for buildings estimated to cost $33,150, while in December 1907, the estimated cost of the buildings for which permits were issued was $61,000.

The big building operation of the year was, of course, the new St. Louis county courthouse. The contractors on the building have made good their promise that they would have the big building under roof by New Year's. They have it under roof now and the interior work will go on with the same dispatch the contractors have shown in putting up the outside walls. By Sept. 1, 1909, the county officials will be ensconced in their new home, the most beautiful building in the county, or even in Northern Minnesota.

The largest permit issued by the building inspector was for the Sellwood building, corner of Second avenue west and First street. It was estimated to cost $225,000. The new addition to the Board of Trade building, corner of Second avenue west and First street, was set down at $100,000. And the Y. M. C. A. building at $80,000, though the actual cost of the latter building was nearer $100,000. The new Christie building on Fourth avenue west was $70,000 and the new DeWitt-Seltz building on Lake avenue, no permit for which has yet been issued will cost $50,000. The new cold storage plant at the foot of Seventh avenue west cost $20,000 and the new Elks' home on First street about $10,000.

Other building permits running $10,000 or over, issued by the building inspector during the year were: Lundberg & Fransen, store, $15,000; Polz building, $55,000; John Guger, apartments, $25,000; H. A. Blume, laundry, $25,000; Slogomac company, store, $25,000; Duluth Brewing & Maltting company, addition, $25,000; W. H. Cole residence, $16,000; D. B. McDonald, residence, $20,000; P. Johnson, apartments, $11,000; Christ Anderson, apartments, $27,000; W. C. Sherwood, store, $15,000; Consolidated Elevators, pump-house, $12,500; Ouellette & Baxter, factory, $12,500; E. F. Strickland, apartments, $22,000; Ward Ames, Jr., residence, $11,500; A. Fluger & Co. office, $25,000; Massachusetts Realty company, apartments, $12,500; Hugh Fawcett, residence, $12,000; A. L. Orlean, store building, $25,000; W. E. King, residence, $12,000; P. McDonnell, residence, $22,000; Walter J. Hoch, store, $10,000; Henry P. Jones, apartments, $27,000; D. B. Macdonald, office building, $20,000; Ensign school, $22,000; Edmond M. D. church, $25,000; George A. Horned, cold storage plant, $20,000.

Lake avenue has sprung into more prominence as a wholesale district during the year, several new buildings being planned for there. Michigan street, in the wholesale district, is crowded with the natural expansion was toward Lake avenue, property on which was appropriated considerably in value. The completion of the new building of the Northern Shore company was an important step, and the DeWitt-Seltz company picked up a fine site and began the construction of a $60,000 building. The National Biscuit company has a site for a fine branch on Lake avenue, and several other sites for wholesale buildings have been purchased.

ATTRACTIVE BUNGALOW WHICH WOULD COST $2,900 TO BUILD HERE

"ANTHONY PUCK ARCH'T."

This illustration shows a design for a cozy and inexpensive bungalow of five rooms. It would make an ideal little home for two in which to begin housekeeping, or for a young couple and compactness appealing especially to a bride who plans to do her own housework. A bungalow, with the convenience of a flat, with the advantages for light and air of a detached dwelling, and every opportunity for individuality of design, all of which go to make a thoroughly attractive home. A cottage of this type is most appropriately erected on a suburban lot, preferably of large size, with irregular grades, a few trees and shrubs, and a garden or two.

The plan shown above, though small, is roomy in effect and conveniently laid out. From a spacious porch a vestibule leads into a small hall. One side of the hall is entirely open to the living room, which is a large, cheerful apartment, lighted by casement windows. A wide fireplace on the side opposite the entrance to the room adds much to its attractiveness. The dining alcove, used as it is in connection with the living room, is as serviceable for a large dinner party as for a family group. The kitchen, with its built-in sink and refrigerator, is not being limited to the area of the alcove, as is usually the case, but by a glance at the plan, so, though the house is small, it is convenient for the family group. The kitchen, the bathroom and the bedrooms are provided for all purposes, than make complete and useful arrangement. Access to the basement is gained from the kitchen. The small rear porch has space for a refrigerator.

The arrangement of the bedrooms and bathroom of a small private hall, is a good feature of the plan. Ample closet space is also provided. The bedrooms are well lighted and ventilated and of ample size for their purpose.

As the sketch shows, the exterior presents a pleasing appearance by its simplicity of detail; its window groups, its eaves, its roof, and its porch. The exterior walls of the home are of stucco and the roof is of cedar shingles. The windows, as shown, are casement windows hinged to swing out.

The foundation is of concrete with only part excavated for basement, with heater room, fuel room and cellar. The floors throughout are of maple and the finish in the hall, living room and dining alcove stained fir or Southern pine, and in the kitchen, bathroom and bedrooms channeled pine.

A bungalow, as above described, would cost to build in Duluth or vicinity including heating plant, and plumbing $2,900.

--	---

Two weeks ago I advised selling Amalgamated and North Butte for two points and buying back for the advance. I did not hit the lowest or the highest (impossible), but I was right as evidenced by the market figure today. I have advised buying Butte-Montana upon statements and facts. I have written the copper situation from time to time and I have yet to know that I have advised wrongly.

See these telegrams in answer to mine: "Scott hoisting fifty tons a day, 6 per cent copper." Signed, W. H. Lindsay. To this I wired, "Hoisting is good, shipping effect; shipping is better, when will you commence?" In reply to this I received the following: "Shipping five carloads this week will commence daily shipments." Signed, W. H. Lindsay. The original telegrams are on file in Rosendahl's office. These shares are in the neighborhood of fifty to fifty-five cents, can it be understood why? I cannot. I say buy. Later only a few days it will be impossible to secure them anywhere near this figure. Look for 100-ton shipments daily and increasing all the time. I advised Pittsburg-New York. See report attached and act promptly with your brokers.

Exact statistics of the dead and the buried, because all the dead bodies were buried undated. It is equally impossible to make any accurate count of the dead, because the bodies were scattered from one end of the day to the other. The pope left Messina and the Messinese came. As the total population of Messina is about 100,000, and about 150,000, and as there are about 15,000 people in the city, the total number of dead probably amounts to 115,000. The ceremonies are celebrated in the afternoon, and the pope will give thanks for past misdeeds and to implore still truce. The pope spends his day receiving greeting from the foreign diplomats. The pope is very popular; the pope admits privileged hundreds to his mass and during the day he will receive all the people who wish.

But these ceremonies and the feast of St. Peter were wanting yesterday. In stead of rejoicings, Rome is filled with grief. The pope has the confidence of all is grief for the destruction of Messina.

TAWNEY IS PLACED IN ANANIAS CLUB BY THE PRESIDENT

Message on Secret Service Raps the Minnesota Congressman.

Says Tawney Perverted Meaning of Letter From Corteyou.

Denies He Said That Congressmen Feared Investigation.

Washington, Jan. 4.—President Roosevelt today sent a special message to the house of representatives in answer to the resolution regarding the president's comments in his last annual message on the secret service. The president says:

I am wholly at a loss to understand the concluding portion of the resolution. I have made no charges of corruption against congress nor against any member of the present house. If I had proof of such corruption affecting any member of the house in any matter as to which the federal government has jurisdiction, action would at once be brought, as was done in the cases of representatives Williamson, Hermann and Briggs, at different times since I have been president. This would simply be doing my duty in the execution and enforcement of the laws without respect to persons. But I do not regard it as within the province or the duties of the president to report to the house alleged delinquencies of members, or the supposed "corrupt action" of a member in his official capacity.

The membership of the house is by the Constitution placed within the power of the house alone. In the prosecution of criminals and the enforcement of the laws the president has no part to the courts of the United States.

A careful reading of this message will show that I said nothing to warrant the statement that the majority of congressmen were in fear of being investigated by the secret service. On the contrary, I have always not only deprecated but vigorously reprobated the practice of indiscriminate attack upon congress and indicate condemnation of all such attacks.

Moreover, I have never made any such statement about congress as a whole, nor with respect to individual congressmen. I have always not only deprecated but vigorously reprobated the practice of indiscriminate attack upon congress and indicate condemnation of all such attacks.

SECRECY MARKS INVESTIGATION

Jury Resumes Inquiry of Packers—Railroad Relationship.

Chicago, Ill., Jan. 4.—With secrecy precautions redoubled, the federal grand jury today resumed investigation of the relations between the big meat packing establishments of Chicago and the railroads.

United States District Attorney Sims is making every effort to keep details of the inquiry quiet until results can be announced.

Witnesses were carefully guarded by secret service men today and the district attorney stated that he would demand full sentence for any witness who divulged the secrets of the jury.

He promised similar treatment to anyone not authorized seeking to secure such information from a witness.

Widow of Slain Captain Tells of More Cruelties.

Medina, Pa., Jan. 4.—Today Mrs. Florence Erb again took the stand in defense of herself and her sister, Mrs. Katherine Beisel, charged with the murder of Capt. J. Clayton Erb at the Erb country home last October.

When court adjourned Saturday Mrs. Erb was under cross-examination by District Attorney McBride, who was attempting to break down her story that her husband treated her cruelly and that he was shot and killed by Mrs. Beisel in defending their lives.

Mrs. Beisel will take the stand tomorrow to tell of the shooting. Mrs. Erb says she did not witness.

NEW LAWS PROPOSED

Measures to Occupy Attention of North Dakota Legislature.

Would Take Election of Supreme Court Out of Politics.

Bismarck, N. D., Jan. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—In some respects the session of the legislature that will be convened Tuesday here, should be fully as interesting, if not more so, than any previous session, for should be a part of the legislation that will be proposed during the sixty days of the assembly be carried, the code will be added to considerably.

The primary election law is one subject that will of necessity take up considerable of the time of the session. The existing law has been given its initial trial, and there is considerable dissatisfaction with several of the provisions, principally with relation to the election of the United States senator.

Many new methods will be proposed, while an effort may be made to amend the law altogether, but there is little likelihood of such action being taken.

The second choice feature with relation to the selection of senators, as in effect in Washington, will be proposed, but along a line entirely different from that of the Western state's statute.

The placing of the election of supreme judges entirely outside of party politics is another proposition that will be sought. The details of the measure are being discussed by the author of the bill, other than that it will work to put the bench out of politics for all time to come.

The step proposed is a decidedly radical one, and opposition to it is becoming law is certain.

Temperance legislation will as usual take a front rank. D. H. Streeter of the twenty-sixth district is here again and it is generally expected that he will father a resubmission bill.

The temperance members have prepared bills to strengthen the prohibition law and make it even more difficult for illegal sales to be made within the state.

PARIS, JAN. 4.—A scrutiny of the results of the elections in France yesterday, for members of the chamber of deputies, shows that the radicals and the Radical-Socialists have made net gains of fifteen seats. The Social-Independents gained one seat, while the Progressives lost eighteen.

Thus it is seen that the election has been a victory for the government and particularly for the radicals.

FLOCKING TO ST. PAUL

House and Senate Members Arrive for Legislature's Opening.

Duluth's Requests for Committee Places Likely to be Granted.

(From a Staff Correspondent.) St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Members of the Minnesota state legislature are gathering today for the opening of the thirty-sixth session at noon tomorrow and by tonight, when the caucus of the house will be held to decide the house organization, it is expected practically all the members will be on the ground.

The preliminaries are unusually tame, because no important office is left undecided. The speakership of the house is merely a matter of formal endorsement by tonight's caucus and tomorrow's session of the legislature.

A. J. Rocke of Zumbrota, whose advance from a prominent floor leader through several sessions to the speakership, is a recognition of merit.

Talk over the speakership, faded away when the members arrived on the ground. Former Speaker Johnson is a good loser, and the fact that important committee chairmanships.

CONGRESS APPROPRIATES $800,000 FOR RELIEF OF THE QUAKE SUFFERERS

Sending of Supplies in American Warships is Given Approval.

Washington, Jan. 4.—In response to the president's message, congress today made an appropriation of $800,000 for the relief of Italian earthquake sufferers, the amount becoming immediately available. There was a direct appropriation of $500,000 for the relief of the stricken people and an appropriation of $300,000 to cover the expense of the dispatch of the supply ships Cettie from New York and the Culgoa from Port Said for Messina with their big cargoes of necessities, and the president's order of the Italian victims. It also supplies the president's order of the services of the entire American fleet of sixteen battleships, whose use, in whole or in part, limited only on the general acceptance or declination of the Italian government.

The message. Washington, Jan. 4.—In a special message sent to congress today, President Roosevelt asked that an appropriation of $800,000 be at once made for the relief of the earthquake victims in Sicily, and requested that his action in sending the government supply ships, Cettie and Culgoa, to the scene of the disaster, be approved. The message follows:

To the Senate and House of Representatives: The appalling calamity which has befallen the people of Italy is followed by distress and suffering throughout a wide region among many thousands who have escaped with life, but whose shelter and food and means of living are destroyed. The ordinary machinery for supplying the wants of civilized communities is paralyzed, and an exceptional emergency exists which demands that the obligations of humanity shall have no limit of national lines.

The immense debt of civilization to humanity; the warm and fast friendship that exists between our country and our own; the affection for their native land.

OPERATES ON CASTRO

Berlin, Jan. 4.—Ex-President Castro of Venezuela, was operated on this morning by Dr. Israel, the German specialist, for the kidney complaint with which he is suffering.

The operation is designed to overcome the effects of an unsuccessful one performed in Venezuela about a year ago. The present operation was regarded as so dangerous that before submitting to it Castro caused the following statement to be given out:

"I can only express satisfaction that this operation is in the hands of a man who the whole world may know I did not come to Germany so to shrink from my absence."

Castro came through the operation fairly well and is doing as well as could be expected.

FLORIDA GOVERNOR IS INAUGURATED

Tallahassee, Fla., Jan. 4.—The inauguration of Governor Albert W. Gilchrist, as executive of the state of Florida, took place here today.

The case came to the court on a petition filed by the government asking the court in a petition for a writ of certiorari to order up the record in the case for the review of the decision of the United States circuit court of appeals for the Seventh circuit by which Judge Landis' original decision imposing a fine of $29,000,000 against the Standard Oil for accepting rebates from the railroad companies were reversed.

In the supreme court the case turned largely on the right of the court to interfere in view of the fact that the case has been passed upon by the court of appeals, the government contending for such privileges as a right, while it was urged in behalf of the oil company that the precedents were all against such a proceeding.

The action of the court consisted in the announcement that the government's petition would not be granted, and the effect of this announcement will be to leave standing the decision of the court of appeals, which was adverse to the government and favorable to the company.

OPERATES ON CASTRO

Berlin, Jan. 4.—Ex-President Castro of Venezuela, was operated on this morning by Dr. Israel, the German specialist, for the kidney complaint with which he is suffering.

The operation is designed to overcome the effects of an unsuccessful one performed in Venezuela about a year ago. The present operation was regarded as so dangerous that before submitting to it Castro caused the following statement to be given out:

"I can only express satisfaction that this operation is in the hands of a man who the whole world may know I did not come to Germany so to shrink from my absence."

Castro came through the operation fairly well and is doing as well as could be expected.

THE HEALTH OF THE CITY

The annual report of Health Commissioner Patton shows that Duluth got off easily, as compared with other years, in the number of smallpox cases reported during 1908.

The total number for the entire year was 573, and there have been no cases reported since early in September. There are no cases on hand at the present time.

The Seventh ward led in the number of smallpox, diphtheria and scarlet fever cases reported. There were 137 cases of smallpox, twenty-four of scarlet fever, and 211 diphtheria. The lightest wards in the smallpox report were the Fifth and Eighth, with ten cases each.

There were only 120 cases of scarlet fever in Duluth during the entire year. At the present time there are thirteen cases under quarantine.

The total number of diphtheria cases was 567. At the present time there are forty diphtheria cases under quarantine. The Eighth ward, with fifty-five, had the smallest number of cases.

The general health of the city has been of a high average, and it is expected Duluth will easily maintain its position as being the most healthful city of its size in the United States.

MONTHLY REPORT OF THE POLICE

According to the monthly report of the police department there were 308 arrests during December. Thirty-three of these were women.

The municipal court netted $2,151.32 in cash fines. Arrests were made in the cases of four saloons kept open after hours, and one for being open on Sunday.

Five men and one woman were arrested charged with assault in the third degree. One hundred and forty-nine men and two women were arrested for being drunk. Eleven men and three women were given a ride in the patrol wagon and placed on exhibition in municipal court, because of disorderly conduct.

Five men were arrested for grand larceny in the second degree, and fifteen for petty larceny. Two were taken into court for violating the health ordinance.

NEED PROVISIONS FOR WINTER

Mayor Haven, chairman of the Northern Minnesota fire relief commission, this morning received a report from the north shore to the effect that eleven families living there were in need of further relief.

The assistance asked for will not amount to much, as far as money is concerned. No more building material is needed, and whatever help rendered hereafter will be in the shape of provisions for the winter. Mayor Haven expects to leave for Chisholm the latter part of the week to conclude the work of the commission in that town.

LOAFING ON THE JOB

Leap year was a failure in Duluth. Perhaps it was because Duluth girls are too bashful to take advantage of their opportunities, or, perhaps, because the eligible bachelors were too wary to be caught, but whatever the reason is, there were fewer marriage licenses issued by the clerk of the district court during the year 1907.

The total number of licenses issued during the year just closed was 1,556, compared with 1,534 in 1907, or a decrease of sixty-eight.

BOY GIVEN LARGE SUM

The case of Nick Hechtovich, by guardian, versus the Oliver Iron Mining company, was settled in open court this morning by stipulation. The plaintiff being awarded $5,500 damages for injuries received in blasting. Hechtovich, through his guardian, sued for $50,000 damages.

The accident occurred at the Holman mine, March 10, 1908. Blasting was being done at the time, and young Hechtovich, after a report of several of the charges, went to one of the holes to examine the fuse. The blast had been delayed, and just as the boy bent over the hole, it exploded. He was blinded in both eyes and his face disfigured.

In his suit the guardian set up the claim that the material in the explosive was defective, thereby causing the delay in the explosion.

BURDICK MADE CAUCUS NOMINEE

Bismarck, N. D., Jan. 4.—(Special to The Herald.)—Ursus L. Burdick of Cavalier county was this morning agreed upon in the insurgent caucus as candidate for speaker, and at a general Republican caucus called for tonight, forty-eight progressives, who took part in the caucus this morning, will support him. The endorsement of Burdick came after George White of Trall and H. G. Skulason of Grand Forks had withdrawn, the third ballot being unanimous.

A straight Republican caucus had been called for 11 o'clock this morning for the purpose of organization, but was adjourned till the afternoon, because of the insurgent caucus. It will probably be then adjourned till tonight at which time all the Republicans are expected to get together. Should the forty-eight entering the insurgent caucus this morning abide by the result, as is expected, Burdick will be speaker. The Cavalier county man became prominent as a candidate Sunday night at an insurgent conference, over which he presided. Of the regular Republicans D. E. McCrea of Pennington county is the leading candidate for speaker.

W. D. Justin of Fargo for chief clerk and J. Griffith for assistant were agreed upon by insurgents. The senate caucus was held Sunday evening at which time Judson Limour was made chairman and Maynard Crane, secretary. Three senators being absent adjournment was taken until this evening when the entire delegation will be present. The committees on appointments, composed of Judson Limour, J. B. Sharpe, E. A. Mowus, Maynard Crane, A. McDonald, Frank Talcott and Theo. Kottel, will report tonight.

A plea for clemency was made by an attorney for the defendant and resisted by Samuel Knight, who was employed by the Japanese government as special prosecutor.

It is not likely that the case will be appealed.

Sale Takes on New Interest.

The Giddings sale, which has been holding much attention, now includes all domestic and hand-made undermuslins. Reductions run to 50 per cent.

MRS. A. N. EDDY DEAD.

Washington, Jan. 4.—Mrs. Augustus N. Eddy of Chicago died here Saturday night at 7 o'clock, after a lingering illness. At her bedside when she died was her husband, Augustus N.

Eddy, her sister, Mrs. Marshall Field, who arrived from Europe as a victor in the race with death a few hours before the final summons, and her daughter, Mrs. Catherine Eddy Beveridge, wife of United States Senator Albert J. Beveridge of Indiana.

Spencer Eddy, son of the deceased, who has been minister to Argentina, and is the newly appointed United States minister to Romania, is reported Friday to have taken passage at Buenos Ayres on the German cruiser, Capt. Ortendall for Bucharest to assume charge of the new post. He left Buenos Ayres before his mother's death, unaware of her precarious condition.

More Cold Storage Houses
May be Erected
There.

Rumors that local produce and fruit commission houses have been looking over real estate on Michigan street, in the neighborhood of Sixteenth, Nineteenth and Twentieth avenues west, have given rise to the theory that the comparatively near future will see the erection there of several storage houses.

The Central Butter & Egg company is at present erecting a substantial cold storage plant at the corner of Michigan street and Nineteenth avenue west and it is whispered that several down town concerns are negotiating for property in the immediate vicinity.

This does not necessarily preclude the possibility of the down town commission row, but rather indicates that some of the big houses are to have storage places in the West end as well. With the advent of the Wisconsin Central yard will be the quick handling of freight. The big yards on the Northern Pacific will be at hand and the Wisconsin Central yard will be to open up a new territory for Duluth houses to tap for produce of all kinds.

While it is not known that any concerns besides the Central company are to have plants there, it is stated on good authority that several concerns in the produce and fruit business are negotiating for property in that locality.

WILL CLOSE EARLIER.

Clothing Merchants Will Give Employees More Time Off.

The following merchants have agreed to the new schedule: Fiedle Clothing company, Charles Morley & Co., J. A. Kneezey, S. W. Hill, S. Van Wagner, L. Guisness, Victor Juten and Alfred Johnson.

West End Shortfalls.

Dean Coventry and Edward Meuser have returned to Minneapolis to resume their studies at the state university. Hundreds of skaters are expected to see the first of the season's skating on the bay rink at the foot of Twenty-first avenue west, Saturday and Sunday. A hockey game between the first and second teams of the Alumni association resulted in a victory for the first team by a score of 1 to 0.

The West End Republican club will meet tomorrow evening in President Johnson's office, Twenty-first avenue west and First street. Officers will be elected and plans for the democratic campaign in the Sixth and Seventh wards.

The West end lodge of the Modern Brotherhood of America will meet tomorrow evening in the school there. New officers will be installed then.

Charles J. Shull has returned to South St. Marie after a visit with relatives in the West end.

Mr. and Mrs. Anderson have gone to Bayfield, Wis., to visit their daughter, Mrs. W. E. Close.

Miss Lucy Gilard of West First street has gone to Hibbing to visit relatives.

Miss Hazel Hopkins has returned to Duluth to resume her duties as a teacher in the school there.

Misses Agnes and Ethel C. Carrington of St. Cloud, Minn., and Mrs. G. E. Johnson of the West end, have spent the night at the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. John J. Moen, who returned to Chicago.

WAS SLUGGED AND ROBBED

Wisconsin Man Relieved of $100 in Cash and Watch.

Ole Tigen of Edgerton, Wis., claims to have been slugged and robbed on Third street, near Fifth avenue west, late Saturday night. He lost a gold watch valued at $125, a certificate of deposit on an Edgerton bank for $200 and about $100 in cash.

According to Tigen, he was associating with strangers during the evening and buying them drinks, displaying his roll of money while doing so. He thinks that when he broke away from the other men some of them followed him and hit him over the head when opportunity offered.

The blow rendered him unconscious, and when found by a pedestrian, lying on the walk, he had not yet entirely regained his senses. Patrolman Butcher took him to police headquarters, where he spent the night, as the robbers did not even leave him the price of a bed.

Number of Births in Duluth During 1908 Shows Increase.

Seventh Ward Leads List—More Boys Than Girls.

The number of births in Duluth during the year just closed was 1,737, according to records in Health Commissioner Patton's office at the city hall.

The number of boys born exceeded the number of girls by 67. Among the babies there were 822 males and 825 females. The total number of births in 1907 was 1,684, and of this number 783 were girls and 901 boys. The increase in the total of 1908 over 1907 is 53.

The Seventh ward led the city in the number of births, with 411. The Seventh is the largest and most thickly populated ward in the city. The smallest number of births was 92 in the Third ward. NEW BOARD IN OFFICE

Three New County Commissioners Begin Their Term.

Neil McInnis Is Likely to be Chosen Chairman.

Though today was the day for all officers elected at the November election to take up their duties, the fact wasn't evident at the St. Louis county courthouse. All of the old officers held over, the same deputies were at their desks, and the business of the county was carried on as usual.

Tomorrow afternoon, at 2 o'clock, the new county board will convene for its annual session. The only evidences that an election was held in November will be three new faces on the board, succeeding E. M. Patterson from the First district, John Sandeen from the Third and Charles Kauppi from the Fifth districts. The personnel of the board for the coming two years will be: First district, Alexander Fraser; Second district, George Fischer; Third district, J. W. Cumpling; Fourth district, Grant McInnis; Fifth district, Albert S. Overton; Sixth district, Neil McInnis; Seventh district, P. J. Ryan.

The election of a chairman of the board, the awarding of the annual contracts of the county and other business of the annual meeting will come up. E. M. Patterson, former chairman of the board, retires and there is some speculation as to who will succeed him. All four members, who hold over, are possibilities, but Neil McInnis of the Sixth district is said to be the most likely candidate, on account of his long service on the board.

The tax books for 1908 were opened at the county treasurer's office today and the taxes are now payable. Until June 1 is given for the payment of one-half of the taxes on real estate and no penalty attaches if that amount is paid, the remainder to be paid by Nov. 1. In case no part is paid before June 1, a penalty of 10 per cent attaches to the whole and if one-half is paid before June 1 and the remaining one-half is not paid before Nov. 1, an additional penalty of 10 per cent is attached on that date.

The delinquent tax list for the past year is also compiled today and turned over to the county auditor for collection. A penalty of 5 per cent addition to those added on June 1 and Nov. 1 goes on when the delinquent is certified to the county auditor, and delinquent taxpayers will be compelled to pay the principal and added penalties before their property is released from encumbrance.

We Opened Duluth's Greatest White Sale With Greater and Richer Stocks and More and Bigger Bargains Than Ever! Come at 8:30 Tomorrow.

THE most famous of Duluth White sales started this morning! Great as our past successes have been—in assortments, quantities, qualities and values, it will eclipse any White Sale ever held in this store or in this city! In a year full of unusual conditions, we have taken advantage of every slump in the market—we've saved our greatest prizes for this sale—stocks are rich with exclusive things not to be duplicated elsewhere now or here later—and many lines are offered at less than today's mill prices! No mill ends! No remnants or imperfect goods here.

1908 WAS THE BANNER YEAR OF OUR BUSINESS CAREER.

The most particular customers of other stores had to "look around" more than usual last year—and their eyes were opened to the advantages so many of you had long enjoyed in trading here. The fact that we sell the better qualities—the tastier styles at prices noticeably less than the older stores, cements new trade here quickly—and the splendid increase in our business justified the greater efforts, resulting in the marvelous list of good things in which we now invite you to share.

"Honest to goodness," said the sales-lady, "I hope that this Christmas present exchange business will let up now. When I think," she said, and she lifted her psyche knob bodily from its place at the nape of her neck to about the crown of her head, and then let it drop back again, "of the perfect ladies who come in here and want some little dinky thing exchanged for some other little dinky thing, only cheaper, and then get some money back, I do wonder that their ain't more women financiers. They don't finance it out of us, though, you bet your boots. But, honest, it's tiresome."

Exchange Christmas gifts. Now, who'd have thought it? A little inquiry reveals the fact that a third of Duluth has lately been exchanging Christmas gifts. Some of the stores during this last week to get in exchange something, which it thinks it wants, for something that somebody thought it wanted. From the individual who wants to exchange one pair of terribly nice silk stockings, for six pairs of just ordinary wearing many others, left today, to exchange one chased baking dish for two candles and a half dozen tea-caddies, and two baby pins, the Christmas exchange holds the attention of the stores the week following Christmas. The merchants know it, and do their best to attract attention by announcing sales that would get the most phlegmatic woman excited.

The sentiment that hovers around a Christmas gift doesn't hover so thick out that five out of every ten women who have what can be secured in exchange. The clerks are heaving sighs of relief for they have, they hope, seen the last of the tissue wrapped Christmas presents. Christmas, in fact, is past and gone.

Gebauer at the First Unitarian church, yesterday. "Good men in thousands of pulpits will today endeavor to justify the way of God, as shown forth in the appalling disaster in Sicily. But where faith in a Divine Providence is built upon the sand of merely intellectual conceptions, it will be as badly shaken as the cities along the strait of Messina. In fact, the very endeavor to prove God's justice, must lead one to doubt His justice; every apology for His ways in nature is akin to an accusation. WILL HARRIMAN REPLY TO ATTACK BY HENEY?

New York, Jan. 4.—Whether E. H. Harriman will reply to the assault made upon him by Francis J. Heney of San Francisco, in Philadelphia Saturday, is a question causing much interest today. The graft prosecutor, addressing a luncheon in his honor, said: "San Francisco is no worse and no better than the average American city," with the single exception of Philadelphia, and even here you have nothing like what we unearthed in my city. But the causes of corruption are the same in all cities. In San Francisco we found two elements at work. Coming from one source was the public service corporation, and from another the saloons and dives, while behind our backs these forces joined hands.

In this unholy alliance the boss was the connecting link, but he was simply the agent of the real boss, the big business man who wanted to exploit the public service corporation. The political boss was really the small fish in the pond. Behind him was the public service corporation and the Southern Pacific railway. W. F. Porritt, was the boss behind the apparent boss. But I am convinced that Porritt was not all the tool of the actual boss—Harriman.

For a moment the audience sat, stunned by the daring character of this indictment, then burst into prolonged applause.

"We must reason from cause to effect," Mr. Heney went on. "The corruption of the city life of San Francisco was not found in the deals made by Heney, but was due to the fact that Harriman wanted to use certain men. Our real boss sits in New York city, and reaches across the country in working out his schemes."

greenness, wise and unwise, fit and unfit, good and bad alike. "That the president be requested to transmit to the house any evidence upon which he based his statements that the chief argument in favor of the provision was that the congressmen did not themselves wish to be investigated by secret service men." This statement, which was an attack upon no one, still less upon the congress, is sustained by the record.

What the record shows. If you will turn to the Congressional Record for May 1, pages 2522 to 2529, inclusive, you will find the debate on this subject. Mr. Tawney of Minnesota and Mr. Smith of Iowa, Mr. Sherley of Kentucky and Mr. Fitzgerald of New York, appear in this debate as the special champions of the provision referred to. Messrs. Parsons, Bennett and Driscoll were the leaders of those who were in opposition to the amendment and upheld the right of the government to use the most efficient means possible in order to detect criminals and to prevent and punish crime. The amendment was carried in the committee of the whole, where no votes of the individual members are recorded, so I am unable to discriminate by mentioning the members who voted for and the members who voted against the provision, but its passage, the journal records, was greeted with applause and approval, however that in any case of this kind many members who have no particular knowledge of the point at issue, are content simply to follow the lead of the committee which has considered the matter, and I have no doubt that many members of the house simply followed the lead of Messrs. Tawney and Smith, without having had the opportunity to know very much as to the rights and wrongs of the question.

I would not ordinarily attempt in this way to discriminate between members of the house, but as objection has been taken to my language, I will simply speak of the action of the house, as a whole, and as apparently, there is a desire that I should thus discriminate, I will state that I think the responsibility rested on the committee on appropriations, under the lead of the members whom I have mentioned.

Now as to the request of the congress that I give the evidence for my statement that the chief argument in favor of the provision was that the congressmen did not themselves wish to be investigated by secret service men. The part of the Congressional Record to which I have referred above fully supports this statement. Two distinct lines of argument were followed without debate. One concerned the question whether the law warranted the employment of the secret service in departments other than the treasury, and this did not touch the merits of the service in the least. The other line of argument went to the merits of the service, whether lawfully or unlawfully employed, and here the chief if not the only argument used was that the service should be cut down and restricted because its members had shadowed or investigated members of congress and other officers of the government.

Says Tawney Misrepresented. Incidentally I may say that in my judgment there is ample legal authority for the statement that this appropriation law in which reference was made imposes no restrictions whatever upon the use of the secret service men, but relates solely to the expenditure of the money appropriated. Mr. Tawney in the debate stated that he had in his possession "a letter from the secretary of the treasury received a few days ago" in which the secretary of the treasury "himself admits that the provisions under which the appropriation has been made have been violated year after year for a number of years in his own department. I append herewith as appendix A the letter referred to.

It makes no such admission as that which Mr. Tawney alleges. It contains on the contrary, an emphatic protest against any such abridgment of the rights of the government. The secretary of the treasury by existing laws, and concluding by asserting that he "is quite within his rights in the use of the secret service of these agents, and that the proposed amendment would be a disadvantage to the government in carrying through the investigation of criminals, and the enforcement of the statutes of the United States."

I call attention to the fact that in this letter of Secretary Cortelyou to Mr. Tawney, as in my letter to the speaker quoted above, the explicit statement is made that the proposed amendment would be a disadvantage to the government in carrying through the investigation of criminals, and the enforcement of the statutes of the United States. A careful reading of the Congressional Record will also show that practically the only arguments advanced in favor of the limitation proposed by Mr. Tawney's committee, beyond what may be supposed to be contained by implication in certain sentences as to "abuses which were not specified," were those contained in the repeated statements of Mr. Sherley. Mr. Sherley stated that there had been pronounced abuses growing out of the use of the secret service for purposes other than those intended, putting his statement in the form of a question, and in the same breath further stating that "private conduct" of members of congress, senators and others ought not to be investigated by the secret service, and that they should not investigate "members of congress" who had been accused of "conduct unbecoming a gentleman," and a member of congress, in addition to these assertions couched as questions, he made one positive declaration, that "The secret service at one time was used for the purpose of looking into the personal conduct of a member of congress."

The Speaker's Secretary. What appears in the record is filled out and explained by an article which appeared in the Chicago Inter-Ocean of Jan. 3, 1904, under a Washington headline, and which marked the beginning of the controversy.

ATTORNEYS SCORED BY GARFIELD, IN ANNUAL REPORT TO PRESIDENT

Secretary of the Interior Says Disbarments Will Continue.

Washington, Jan. 4.—The improved methods of administration instituted by Secretary Garfield, having for their purpose the simplification of business without any loss in accuracy or responsibility, have proven of great value, says the head of the department of the interior, in his annual report, made public today. The report covers a wide field, dealing with the work of the various bureaus embraced within its management, the territories, national parks and reservations, District of Columbia, corporations, etc.

Garfield calls attention to certain unscrupulous and unprofessional acts upon the part of a number of attorneys practicing before the department, which resulted in their disbarment.

Some of these have brought mandamus suits for a restoration of their names to the list of those entitled to practice. These cases are now pending, but "in the meantime," the secretary says, "attorneys will be notified, heard and disbarred in all cases where I am satisfied beyond a reasonable doubt that their conduct as attorneys has been disreputable, fraudulent, illegal or unduly unprofessional."

The recent patent office frauds, resulting in the disbarment of one defendant, the conviction of another, and the suspension of a third, are mentioned upon, and the statement is made that it was the first case of the kind that occurred in the 115 years of patent office history. The commissioner of the interior states that he has taken steps to provide additional safeguards around the filing of patent papers.

Regarding the movement for the conservation of the natural resources of the country, Secretary Garfield says that it shows the people of the country have fully awakened to the necessity of caring for what is left of the public domain.

The pension roll, as usual, piled up an enormous death rate, 50,576 names being removed from the list. Of these 34,333 were soldiers and sailors of the Civil war. During the entire year the total number of pensioners on the roll was 1,006,053.

At the time of this publication the work of the secret service, which was thus assisted, including the investigation of great land frauds in the West, and the securing of evidence to help the department of justice in the best-trust investigations at Chicago, which resulted in successful prosecutions.

But all of this is of insignificant importance compared with the main, the real issue, which is simply, Does congress desire that the government shall have at its disposal the most efficient instrument for the detection of crime, and the prevention and punishment of crime, or does it not?

The action of the house last May was emphatically an opportunity for the interest of justice and against the interest of the public domain. Its effect of benefit only to lawbreakers. I am not now dealing with motives; whatever they may be, the motive that induced the action of the house was to deprive the government of the most efficient instrument for the detection of crime, and the prevention and punishment of crime, or does it not?

"Only Criminals Need Fear." The action of the house last May was emphatically an opportunity for the interest of justice and against the interest of the public domain. Its effect of benefit only to lawbreakers. I am not now dealing with motives; whatever they may be, the motive that induced the action of the house was to deprive the government of the most efficient instrument for the detection of crime, and the prevention and punishment of crime, or does it not?

The president then discusses at length the wide range of offenses against the federal law covered since 1891 by the investigations by the secret service division, and adds: "By far the most important of these related to the public domain, and by far the most uncovered a far-reaching and widespread system of fraudulent transactions involving both the illegal acquisition and the illegal fencing of government lands. In connection with both these offenses, the crimes of perjury and subornation of perjury."

If the present law, for which Messrs. Tawney, Smith, and the other gentlemen I have above mentioned are responsible, had been in effect, this action would have been impossible; and most of the criminals, abuses unquestionably have escaped.

Such a body as the secret service, such a body of investigating agents, occupying a permanent position in the government service, and separate from local investigations in different departments, is an absolute necessity if the law is to be more efficient instrument possible to use against crime. To the argument that a force like this can be misused it is only necessary to answer that the force, like this, if handled properly is that it shall be so efficient as to be dangerous to crime. If handled improperly, it is a gross abuse by the secret service or other investigating force in the departments should be unsparingly punished; and congress should hold itself ready at any and all times to investigate the executive departments whenever there is reason to believe that any such instance of abuse has occurred. I wish to emphasize my more than cordial acquiescence in the view that this is not only the right of congress, but emphatically its duty.

Asks Reversal of Action. In conclusion, I most earnestly ask, in the name of good government and honest administration, in the name of honesty and for the purpose of bringing to justice the violators of the federal laws wherever they may be found, whether in public or private life, that the action taken by the house last year be reversed. When this action was taken, the senate committee, under the lead of the late Senator Allison, having before it a strongly-worded protest from Secretary Cortelyou like that he had sent to Mr. Tawney, accepted the secretary's view, and the senate passed the bill in the shape presented by Senator Allison. In the conference, however, the house conferees insisted on the retention of the provision they had inserted, and the senate yielded.

The chief of the secret service is paid a salary utterly inadequate to the importance of his functions and to the admirable way in which he has performed them. I earnestly urge that it be increased to $5,000 per annum. I also urge that the secret service be placed where it properly belongs, and made a bureau in the department of justice, the chief of the secret service having repeatedly requested; but unwarranted attack on the secret service has been made. It should be explicitly provided that the secret service can be used to detect and punish crime wherever it is found. THEODORE ROOSEVELT. The White House, Jan. 4, 1909.

craft, the occupants of which gave an enthusiastic welcome to the ships. Despite their long trip, the war ships, which were the first to arrive, were turned out for a naval review. When the ships arrived at anchor, the Egyptian and canal authorities went aboard the flagship, Connecticut, and welcomed the fleet. Admiral Sperry, who expressed himself as well satisfied with the cruise from Colombo.

He regretted that he was compelled to curtail his stay in Egypt, but hoped that at some future time an opportunity would be given him to visit Cairo. The admiral spoke of the Australian visit as the special feature of the trip.

On New Year's Day, the fleet was joined by the men of the fleet in a continuous round of games, whatever they may be, the motive that induced the action of the house was to deprive the government of the most efficient instrument for the detection of crime, and the prevention and punishment of crime, or does it not?

The news of the disaster in Italy was received with profound sorrow by officers and men in reply to a message from the navy department. Rear admiral Sperry said these had supplies available for distribution to the Italian earthquake sufferers as follows:

Beverages, 500,000; bread, 650,000 pounds; cereals, 50,000; meat, 30,000 pounds; other meat, 100,000 pounds; vegetables, canned, 50,000 pounds; milk, 50,000; 600 pounds, and numerous other supplies.

The Culgoa will distribute these provisions. There are six surgeons and a number of hospital attendants on board the Culgoa and Yankton, and they are taking with them supplies of coats, blankets, etc. These supplies are to be of arrival at Messina Jan. 8 and 9.

SAYS POLITICS DID NOT RULE

Governor Johnson Denies Story About the Olsen Appointment.

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 4.—"I never by word or deed asked any one to vote for John W. Olsen for dean of the state college of agriculture," said Governor Johnson on Saturday. "Mr. Olsen's appointment was in no way actuated by me or any one connected with this department. Even when Mr. Olsen was recommended to me, I gave those who called to understand that I had no preference and whatever might be done by the board as a whole would be entirely satisfactory to me."

"This I know positively, Mr. Olsen made no effort to be the beneficiary of the board's action. Some of the papers have seen it to give the whole thing a political color, but what they did was without inquiry into the situation. 'Without knowledge that Mr. Olsen was a candidate for dean or even was to be elected, I stood ready to respect him as superintendent of instruction, and I so informed him. I believe him to be the right man for the place. The department has prospered wonderfully under his supervision, and I would have been more than glad to have perpetuated his stewardship."

C. G. Schulz, assistant superintendent of public instruction was with the governor when he gave out this statement. Turning toward Mr. Schulz, the governor said:

"I have called on Mr. Schulz to my office to consult with him as to who would be the best man to appoint as Mr. Schulz's successor. Mr. Schulz succeeded the superintendent of the department of public instruction. I have recommended C. G. Schulz, superintendent of schools at Winona. I have never met Mr. Frazier, and have not heard anything in any way that would lead me to believe that he was a candidate for the place and that is why the appointment is made."

After carefully going over the engineers' reports and the details of the new proposition "Duluth Sonora Copper Company" with the management, we have become firmly convinced that this is an excellent proposition, and our faith is so great that we will advance one-half the money to purchase this stock on subscription, carrying the balance from two to four months on your note, with the stock as collateral.

CALUMET & SONORA MANAGEMENT

The reputation of the Calumet and Sonora people is well known, and Duluth Sonora will be under practically the same management and backed by the same crowd, and while the stock may have no sensational over-night advance, there is no doubt but that it will be a safe and sure investment with unlimited possibilities marketwise. And indications are that the shares will be largely over-subscribed as allotments have already been placed with brokers in the Copper Country, Chicago, Boston and the Twin Cities, thus assuring for the stock a broad market.

BUTTE-MONTANA!

I Will Donate 1,000 Shares in the Pittsburg-New York Company to any Subscriber of the Duluth Herald That Can Locate that "Gem'en in the Wood Pile" in Connection With the Butte-Montana.

That "Gem'en" is able every time the market rises to offer 100,000 or 200,000 shares. He don't expect to lose them, but he puts the bogey idea into weak holders, and then he gets their shares. By and by the present sellers will wonder why they sold, but there will be no question why they were bought, who bought them and through what agencies. Readers, consider! Thresh your brains and then look at the position of the Alex. Scott claim, with levels all carrying good ore, ten feet wide in the 1,200 level, 10 per cent copper and great values in silver beside; shipping to the smelter daily, and opening up greater ore bodies every day. If Butte-Montana increases in value tonight to 60 cents, the "colored Gem'en," in fear, would throw 100,000 or 200,000 shares right on the market, whether he had them or not. Who is he, or who does he represent? I know. Do you? Now, further, sell no shares of Butte-Montana, as they are worth at least $5, and will surely reach that figure. The Pittsburg-New York shares will assuredly look after themselves, and be a great big asset before many months. In spite of all advice to the contrary, secure some of these shares at their present low figure from your brokers.

TOOK BACK HIS COFFIN

Undertaker Ordered to Remove Body
From Casket.

Mother Indignant Because Coroner Performed an Autopsy.

Because an autopsy had been performed on the body of their 11-year-old child, Mr. and Mrs. Peter J. Quinn of 104 Forty-seventh avenue west, who are Christian Scientists, refused to allow the funeral arrangements to go on with the funeral arrangements, and ordered him to take his coffin from their house. In compliance with their wishes Mr. Filiatrault removed the boy's body from the casket, where he had already placed it and laying the child on the sofa, took the coffin back to his morgue. The family then engaged W. H. Richter to complete the arrangements for the funeral, which took place this afternoon at 2 o'clock from the residence, with interment at Onondaga cemetery. In accordance with their belief, no doctor had been called during the child's brief illness. In such a case the law requires that an autopsy be held before burial, and in accordance with this law Mr. Filiatrault summoned Coroner McCuen and Dr. David Graham, who pronounced that death had resulted from toxæmia of the bowels. Although Dr. McCuen said that he could not state positively that the child's life could have been saved had medical assistance been summoned, he said that an operation might have proved successful, and that the right kind of medicine and treatment might have proven beneficial. Death came to the child Saturday evening, and the body was removed to the undertaker's rooms. From there it was returned to the residence after the autopsy. When the mother learned that the body had been operated upon, she became most indignant, and dismissed Mr. Filiatrault, requesting that he remove his coffin. This necessitated Mr. Filiatrault's removing the child from the coffin and laying it on the sofa.

"EARACHE" WAS FATAL.

On a remote little farm twenty miles from the nearest doctor, Frank Keller, the 9-year-old son of Frank Keller of 516 South Sixty-fourth avenue, died yesterday morning after a short illness. The child had gone about a week ago to visit some relatives living on a farm. A few days ago he complained of pain in his ear, which was thought by his relatives to be a simple case of ear-ache, but he was not seriously ill until Saturday, when he developed serious symptoms. Death came Sunday morning. Not thinking that the child's condition was serious until the very last, no attempt was made to summon a physician. This morning the body was driven over twenty miles of country road in a wagon to M. J. Filiatrault's undertaking rooms, West Duluth, where this afternoon Coroner McCuen performed an autopsy which showed that death had resulted from pneumonia. The child's body may be viewed by friends and relatives at the morgue this afternoon and evening. Tomorrow morning it will be shipped at 2 o'clock to Minneapolis, where it will be laid to rest beside that of its mother.

EASY GRADE FOUND.

According to J. J. Frey of West Duluth an easy grade has been found to Proctor, by the engineers who have been looking for a good route for a wagon road out of West Duluth. The people of West Duluth and Proctor have long wanted a street car line between the two places, and it is understood that the street railway company is willing to build such a line if a suitable route can be located. The way which has recently been found, leads from the Fifty-seventh avenue west car line at Highland street and continues on that street to the point of the cliff at Onondaga street, crossing the Duluth, Minnesota and Northern tracks and circling the cemetery to Keene's creek. From there it would follow up the creek bed to the old Onondaga road. Beyond that there are no steep grades.

ANOTHER BURGLARY.

The burglarizing of another cottage on the St. Louis river, has been reported to the West Duluth police. Saturday, the police were informed that the cottage of Fred L. Farmer, which is situated near the Sprit Lake branch of the local club, had been broken into and ransacked. As far as could be learned, a 44-caliber rifle, a 25-caliber revolver, two pairs of high rubber boots, a black sweater, and a satchel filled with small tools, had been stolen. This is the third robbery that has taken place up the river. Artie Swan-son's cabin was the first and Arthur Jacoby's the second.

DOCK IS WORTHLESS.

It seems that the Ramsey street dock has proved a disappointment to West Duluth boat owners, and they are now negotiating the building of a new dock, more accessible, and less open to the sweep of the wind. It is argued that no use has been had from the present dock. It has been in need of repair after every severe storm, and as yet has been unapproachable by boats drawing more than the ordinary launch, for the water is so shallow about it.

According to the launch owners, it will take fully $5,000 to repair it next spring and a new dock, more suitably situated, could be built for that cost.

Rinks Are Selected.

The Western Curling Club will be represented tonight in the Manley-Mc-

Lenman trophy contests by four rinks, skipped by the following: Zandt, Mel-drum, Meldahl and McAuley. The games will be played at the Duluth Curling club's rink.

The games committee of the Western Curling club has drawn the rinks to play in the series for the Commercial club trophy, the Union Match company's cup and the William Hurst medal. There will be three games each night until the contests are over.

The Rescuers at Messina Struggle to Reach Earthquake Victims.

Tremors Continue, But Diminishing in Their Intensity.

Fires, in Ruined Cities, Gradually Gotten Under Control.

CRUISER YANKTON
OFF FOR MESSINA WITH SUPPLIES

Port Said, Jan. 5.—The American scout cruiser Yankton left here this morning for Messina with medical supplies and provisions on board for the earthquake sufferers. She carried also a number of doctors.

The Connecticut, the flagship of Rear Admiral Sperry, the Vermont, the Kansas and the Minnesota arrived here from Suez last night. They will sail for Naples as soon as they have taken on coal. The necessary supplies of fuel probably will be put on board today. The itinerary of the fleet is being modified in consequence of the Messina earthquake, but the details of the new program have not yet been announced.

Messina, Jan. 5.—Earth shocks are continuing here, although they are diminishing in intensity. At night, especially, they frequently felt. The fires are being gradually extinguished. Numerous persons still living were taken today from beneath the ruins, while the voices of others could be distinctly heard appealing for aid. Within a few days the rescue work at Reggio will have ceased. Then the tottering buildings will be razed and the bodies that have not been buried will be unburied.

The official figures compiled thus far show that 14,000 bodies have been recovered.

OLDEST MAN IN MICHIGAN DIES

Phillip Brushhart Passes at 104; Father Was Over 100.

Jackson, Mich., Jan. 5.—Phillip Brushhart, the oldest man in the state of Michigan, died at his home in Barab last night, aged 104 years. His father, who fought in the battle of Waterloo, lived to be over 100 and had seven uncles who lived beyond the century mark.

ABOUT TO DIE, VISITS GRAVE

Man, Facing Electric Chair, Pays Tribute to Slain Wife.

Dayton, Ohio, Jan. 5.—Harry Crooks, convicted of murdering his wife and sentenced to the electric chair, begged the privilege of visiting his wife's grave last night, and the sheriff granted the request, sending the man to the cemetery with a strong guard.

Crooks forbade his attorneys to make any application for a new trial, declaring he was not insane and that the verdict was just.

His wife had divorced him on the ground of cruelty and he shot her to death on the street.

ALL AMERICANS IN SICILY UNHEARD FROM SINCE QUAKE MAY BE CONSIDERED SAFE

Messina, Jan. 5.—All Americans, who have not been heard from since the earthquake, may be considered safe. Probably all are in the south of Sicily. Those who are known to have suffered from the earthquake have been reported. The telegraph and telephone wires have been placed at the service of the government, and personal messages will be delayed indefinitely.

The Associated Press correspondent found amid the ruins of the Hotel Victoria, a blackboard with the full list of guests of the hotel. It bore, besides the name of Vice Consul Lupton, only two other English names—those of British subjects.

The disaster was distinctly an Italian one, except for the American, French, Turkish and Swedish consuls, the British chaplain and a few German shipping clerks.

Hundreds of families have been left without bread-winners, and thousands of persons have been maimed for life. The horrors of the sanitary conditions in Messina are unspeakable, and only the roughest of surgical attention is possible.

Into Action by Religious Riots.

Mohammedans' Sacrifice of Cows Causes Attack on Mosque.

Calcutta, Jan. 5.—The religious riots between Mohammedans and Hindus have taken a more serious turn, requiring the active intervention of British troops today at Titagarh, who fired upon the Hindu mob.

The Hindus had resumed the attacks of two previous days on the mosque at Titagarh because the Mohammedans had sacrificed cows. The Hindus destroyed the sacred furniture in the mosque and partially demolished the walls. Inflamed Mohammedans gathered to the defense of the mosque and were subsequently surrounded by a military cordon, which formed a barrier between the Mohammedans and the Hindus. In an endeavor to come to close quarters with the Mohammedans, the troops fired upon the Zealots, killing and wounding several of them. Isolated combats between Hindus and Mohammedans from remote quarters are making their way to Titagarh to their faith.

WOMAN WEEPS IN COURTROOM

Widow of Slain Capt.
Ranken at Night
Rider Trial.

Union City, Tenn., Jan. 5.—For the first time during the trial of the night riders Mrs. Quentin Ranken was in court today when the arguments began. Accompanied by a score or more of women friends, she was escorted to a seat within the bar. She was clad in deep mourning.

Had Holmes opened for the state. As he pictured Capt. Ranken as one of the cleanest, purest men in Tennessee, and described his fearful end, Mrs. Ranken broke down and leaning her head on the shoulders of her sister, sobbed piteously.

Two of the accused men gazed closely at her, their faces working involuntarily. They were Ed Burton and Bob Hoffman. The latter is the man who, according to at least two witnesses, fired the shot that pierced Quentin Ranken's heart as he was slowly straining to death from the tortures of Walnut Log.

Mrs. Ranken raised her head a moment, caught sight of the two faces fixed in fascination on her black clad figure, shivered convulsively and turned her tear-stained features from the men who are charged with her husband's murder.

The defendants settled back into their seats and did not again look at Mrs. Ranken.

Alleged Slayer in Jail.
Ogallah, Neb., Jan. 5.—Enter heavy guard, Lafayette Hale, also known as John Harry Hale Smith, charged with murdering Volney Davis, a private constable of here last October has reached here from Denver and been lodged in jail.

THE THIRTY-SIXTH SESSION OF THE LEGISLATURE OPENS TODAY.

MRS. ANNIS HEARS HAINS

ploys Dramatic Skill in Answering.

Only Pointed Revolver at One Person, He Says.

Flushing, N. Y., Jan. 5.—Thornton J. Hains today underwent the severest ordeal of his trial when, after concluding his direct examination, he was cross-examined by the state's attorneys. The defendant was questioned on every point of his story, which he hopes will clear him of the charge of being a principal with his brother, Capt. Peter C. Hains, Jr., in the killing of William E. Annis.

Thornton Hains gave every indication of confidence in himself today when he resumed the witness stand. His high-pitched voice was clear, and he employed it with much dramatic skill in answering the questions of counsel. Other than to pass his hand over his hair once in a while, Hains evidenced no signs of nervousness.

"The only person I pointed my revolver at was Mr. Roberts," said the witness. "In fact I never saw Mr. Roberts or Mr. Andrews until I saw them on the floor."

Hains testified with regard to the "Dear Billy" letter that Mrs. Hains gave him to mail a few minutes after her confession. He said Capt. Hains was standing near, and snatched it from the floor.

THREE PERISH; POWDER IN FIRE

Boy Throws a "White Lump" in Flames; Fatalities Result.

Inez, Ky., Jan. 5.—Three lives were lost in an explosion in the home of Allen Cassel, a wealthy planter, and deputy sheriff of Martin county. Cassel's wife and son were burned to a crisp, and his stepdaughter died shortly afterward.

The boy set a can of powder near a grate fire. He noticed a small white lump in the can and not thinking it to be powder threw it into the flames. The lump exploded, setting the can on fire and it exploded with great force.

CANADA HANGS A CHINAMAN

lows With Stoicism of Race.

Macleod, Alberta, Jan. 5.—Mah Hong, a Chinaman, was hanged here today by Radcliffe, Canada's official hangman. There was no hitch in the execution, and the Chinaman went to the gallows with the racial stoicism.

Mah Hong shot his partner, Mah Ling in their laundry. Ling had collected money for the firm, and had lost it gambling. This enraged Hong, so that he purchased a revolver and emptied seven shots into his partner's body.

Hong did not resist arrest, remarking to the police: "Me shoot him; him no good."

AMERICAN VICE CONSUL LUPTON PUTS COAT OVER NAKED WOMAN; GALLANT IN EARTHQUAKE RUINS

Messina, Jan. 5.—Stuart K. Lupton, American vice consul, was in his room at the Hotel Victoria when the building was demolished by the earthquake, and escape was miraculous. Wearing only his trousers and carrying his shoes and his overcoat in his hands, he groped his way along the quay, knee deep in water, towards the American consulate.

On the way, he met a woman and a man, both naked, and instinctively laid his overcoat over the shoulders of the woman. Clinging over the ruins of the consulate, he became conscious of the fact that his feet were bruised and bleeding. Then he wondered why he had carried his shoes in his hand. He continued in a state of bewilderment until he established himself on a British ship in the harbor.

Later he again came ashore and raised the American flag over the new consulate in a damaged but one of the few remaining buildings in the outskirts of the city. Then Mr. Lupton began an industrious search for Americans.

Organization the Only Business in House and Senate.

A. H. Vernon of St. Paul Chosen Chief Clerk of House.

Is Made Secretary of the Senate.

(From a Staff Correspondent.)
St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—"Minnesota is a great state. No other state in the Union, perhaps, has such a diversity of interests. The legislature should deal fairly with all interests, but it should see that none receives an unfair advantage over the others."

With these characteristic words, A. J. Rockne of Zumbrota opened the session of the house this noon following his election as speaker by 92 to 21.

BOTH BRANCHES CAUCUS.

Eighth District Gets Two of House
Elective Offices.

(From a Staff Correspondent.)
St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—Today's session of the house, which was purely for organization, was made easy by last night's Republican caucus, which, in turn, was made easy by a meeting of a Republican steering committee, which met yesterday afternoon, after the accustomed fashion, and left nothing for the caucus or today's meeting to do but to endorse its acts. So the real business was done by the steering committee. District caucuses selected representatives on the steering committee, and the eighth district members.

TWO CUT TO DEATH

Mexicans Fatally Hacked and Young Woman Abducted.

Torn From Dying Husband and Taken Into Mountains.

San Diego, Cal., Jan. 5.—News has been received today of a startling tragedy near Vallecito, close to the Mexican boundary, where two men were hacked to pieces and a young woman was torn from her dying husband and carried into the mountains.

The men killed were Jose Rodriguez and Victor Cota. The woman abducted was Cota's wife.

The Cotas had been living on a ranch in the mountains back of Banner, Rodriguez and Kuncio Berdugo called at the place. Two days later a horseman, stopping at the house, found signs of a terrible affray. He gave the alarm.

Neighbors found Rodriguez mutilated by knife wounds and Cota stabbed to death. The woman and Berdugo were missing, but tracks of a man and woman leading toward the boundary were found, and it is supposed they are in Mexico.

AGREES TO FIGHT TWENTY ROUNDS

"Kerry Kid" of Superior Right After Walter Whitehead's Scalp.

The "Kerry Kid" is bound to get to Walter Whitehead. This morning he telephoned The Herald from Superior that he was willing that the money which he posted last week for a 10-round battle, be allowed to go as a side bet for a 20-round bout. Under the conditions set down by the "Kid," Whitehead will have to put him out inside of twenty rounds. The fight will in all likelihood take place on the range, as both fighters have fought most of their battles there, and it is there that the largest houses are drawn.

BASEBALL TALK.

Dakota Boys Will Have Hard Schedule for Strong Team.

Grand Forks, N. D., Jan. 6.—James Brennan, manager of the North Dakota university baseball team, is already hard at work arranging games for the 1909 team and has the schedule well under way. Games have been arranged with the best Minnesota college nines, including two games each with Minnesota university, St. Thomas, Hamline and Macalester. The dates for the games have not been decided upon. North Dakota will have the strongest team in the history of the institution, only three members of last year's star aggregation being missing.

SELL LAND WITH TIMBER.

Bemidji Representative Favors Such Legislation.

Bemidji, Minn., Jan. 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—J. J. Opsahl of Bemidji, representative from this district, favors a change in the manner of selling state timber, so that the land will be sold with the timber, assuring taxes with the sales. He also favors the creation of a new state land department, outside the auditor's office, to be composed of capable and efficient men who thoroughly understand all kinds of timber, together with the conditions that prevail in different parts of the state.

Mr. Opsahl thus expressed himself before departing for St. Paul for the session.

At the last session, Mr. Opsahl was chairman of the immigration committee, which was instrumental in creating the state immigration commission, which, under the direction of George Welch, has done much work directly beneficial to all parts of Minnesota.

TOOK OVERCOAT FROM A DUMMY

Marcus Lainey Is Arrested on a Charge of Larceny.

The cold weather of last night was too much for Marcus Lainey, and he took an overcoat from a dummy in front of the second hand store of A. Siedel, 703½ West Superior street, clothed with a nice, warm overcoat, he could not resist the temptation to take it and put it on his own back.

Unfortunately for Marcus, the proprietor saw the act, and soon a policeman had the shivering man in his clutches. In police court this morning the man was fined $25 or thirty days in jail. He was forced, through lack of cash, to take the jail sentence.

IMPROVEMENT ASSOCIATION

Central Hillside Residents Will Organize for Mutual Benefit.

Residents along the hillside in Central Duluth are about to band together into an organization to be known as the Central Duluth Hillside Improvement association.

The purpose of the association is pretty well set forth in its name. It will be to promote the improvement of streets, construction of sewers, etc., to make the hillside district an attractive residential portion of the city.

The first meeting, when the organization will be perfected, will be held Thursday evening, Jan. 7, at the office of A. J. Harker, 407 East Fourth street. Officers will be elected and plans laid for carrying on a systematic plan of public improvement in that part of the city.

TIMBER ENTRIES FALLING OFF

New Law, It Is Said, Will Help Forest Conservation.

The appraising of timber and stone claims by the United States government is likely to help forestry conservation.

During the month of November, before the law had gone into effect, there were seventy-five filings, while during the month of December, after the law was in effect, there were but thirty.

As matters now stand, a man has to pay just what the land and timber are worth, while by the old method he paid $250 an acre.

There is now no possible way of getting the land for a sum far beneath its value.

There have been big sums made in Northern Minnesota through timber dealings of this kind, and to offset the fraudulent land dealings, engineered by large lumber companies, and to save the forests, the special rating was made.

Drop of Fifty Degrees. Norfolk, Neb., Jan. 5.—Northern Nebraska and southern South Dakota experienced a drop of 50 degrees in temperature within the last twenty-four hours. The mercury stood at 7 degrees below zero at Norfolk today and 10 below at Chadron, Neb., and at Deadwood and Gregory, S. D. Light flurries of snow accompanied the cold wave.

Mayor Will See to It That Ordinance Is Followed.

Mayor Haven is going to see to it that Duluth walks are kept as free as possible from snow and ice this winter, and will give orders calling for the enforcement of the ordinance covering this point.

According to the ordinance, property owners, whether there is a building on their lots or not, must keep the sidewalk in front of the premises free of snow and ice, and if they fail to do this, the city can do the work and assess the cost against the property. In addition to this the owner is liable to a fine of from $2 to $20 and jail imprisonment for twenty days.

WOULD EJECT HIS TENANTSRaphael Marrota Enraged at City Diphtheria Quarantine.

Raphael Marrota, an Italian landlord, appeared in Health Commissioner Patton's office this morning, and was greatly enraged because the health officers refused to pay rent on his house at 710 East Second street, now under diphtheria quarantine.

"I will throw the occupants out of the house today," he declared. "They owe me rent and cannot pay. They must get out."

Dr. Patton informed him that if he took such a radical step he would land in jail himself, and would probably remain there some little time.

"Give them a show," counseled the doctor.

"I wouldn't give anybody a show in a case of this kind."

The city never pays rent in such instances, and Mr. Marrota was told that the safest thing for him to do was to leave the family strictly alone, interfering with city quarantine is a serious offense.

The house in question is occupied by Mrs. Annie McDonald and four children, one of whom is ill with diphtheria. The husband is working on the range.

The late landlord departed, saying he would put the matter in the hands of an attorney.

A LONG RIDE IN SEVERE COLDWilliam Wallace, ill and Burned, Had Sheet for Covering.

Ill, and painfully burned about the face and hands, William Wallace, a farmer living near Pike Lake, twenty miles out of Duluth, was brought all the way to Duluth yesterday afternoon, lying in the bottom of a wagon, with only a sheet for covering, because his everyday clothes.

While cooking his noonday meal, Wallace fainted away, and fell face down, before the hot stove. His face and hands were burned to a blister before he slid off onto the floor. He was discovered by a neighbor, who called to Duluth as fast as the horses could travel. It was a long, cold journey at best, and Wallace suffered severely.

MORTGAGE IS HELD VALIDDecision in Case Growing Out of Merchants Bank Failure.

By a decision of Judge Cant, I. T. Burnside was this morning declared to be the owner of a piece of land in 59-18, which was brought into litigation through the insolvency of the old Merchants bank in West Duluth, and mortgage for $1,500 held by Harriet V. Norris against the property was declared to be valid and binding.

The decision was made in an action brought by Mr. Burnside against Mrs. Norris to clear the title to the property. At the time of the assignment of Hanson E. Smith, owner of the Merchants bank, the Northern Security company owned the land and Mr. Smith had a claim against the company. Mr. Phelps, as assignee of Mr. Smith's property, sued the Northern Security company and secured a judgment for $5,000 as a lien against the land. The land was sold in execution and Mr. Phelps bid it in for $100, later selling it to Mr. Burnside for $200.

Mrs. Norris' mortgage had never been recorded, but it was brought to light after the sale to Mr. Burnside. He sued to clear the title and Judge Cant decided that, though Mr. Burnside was the owner of the land, the mortgage stands as an encumbrance on it. H. H. Phelps and Warren E. Whipple appeared for Mr. Burnside and William J. Stevenson for Mrs. Norris.

SOO WILL GET FRANCHISE TO BUILD APPROACHES

New Ordinance Acceptable to Both City and Railroad.

Supreme Court Decision Knocks Out Many City Ordinances.

WHAT THE COUNCIL DID.

Gave first reading to an ordinance, entirely acceptable to the city, covering the granting of a franchise to the Soo railroad for building an approach to the interstate bridge.

Directed city attorney to prepare ordinance which will make it possible for the city to get after violators of the liquor laws without first taking the matter before the grand jury.

Received communication from heads of fire, police, and health departments, asking the council to go on record as favoring and recommending an amendment to the anti-pass law, which would make it permissible for employees of the three departments to ride free on street cars.

Voted to award contract for furnishing auto patrol wagon to city to the Four Traction Auto, mobile company of Mankato, Minn.

Decided to sell old fire hall at Hunter's Park.

City attorney reported that Max Bahr supreme court decision brands as unconstitutional all ordinances which impose a fine of $100 and imprisonment for ninety days.

The council last night gave the first reading to an ordinance covering the granting of a franchise to the Soo road, for the construction of an approach to the interstate bridge. It is believed this ordinance will be adopted, as it was prepared by the city attorney and committee on ordinances and resolutions, and is acceptable to the railroad company.

This matter has been hanging fire for several weeks. In the first place, the Soo, through the Duluth & Thunder Bay railroad, and the Great Northern, both applied for franchises at the same time. Each submitted an ordinance, and neither was acceptable to the city. Several points which seemed necessary to the council were not covered.

Later, the two roads agreed to have the franchise granted the Duluth-Superior Bridge company, but this idea was frowned upon by the committee, as being too indirect. When the ordinance submitted by the bridge company, a subsidiary company of the Great Northern, the latter road signified its assent to the city to drop out altogether in the race for the franchise, but the Soo made no such declaration. The city attorney and committee on ordinances, covering important points left out in the railroad papers, and submitted it to the council.

After three or four weeks of deliberation, the Soo decided to accept the city's terms, and offered the ordinance last night, through Alderman McKnight, chairman of the committee on ordinances. Alderman Teggman and Shartel are the other two members.

The ordinance provides that the Duluth-Superior Bridge company, otherwise the Soo line, shall pay all special assessments levied for street and all other improvements for which an assessment may be made for benefits to the city, whether the same be levied on the telephone, or any telephone owned and operated by the city. All other roads are to come in on a just and equitable basis over the Soo line approach at the Duluth end of the bridge, and the Soo line is required to provide a means of access on the east side of the bridge. It is provided that all railroads using the approach shall be subject to the same city requirements as are provided in the Soo franchise.

The liquor ordinance came up again last night, but there was no special display of fireworks in connection with the report of the committee on ordinances and resolutions, which Alderman McKnight, the remaining member, asked the city attorney to direct to report to the council what offenses against that state law relative to the sale of intoxicating liquors are required to be submitted to the grand jury before the grand jury is started.

The report of the committee, besides offering a resolution to the grand jury, characterized Alderman McKnight's liquor ordinance, which prohibits the sale of intoxicating liquor without a license, and otherwise providing a way to prosecute violators of the liquor laws without first taking the matter before the grand jury. The amendment was accepted, and the resolution adopted without a dissenting vote. The report in question read in part as follows:

"I desire to submit to the council a statement of the attitude of this committee and, as your committee believes, the attitude of the majority of the council as to said ordinance.

"We understand it is conceded by every one that the provisions of the state law are ample to properly regulate the sale of intoxicating liquors so long as it is the policy of the state and city to license such sale and the whole question is the practicability and feasibility of the enforcement of such provisions. The question seems to resolve itself into two propositions: That under the state law the accused person is entitled to a trial by jury, whereas if the provisions of the state law are incorporated into a city ordinance the accused is denied the right of jury trial and is acquitted or found guilty as the case may be, however, judicially he may be still liable to err.

"Under the act creating a municipal court of this city said court is limited in its jurisdiction in civil actions to proceedings, and in an action for penalty given by statute to cases where the defendant involved does not exceed $500, and in criminal cases has jurisdiction in all cases arising out of the charter ordinance, laws, regulations or bylaws of the city of Duluth.

"As above stated the provisions of the state law are very exacting, and amongst other provisions we find that any one convicted of any violation of a city ordinance or a statute of the state, however trivial the offense may be, is subjected from securing renewal of his license for a period of one year and in some cases for a period of five years, and in addition he may have his license revoked by the council of the city.

"We can truly see that upon a conviction by the judgment of one of our courts, the accused may suffer a pecuniary loss amounting to thousands of dollars. We believe this is contrary to the intent of the statute and that even a licensed saloonkeeper is entitled to some protection in his property interests and that an over-zealous police officer or a fanatically inclined citizen or perchance some enemy that he may have made, should not be given the opportunity to destroy his business without his being accorded a jury trial as provided by the state law.

"Your committee considers that the entire council is in accord with the attitude with the mayor for the welfare of the city in all respects and is of the opinion that in the case of the liquor ordinance, the city attorney, in his communication, namely that the administrative office has much difficulty in enforcing the provision of the law against the sale of liquor without a license, and in the case of a grand jury in such cases, the problem which ordinance necessitates the enactment of an ordinance to enable such officers to properly handle such cases.

"The report concluded by saying that the committee was withholding the McKnight ordinance with a view of giving the city a more adequate and meet the needs of the situation.

City Attorney Wilson reported that the recent supreme court decision in the Max Bahr saloon case invalidated all city ordinances which made it possible to impose a fine of $100 and imprisonment for ninety days. He says the best way to get around this decision is to pass new ordinances in place of the old, which will provide a fine of $100 or imprisonment for eighty-five days. According to the city attorney, the new liquor ordinance, which has been prepared and is now in the hands of the council, is in accordance with the decision and is so framed as to overcome both of these objections.

A communication was received from Chief of Police, and Health Commissioner Patton, asking the council to go on record as favoring and recommending an amendment to chapter 449, general laws of 1907, providing that the city, and all other cities and police departments be allowed to ride free on street cars.

The same resolution, it is understood, will be considered by cities all over the state where there are street cars. Last night's communication stated that the city attorney, in his communication, namely that the administrative office has much difficulty in enforcing the provision of the law against the sale of liquor without a license, and in the case of a grand jury in such cases, the problem which ordinance necessitates the enactment of an ordinance to enable such officers to properly handle such cases.

Mayor Haven submitted a communication recommending that a vote of thanks be extended to Crane, of Chicago, who presented the Eastman Johnson collection of paintings of Duluth in early last year, and also that a vote of thanks be extended to the Duluth Masons for their gift of a room in their temple for the exhibition of the pictures.

The city attorney reported that the idea for the city to provide glass cases for articles other than pictures which are in the collection, the matter was referred to the committee on resolutions.

Following out the recommendation of the mayor and chief of police, the council voted to award the contract for furnishing the city with an auto patrol wagon to the Four Traction Auto company of Mankato, Minn.

The city must be in Duluth by the next eight weeks, must be on the ground for a period of thirty days, and must be covered by a binding guarantee for one year. The city will be provided with stretchers and will have a speed capacity of from four to twenty miles an hour.

The aldermen voted to sell for $400 the old fire hall building and property in Hunter's Park. The structure has not been in use for several years.

An amendment to the building ordinance, providing that street doors in practically all the downtown buildings shall swing outward, was adopted.

City Engineer McClellan reported that it would cost $1,168.50 to build a winding stairway of the kind desired in the top of the new bridge. The report was received.

Property owners along Superior street, between Second avenue east and Fifth avenue east, had in a communication to the effect that overhead wires in the district specified, and asking that a specified underground system be formulated to do away with this evil.

An invitation was received from the Women's Council to the civic banquet to be held at the Spaulding hotel next Saturday evening.

Alderman Moe presented a resolution providing for the conversion of the sewer system of the city into a combined storm and sanitary sewer, the job to cost $1,500. The report was received.

DULUTH MAN HAS SURPLUS STOCK OF "AFFINITIES"

"My dear—
"I suppose you will think I am a bit presuming to start my letter that way on the start, but the fact is your photo, by the way, only received a few minutes ago, made such a supreme hit with me that I couldn't help it, really I couldn't.

"Your letter was a fine one, and you look to me like the original honey-boy kid. Honestly, when I got the first peep at your picture I was so happy that I knew I could have flown away on the steam of a ship—surely, if I am glad you are fond of sports, for so am I, and I have no doubt but that we will get along famously together. As to that $100.00, we can use that very nicely in New York next season.

"I have been an actress in my time, and many people think I am good looking. I need not dwell on this, however as you read my description in the 'Pilot'.

"Let me hear from you soon, lovingly. MADGE."

foregoing letter was read this morning by a clerk in the Wolvin building. Imagine the same mail bringing half a dozen letters all of the same kind. It all came about because of this young man's friends (?) thought it would be a good joke to send him a letter from a 'faffinity' factory. This factory is located in New York, and guarantees satisfaction. They put a monthly paper called the 'Pilot', and for the small sum of 50 cents they put in your picture, your description, what you want, and your address.

Getting possession of a fictitious photograph and writing a letter, signing the young man's name, these practical jokes thought they had done something quite clever.

It wouldn't be fair to give the young man's name here, but it is needless to say that he gets more mail than anyone else in the city. Also such a photograph by a photograph from some fair damsel, probably at the other end of the country, who considers herself worthy of taking up the young man's house-keeping.

Meanwhile the letters continue to come and he continues to make the 'Pilot' while his fellow workers, hidden behind big ledgers, continue to snicker.

AWAITING EXTORTIONISTS HE KILLS SON OF FRIEND WHO LOANED HIM RIFLE

Chicago, Ill., Jan. 5.—William Moellert, 45 years old, who had been threatened with death unless he put $500 at a place named in a notice posted on his door, borrowed a rifle from a friend and after awaiting in the top of the building for several hours, shot the man who had loaned him the rifle.

The man who loaned the rifle to Joseph Schollens, father of the dead boy.

"Don't take any chances with those fellows," said the elder Schollens. "Here's my rifle. Wait for them and if a disparaging word is said about Moellert posted himself at a darkened window of his home and awaited the arrival of the extortionists had been ordered to the place, but unable to find it, they asked young Schollens to show them. He cheerfully consented and was leading them toward the house when the window was thrown open and the shot fired.

COST OF PREVENTION OF FOREST FIRES ESTIMATED

Washington, Jan. 5.—The country's forests now cover 550,000,000 acres, or one-fourth of the total area of the United States, according to data compiled by forest service agents. Forests owned by the government cover one-fourth of the total area and contain one-fifth of the timber now standing. Forests privately owned cover three-fourths of the forest land area. Conservative lumbering is practiced on 70 per cent of the forests publicly owned and on less than 1 per cent of the forests privately owned.

Senator Smoot, chairman of the section on forests of the national conservation commission, states that under right management the forests will yield four times as much as they do now and also that waste can be reduced at least one-third.

MRS. COREY OBSTINATE.

Refuses to Remove Three-Foot Hat at the Opera.

New York, Jan. 5.—Mrs. William Corey, formerly Mabelle Gliman, the actress, caused some interest at the Manhattan opera house, appearing in a huge hat and refusing to remove it even when asked to do so by an usher sent by Mr. Hammerstein.

The wife of the steel magnate occupied a seat in one of the grand boxes. Her hat measured at least three feet across. Several persons sent messages asking her to remove her hat, as it obstructed their view of the stage.

When she refused they complained to an usher, who notified Mr. Hammerstein.

Mr. Hammerstein sent the usher back to Mrs. Corey with a personal request that she remove the hat. Rather than cause further disturbance Mr. Hammerstein then found seats elsewhere for those who had been inconvenienced.

"It will not occur again," remarked the manager.

REPORT IS AGAINST CLOSING OPIUM SHOPS.

London, Jan. 4.—The commission appointed in 1907 to investigate the opium traffic in the straits and the Malay states, has presented a report against the closing of the opium shops, taking the ground that the evil arising from the use of opium are generally exaggerated, and that the commission recommends making the production and distribution of opium a government monopoly and increasing the price of the drug.

"THERE WAS NO FIGHT"

Jack London Says the Negro Played Horse With "Tahmy."

Noted Novelist Says That Burns Never Landed a Blow.

(By Jack London.)

The fight, there was no fight. No Armenian massacre could compare with the hopeless slaughter that took place in Sydney stadium. It was not a case of "too much Johnson," but of all Johnson. A golden smile tells the story, and a golden smile was Johnson's. The fight, if fight it must be called, was like unto that between a colossus and a toy automaton. It had all the seeming of a playful Ethiopian at loggerheads with a small and futile white man—of a grown man cutting a naughty child; of a monologue by one Johnson, who made a noise with his hand like a lullaby, turning one Burns into his little crib in Sleepy Hollow, of a funeral, with Burns as the deceased, Johnson for the undertaker, grave digger and sexton.

It promised to be a bitter fight. There was no chivalry nor good will in it, and Johnson, despite his catlike face, had an eye to the instant need of things. He sent his second, Intention, into Burns' corner to watch the jutting on of the gloves for fear a casual horseshoe might stray in. Johnson, however, actually Burns hit and announced that fight he would not fight if Burns did not remove a tape from his skinned elbow.

Burns took off the offending tapes and was applauded uproariously. Johnson stood up and, with a bow, he just smiled. That is the fight epitomized—Johnson's smile. The going sounded and the fight and monologue began all right.

"Tahmy," said Johnson, with an exaggerated English accent, and thereafter he talked throughout the fight—when he was not smiling. He seemed to have no mind but to smile. He tried every moment throughout the fight, except when he was boxing, to be as inoffensive as possible. He was hopeless, propitiously, horrible. He was a glutton for punishment. He was bored in all the time, but a develop in shed had more chance than he with the giant Burns. He was a glutton for punishment. He was bored in all the time, but a develop in shed had more chance than he with the giant Burns.

At no stage of the fight was either man ever extended beyond his possible as inaccessible as Mount Blanc, and against such a mountain Burns could not extend himself. He was smothered all the time. As for Johnson, he did not extend himself. He cuffed and smiled and smiled and cuffed, and in his eyes there was no anger, no hate, no desire to assume beating and angelic facial expressions for the benefit of the cameras. He was smiling and smiling and cuffed, and in his eyes there was no anger, no hate, no desire to assume beating and angelic facial expressions for the benefit of the cameras.

He would deliberately, and by apparently no exertion of strength, thrust Burns away and then, with a smile, yet again he would thrust Burns partly clear with one hand, and upturned him to the face of the other, and when Burns instantly fell forward into another clinch, Johnson would partly clear and repeat the upturned.

Once he did this five times in succession, as fast as a man could count, each upturned connecting, and connecting savagely, but principally the clinches Johnson rested and smiled and dreamed. This dreary, expressive, was fascinating. It seemed almost a trance. It was certainly deceptive, for suddenly the eyes would glint viciously and the face would be set in a half minute, when the smile and dreamy trance would return as Burns effected another clinch.

Johnson played with Burns from the time, and he played with Burns from the time of the opening round to the end of the fight. Burns was a toy in his hands. For Johnson it was a kinder, gentler romp.

"Hit here, Tahmy," he would say, exposing the right side of his unprotected stomach, and when Burns struck, Johnson would neither wince nor cover up. Instead, he would receive the blow with a happy, careless smile, directed to the unprotected stomach, and say: "Now here, Tahmy," and while Burns hit, he directed Johnson would continue to grin and chuckle and smile his grin at the unprotected stomach, and only one, can be passed upon Johnson. In the thirteenth round he made the mistake of his life. He should have put Burns out. He could have put him out. It would have been child's play. Instead of which he smiled and deliberately let Burns live until the fourteenth round the police stopped the fight and Johnson lost the credit of a knockout.

The above is a picture of the Adams Alumni second hockey team. There is a first team too, but the second team boys seem able to hold their own with the rest of the amateur teams about town, for they have won a majority of their games and, as the first team has defeated almost everything in sight, they are now arranging an out of town schedule.

When the season opened all the West end boys wanted to play hockey, but there was no rink. It remained for the Adams boys to come to the rescue and find a way and a place to play the Canadian game. They asked for and got the lumber for a warming house from the Scott-Craft Lumber company. They asked John J. Moe, alderman from that ward, to have the light used at the end of the avenue in the summer time put back, which he did. They now have one of the best rinks in the city. They care for it themselves and many a night they are at work flooding it after the crowd has gone home.

lowed the commission to take this action was not made public. The application of Joe Ward, also of the Tri-state league, was granted, and Ward was fined $200.

The most important matter outside of the applications for reinstatement was the settling back of the date when major league clubs are allowed to purchase players. Heretofore they could not purchase players before Feb. 1, but this limit was set forward two months.

The cases of Freeman, Johnson, Jesse Tammill and Kelly, all of the Washington club of the American league, came up and they were granted reinstatement, but were fined $200. However, $100 of each sentence was suspended in part, $200 being asked for, but this limit was set forward two months.

In his annual report, President Herman showed that 4,377 letters and telegrams had been sent out during the last year. The report also showed that the actual cost of maintaining the league was $28,400. During the past year, the world's paid out during the recent world's series President Herman also touched lightly upon the recent scandal cases in Chicago, and stated that a new method of selling tickets must be made.

By a total score of 56 to 27, the West Duluth Curlers lost out last night on the ice of the Duluth Curling club, in their efforts to gain possession of the Manley-McLennan trophy.

The up-town men showed much better form and they captured three of the games out of the four played. Tonight, at the West Duluth rink, the final games in the series will be played.

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 5.—Dr. B. F. Roller, Seattle's physician-wrestler-boxer, will not meet Al Kaufmann before the Jeffries Athletic club. Some time ago he challenged the winner of the Harry-Kaufmann battle, and posted $10,000 with a Seattle paper as a forfeit side bet.

In a letter to Baron Long yesterday he asks that the proposed match be called off, giving as his reason that he can secure a more acceptable opponent of the purse before a Seattle club.

When Your Stomach Hurts Take a Little Kodol

The pain will then cease—your stomach will feel good. Kodol stops the pains of indigestion and dyspepsia quickly, because it digests all the food you eat.

Kodol is a pleasant, palatable, liquid preparation, that helps the stomach to do its work in a natural way. Being a liquid, it starts digestion at once.

Kodol supplies the same digestive juices that are found in a healthy stomach. This is why it will stop the pains of indigestion quickly.

Your stomach, being weakened, probably, by over feeding or overwork, is unable to do its work properly, and the natural result is indigestion, sour stomach, gas, or belching, which will soon result in chronic dyspepsia unless the stomach is given help.

Nervous indigestion or dyspepsia, it is not only annoying, but dangerous. If left alone, the result generally is gastritis, or sometimes that fatal affliction—appendicitis.

Don't neglect your stomach. Don't take any chances. There is no need for you to suffer, because a little Kodol now and then, will keep the stomach well, healthy and strong.

NEW TERM WILL OPEN

Judge Ensign to Preside Over January Court Calendar.

Bar Association Will Hold Meeting in Court Room.

With 188 cases on the calendar, the January term of district court will open tomorrow morning. Judge Ensign will preside over the calendar, which will be called at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning. After the reading of the calendar, the grand jurors will report for instructions and will retire to take up their work.

The divorce cases will probably be taken up tomorrow afternoon and the hearing of these will continue the remainder of the week. The petit jurors being summoned to report next Monday morning at 9 o'clock. There are twenty-four divorce cases on the calendar and those for trial can very likely be heard by the end of the week.

As far as is known now, the grand jury should also finish its work within the present week. One murder case is to be investigated, that of Frank Colon, charged with the murder of Lazzo Crovich at a lumber camp near Alpena.

After the calling of the calendar tomorrow morning, the assembled attorneys will hold a meeting of the St. Louis County bar association to consider advocating the creation of another judicial position in the Eleventh district. The attorneys believe a fourth judge is necessary for the proper conduct of the business of the courts and a resolution advocating a bill providing for the appointment, will very likely be adopted. Nearly all of the members of the bar are heartily in favor of it. L. C. Harris and S. Harrison are mentioned as likely candidates for the position. If the fourth judge is decided upon.

Cured of a Severe Attack of Bronchitis by Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

"On October 18th, last, my little three-year-old daughter contracted a severe cold which resulted in a bad case of bronchitis," says Mrs. W. G. Ellison, Lexington, Ky. "She lost the power of speech completely and was a very sick child. Fortunately we had a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in the house and gave it to her according to the printed directions. On the second day she was a great deal better, and on the fifth day, October 23rd, she was entirely well of her cold and bronchitis, which I attribute to this splendid medicine. I recommend Chamberlain's Cough Remedy unreservedly as I have found it the safest and quickest cure for colds, both for children and adults, of any I have ever used." For sale by all druggists.

"A KNIGHT FOR A DAY."

Chicago Musical Comedy Success is Well Received in Duluth.

With a large and energetic chorus of more than passably pretty girls, some of the finest electrical effects ever brought to Duluth, a prima donna with a real voice, and a pair of comedians who are very funny at times, "A Knight for a Day" provides a very pleasant evening's entertainment.

It is easy to understand why the attraction broke the record for long runs for musical comedies in Chicago. The music is all of the catchy kind that can be whistled and hummed, and the dancing is of the best performance; the lines are bright and contain some genuine wit in places, and the mounting that has been given the comedy is superb.

The production has been kept up to the mark. The chorus has not been allowed to deteriorate in the least, and the costumes look bright and new.

The leading comedy roles are in the hands of Elsie Herbert and Bobby Barry, who follow in the footsteps of Mable Hite and Johnny Slavin very closely. Slavin and Miss Hite were the craze of a season in Chicago, and kept the Windy City laughing for several months with their elopement scene. Their work was such a success that Miss Herbert and Barry have attempted to follow closely along the lines laid out, and with a very fair measure of success. Miss Herbert is particularly pleasing, and between them they kept the show moving while they were on the stage.

Gertrude Hutcheson, as Muriel, has a much better voice than the average musical comedy prima donna, and her song, "Somebody Loves You, Dear," received several encores.

The dancing of Eugene Moulou, who takes the role of the French chef, saves him. He does not make much of what might be a very good comedy role. James McCormack and Thomas Cameron, who provide the trousers' part of the two love affairs in the slender plot, are rather colorless, but passable. Eleanor Irving, as Elaine, is a good looking young woman, and equal to the slight demands upon her.

There are three musical numbers which are the hits of the show: "Life Is a See Saw," "The Little Girl in Blue," and "Whistle When You Walk Out." The first and last are given with elaborate electrical effects, and all three received numerous encores last night.

On the whole, "A Knight for a Day" is worth seeing, and is up to the standard of the best musical comedy on tour. It provides a good evening's entertainment, which is the only mission of the show.

THE BIJOU BILL.

"It Happened in Dogville." Feature of Entertaining Program.

There is nothing especially new in Colin's trained dog act, the head liner on the Bijou bill this week, but the entire on village life, "It Happened in Dogville," is a pleasing presentation of the degree to which canine intelligence and aptitude may be developed. The flirtation of the saloon keeper and the cobbler's wife is carried to a broad climax, but the act is laughable and cleverly done by the canine cast.

The Sexton's Dream, is a scenic representation of the tower of Trinity church in New York city on Christmas eve. The sexton sings "The Holy City" in good voice.

The jugglers are in evidence again, but John LeClair has a good deal on some of the jugglers, who play the circuit. He has novelty and ingenuity in his act and he received a good share of the applause liberally bestowed by an enthusiastic audience last night.

Jack Fourgore in a ludicrous make-up, and Ida Emerson in some good team steps to gain favor with the audience and Frank Mayne & Co., put on a sketch entitled "The Tipster," in which Frank Mayne and Caroline Nelson do the heavy work. The sketch deals with a horse race, in which "Doughnut," a horse you don't see, wins a race and $1,000 for the feminine principal.

Endure Silver sings "Think of Me When I Am Gone," and the moving pictures complete a very entertaining bill.

Daniel Sully.

Daniel Sully, "the natural actor," who scored such a brilliant success as Father Whalen in "The Parish Priest," has found another winner in the three act comedy, "The Matrimaker," written for him by Terrell Shepard, which will be presented at the Lyceum Thursday and the remainder of the week with a matinee on Saturday.

The story of the play is simple enough. A wealthy ranchman, dominating, self-willed and accustomed to command, is in love with his pretty ward, a girl many years his junior. The young lady has other views and has fallen in love with a clever young engineering engineer, who has come out to the little Idaho village as the representative of an Eastern mining syndicate. There has been an epidemic of horse stealing and when the tenderfoot is found with another man's horse in his possession on he is made an unwilling participant in a lynching by Father Daly, pastor of the village church, arrives in time to rescue him and then peruses the mob. He then proceeds to fight the young people's battles in his own way and eventually succeeds in arranging matters to the satisfaction of all concerned. In doing so he encounters many obstacles, but overcomes them all by a combination of tact, diplomacy and good-humored but inflexible authority.

The sore and inflamed lungs are healed and strengthened, and a dangerous condition is quickly averted. Take only Foley's Honey and Tar in the yellow package. Sold by all druggists.

DEFAULTED ON THE OPTION

Shagawa Iron Company Sued by Owners of Section Thirty.

Claiming that the Shagawa Iron company failed to pay the installments on its option for a mining lease on the famous section 30 property, suit was brought against the company in district court this morning, by Margaretta Lonstorf, Nickolas company, Richard H. Fagan, Mary L. Fagan, Luther C. Harris, Hannah B. Harris, Susan F. Eaton and Willis Eaton as administrators of the estate of Frank W. Eaton.

It is claimed that an option for a mining lease, running one year, given Sept. 8, 1906, to M. Chisholm and Edward Lynch and they afterwards assigned it to the Shagawa Iron company. The option was subsequently exercised on March 20, 1908. It is charged, and the company agreed to pay $1,250 each month from March 20, 1907, to March 20, 1908. It is alleged the company defaulted in its payments for six months and the owners of the property seek to recover $7,500.

G. A. St. Clair now has a lease on the property.

THINKS SHE IS BEING ROBBED

Range Woman Will be Examined in Probate Court.

Katherine Betzold, who is believed to be insane and who has been confined in St. Mary's hospital for the past two weeks, will be given an examination in probate court this afternoon. She is 49 years old and the information received in the hospital is that she is violent at times and has hallucinations and that relatives are conspiring to take her money away from her.

DESCENT FROM GREAT HOG?

Lecturer Thinks He Has Discovered Darwin's "Missing Link."

Chicago, Jan. 5.—The Chicago Anthropological society last night learned that Father Adam was descended from "the great hog," meaning "Taurus," the bull of many species, whose picture may be found in any patent medicine almanac as one of the signs of the Zodiac. The "missing link" sought by Darwin was declared to be a cross between a human being and a pig.

Furthermore, it was expounded by Walter F. Cooley, single taxer and anthropologist, but signed "Dr. Darwin," on this occasion—if an anthropologist ever can be simple—that the great hog was descended from a serpent. The fore it became apparent that the grandfather of Adam was none other than a snake.

So far the single low brow present could determine the beginning of Eve didn't enter into the situation at all unless she came from the north pole with Triton in a metal motor boat. The hog was, according to Mr. Cooley, by electricity harnessed in much more convenient form than the descendants of the people of the myths ever have been able to harness it.

Mr. Cooley delved no deeply into Egyptian mythology and the legends of chaos that even the high-browed anthropologists wrinkled the skin in their foreheads occasionally in an effort to follow him. But it was a typical orgy in erudition for the society, and as soon as the one low brow was observed looking at them the puzzled high brows beamed knowingly through their spectacles.

When the speaker whooped it up by referring carelessly to Druidical hymns and the population of the Caledonian grove and said that Eve called to Adam, "Come, little pig," these same listeners looked as though there was nothing disconcerting on Eve's part in so addressing Adam.

Heretofore if the complainant was himself at all negligent, under the comparative negligence act the case was dismissed.

TO IMPROVE SIXTH AVENUE

The board of public works yesterday afternoon received a petition from interested property owners, asking that sixth avenue east, between First and Fourth streets, be repaired and put in good condition next spring.

At the afternoon session the board also considered plans for widening the proposed city sidewalk at the foot of Sixth street, from the foot of Sixth street to the foot of Second street, and decided that certain lands included in the first plan would not have to be purchased, thus saving some money to the city.

The board voted to buy a supply of mackinaws and mittens for the chain gang, to be used in their work this winter. The gang shovels snow whenever there is any to shovel, and also does other city work.

BETTER OFF THAN EASTERN CITIES

"Business is better right here than it is in the East," said A. L. Ordean, president of the First National bank, who has just returned from an Eastern trip.

They were hit harder in the East, in a business way, than we were out here, and therefore they will be slower in recovering. They are going slow just at the present time, though financially, business and credit are very safe and sound.

I found that many of the bigger houses were not going ahead very fast until they discovered just what congress was going to do with the tariff. They are afraid of it. They want to be sure what action congress is going to take, before they buy heavily from the manufacturers.

I am afraid that the tariff tinkering will have the effect of making business a trifle slow for a while, at least. We have just as good, if not better business conditions here than are present in the East, and our return to normal prosperity should be more rapid than the business recovery of the East.

SUSPENSION DAY IS SUSPENDED
House Members on the Alert to Introduce Bills.

Washington, Jan. 5.—In the ordinary course of business today was suspension day in the house of representatives, but because of the early adjournment out of respect to the memory of the late Representative Dacey, unanimous consent was given for the consideration of bills under that order today.

There was the usual scramble to catch the speaker's eye for recognition to present the present measure of some member, which otherwise might not have been reached on the calendar during the remainder of the session.

The speaker tried to be impartial in the distribution of his favors in the regard and in consequence many a claimant was made happy. Not many "suspension days" are allowed crowded out by business of a pressing nature, but when they do come the whole house is on the alert and today was no exception to the rule.

MINNESOTA'S GREAT FUTURE DEPICTED

COLDEST NIGHT

The Thermometer Has

7 a. m., Tuesday ... 20 below
8 a. m. ... 24 below
9 a. m. ... 31 below

12 m. ... 36 below
Highest velocity of wind, 56 miles per hour at midnight.
Lowest temperature ever recorded in Duluth, 30 below on Jan. 2, 1885.
On Jan. 24, 1887, it was 34 below and averaged 28 below for the day.
Some other cold points:
Battleford ... 48 below
Prince Albert ... 42 below
Winnipeg ... 40 below
Havre ... 40 below

The thermometer registered 34 degrees below zero at 7 o'clock this morning, and during the night a playful little zephyr, which at times reached a velocity of fifty-six miles an hour, whirled the snow in little eddies, and sifted it through the window casings. It was perhaps the coldest night that Duluth has experienced in the history of the weather bureau. Mr. Richardson stated this morning that lower temperatures had been recorded on Jan. 24, 1904, and Jan. 2, 1885, when marks of 27 below and 40 below were reached, but on those days the wind was not so penetrating. The wind reached its greatest velocity at 11 o'clock when it was blowing fifty-six miles an hour. At that time the thermometer registered 36 degrees below zero. The mercury kept dropping and the wind moderating from that time. At 2 o'clock this morning it was 34 below, and the wind had fallen to about twenty-six miles an hour. That was the lowest point reached, and the mercury rose very slowly in the morning during the night. It is still hovering about the 20-below mark, however, and will go down again tonight.

There is not much likelihood of the weather moderating in the morning night. It is still bitterly cold all through the Northwest, and about the same temperatures will be recorded tonight.

Washington, Jan. 6.—According to gossip about the senate, the hesitancy of President-elect Taft in announcing his selection of Frank H. It has been said that if he continued to hold his position as national chairman, considerable objection would be raised to his serving as the head of the postoffice department, which has more federal patronage than any other of the executive departments.

GOVERNOR JOHNSON TELLS OF DAWN OF NEW INDUSTRIAL ERA AS RESULT OF BUILDING DULUTH STEEL PLANT

GOVERNOR JOHN A. JOHNSON.

GOVERNOR JOHNSON IS

(From a Staff Correspondent.)
St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Governor Johnson was inaugurated this morning for the third time before the Minnesota legislature with the simple democratic ceremony that characterizes such functions in this country. His reception was exceedingly cordial and it showed not the slightest abatement in the enthusiasm that has been exhibited by the legislature in two previous inaugurations of this sort. After a short separate session in both houses, the joint session began at 11 with speaker Rockne of the house presiding, and with Lieutenant Governor Elbertson sharing the speaker's rostrum with him. Governor Johnson was escorted to the house chamber by a joint committee of three from each branch, and he was accompanied by former Governor John Lind. The governor was sworn in by Chief Justice Start of the state supreme court. Mrs. Johnson was present with a few of her friends, and her entrance was marked by a burst of applause.

Minnesota's Half Century of Remarkable Progress is Reviewed.

Bureau of Lands, Mines and Forests Urged and Drainage Favored.

PRINCIPAL FEATURES OF THE MESSAGE

Governor Johnson's message summarizes Minnesota's remarkable progress during fifty years of statehood and eloquently describes the territory and resources of Northern Minnesota and the new industrial era that will follow the manufacture of iron and steel at Duluth. The state should give well-considered aid to Northern Minnesota's development by generous school provisions, road and bridge development, drainage of public lands, advantageous conditions for settlement of public lands, encouragement of immigration, wise methods of taxation, supervision of public accounts, strict health provisions and general enforcement of laws.

The governor recommends a state bureau of lands, mines and forests; continuance of the work of draining the state lands, with future appropriations for terms of six, eight or ten years; liberal appropriation for the work of the immigration commissioner; a county assessor system for purposes of taxation, with a tax commission of three in Hennepin, Ramsey and St. Louis counties; that no system of iron ore taxation be adopted that would deprive the counties, cities, towns and school districts in the mining regions of their full share of the tax levied; semi-annual payment of railway taxes; the securing of equal and just railroad rates and insistence on the maximum passenger rate being 2 cents a mile; re-enactment of the railroad laws of 1907 with the penalty clause repealed; law to compel carriers, in case of appeal from an established rate, to return excess charges to shippers if courts' final decision is against the carrier; county board of education and non-resident trustee officers in country districts; definite professional standard of teachers and superintendents; the care of acutely insane persons in state hospitals and of chronic insane in county institutions; the state to make a per capita payment to the counties; the abolition of the fellow-servant rule in personal injury cases; the establishment of a state banking department; additional state examiners for municipalities and townships; the initiative and referendum; extension of the primary election law to state officials; a one-half mill tax in lieu of all appropriations for the state university.

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Governor John A. Johnson was today inaugurated for the third time as chief executive of the state of Minnesota, and read his message to the legislature assembled in joint session. Following is the text of the message:

For the third time, it becomes my duty, as it is my privilege, under the Constitution to address the legislature, giving my views on such matters as may appear to me to be of general concern to the people, and which may be of value in promoting the general domestic welfare.

Our Constitution declares that government is for the security, benefit and protection of the people. The Constitution also guarantees these blessings to all people who are a part of the government, and your duty and mine is to do all we can to see that each and every citizen of the Commonwealth is protected in every right the citizen has under the Constitution. In the enactment of law, one, and but one rule should apply, and that is the rule of equal justice, and I know that you will be actuated by the single purpose of dealing fairly between all people and all sections.

Fortunately for us all, the last legislature did its work so well that the problems confronting you are not so numerous as in other years. We have, however, are not less important, and they will necessarily require the best thought and energy of all who contribute officially to the business of the state.

We have much cause for congratulation in the general prosperity of the people and of the excellent condition of the affairs of the state particularly. A glance at the financial affairs of the Commonwealth is certainly reassuring.

The report of the state auditor reveals the fact during the past two years there has been added to the permanent school fund ... $1,885,248.70
Permanent school fund ... 24,629.25
Internal improvement fund ... 185.67
Swamp land fund of all who contribute officially to the business of the state ... 231,009.87

The permanent school fund had, on July 31, 1908, reached the splendid total of $10,709,288.81, and is now approximately $10,000,000, and placing us at the head of all of the states in this particular. The fund is safely invested in state, municipal, school and other lands. This amount will be augmented each year by the sale of the proper development of our mineral, timber and other resources will, in three years, exceed a hundred million dollars.

MARKED SENTIMENT IN FAVOR OF SHORT SESSION

Legislature Not Likely to Sit Longer Than End of March.

(From a Staff Correspondent.)
St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 6.—(Special to The Herald.)—Now that the organization of the legislature in both its branches has been completed, matters of legislation may be expected to begin shaping themselves. They haven't done so thus far, to any noticeable degree. This is largely due to a point which differentiates this legislature from any of its predecessors, which point has a delicate relationship with one of the most conspicuous pieces of legislation growing out of the session of two years ago—the anti-pass bill. With the exception of a very limited proportion, the members of the legislature of 1909 have not just got acquainted with the legislature of 1909.

They have been a part of it ever since election, but not until they got on the job did they begin to mingle with each other. Now they have an opportunity for communion and consultation, and will themselves largely with minor matters of organization, but more largely still with the more important matter of getting acquainted.

The legislature, therefore, does not yet know just what it is here for, and will it know for some time to come—perhaps not until after the session is over. There are vague ideas that things are needed, but the man who propounded in affected amazement query whether Minnesota was in need of more laws, and if so what particular laws these were, asked a hard one to answer, and nobody would find it harder to frame an interesting answer.

ENDORSE MOVEMENT FOR A FOURTH JUDGE

Lawyers Appoint a Committee to Draft the Bill.

Range Towns Put in Their Claim for Recognition.

 "Resolved, That it be the sense of this meeting that another and additional judge be provided for the Eleventh judicial district."
 "Resolved further, That a committee of five, of which the president shall be chairman, be appointed to draft a bill providing for an additional judge, and when in the form it be presented to the legislature, and every effort be made to have the same passed by the state legislature."

The bar association of the Eleventh judicial district, in session, following the call of the calendar at the opening of the January term of court this morning, adopted the above resolution and put in shape the sentiment, which has been expressed by many members of the bar at different times during the past year, regarding the need of another judge to take care of the judicial business of the district, and particularly of St. Louis county.

President John G. Williams of the bar association, presided over the meeting and the resolution, which was ultimately adopted by the association, was presented by Howard T. Abbott, Mr. Arnold of Virginia made a determined effort on behalf of the ranges to have the association take some action on the question of holding regular terms of court at different ranges.

Dr. Lyon's PERFECT Tooth Powder

 Used by people of refinement for almost Half a Century bill providing for another judge should not be encumbered by any other range or measure and Mr. Arnold's movement came to naught, his motion being laid on the table.

The plea of the ranges for what they termed their rights furnished the only excitement of the meeting, as there was no division of sentiment on the question of asking the legislature for another judge for the district.

In presenting his resolution, Mr. Abbott said that for the past year, the members of the bar have often expressed themselves as believing the work of the district court was growing too heavy for three judges. He said the calendars are crowded at each term, the terms overlap each other and the work is rushed so that it is necessary to have longer sessions in January than should be.

Idea for Ranges.
 Mr. Arnold immediately put in his plea for the ranges. He said he had had in mind the possibility of securing another judge for the district would do something to aid the ranges. He pointed out that terms of court are held on the ranges, but they are not very valuable, as cases could be tried there only by consent of both parties, jury cases cannot be tried there at all, and he believed that something should be done to relieve the situation.

Mr. Arnold urged that Otter Tail and Stearns counties have district courts in remote communities, which allowed a trial of local issues without travel to the county seat. He said the establishment of separate courts on the ranges would not amount to county division, but would merely be great accommodation to the range people, avoiding much of the crowding now common on the calendars of the court here.

Several other local attorneys expressed themselves as opposed to the bar association taking any action in what they regarded as a local matter for the ranges and the motion to lay one resolution of Mr. Arnold on the table carried.

 Mr. Hains said that he met Anis once on his boat at Marquette in 1902. Mrs. Peter Hains' brother, Peter Hains, said that he met Anis on his boat at Marquette in 1902. "I met him on his boat at Marquette in 1902," said the witness, "and I invited him to accompany me to New York on the boat the next day. Mr. Swan, a friend, told me that Anis had drunk three or four highballs. I learned that they stayed at the hotel in New York in the morning. Anis came to my boat the next day, and I told him that I had done an improper thing, and he admitted it. I understood their relations were improper, and Anis asked me if I was going to tell my brother, and I told him that I would not."

Under sharp questioning, Hains said that the year following the case were at Mrs. Peter Hains' house at Winthrop, Mass. HAINS IS ATTACKED

Asked in Court as to Remarks Made to Claudia.

Denies He Told Brother's Wife She Looked Sweet.

Flushing, N. Y., Jan. 6.—Thornton Hains became slightly ill just before court opened today for his trial, but recovered quickly and took his place on the witness stand.

Thornton Hains denied that, at a dinner with Capt. Hains and his wife over a year ago, he had complained bitterly of being because his manuscript had been refused.

"Did you tell Mrs. Hains at that time that you would get even with Anis yet?"

"No, I did not."

"No, I remember saying to Mrs. Hains about Anis, 'I don't want to meet that man. I will have to shoot him if I meet him for you know I have threatened to shoot him on sight.'"

"No, I did not."

Thornton Hains declared he had never told Mrs. Hains that he was going to write to the captain about her.

"Is it a fact that when the captain was in the Philippines, you called on Mrs. Hains and said to her, 'My God, you look sweet,' and grabbed her by the arm?"

"Your honor," said the defendant, "I'm a prisoner here."

Mr. McIntyre interrupted and said if the district attorney would agree to call Mrs. Claudia Hains would be no objection to the line of the testimony. Hains, however, declared that it was not so.

The district attorney asked the witness if he had read to Mrs. Hains that he would like to kiss her, if she was not his brother's wife.

The defendant's face became fiery red, and he bit his lips and, turning to the court, made a protest in low tones against the question. Mr. McIntyre, however, directed his client to answer, and the witness said "No."

Further questions as to whether the defendant had ever had relations with Mrs. Hains were overruled.

A Private Graveyard.
 Thornton Hains asked if he had not told Mr. Luby, father of Mrs. Charles Hains, a brother who had turned down his stories, and that some day he would kill him.

"It's absurd. I killed every one who turned down my stories. I would have to have a private graveyard," snarled the witness.

The witness declared that in his opinion the acts of Capt. Hains for the past month or more were irrational and those of a crazy man.

New lights were thrown on the relationships of William E. Anis and Mrs. Claudia Hains, when Thornton Hains declared that he had been several years ago, in Marblehead, Mass., he became aware that Anis and Mrs. Hains had been intimate.

Questioned by Justice Crane, Thornton Hains declared that he had been in the room when Mrs. Hains and Anis were together, and that he had seen them.

The fabric of the defense's case was badly torn when Thornton Hains declared that he had been in the room when Mrs. Hains and Anis were together, and that he had seen them.

Mr. Arnold urged that Otter Tail and Stearns counties have district courts in remote communities, which allowed a trial of local issues without travel to the county seat. He said the establishment of separate courts on the ranges would not amount to county division, but would merely be great accommodation to the range people, avoiding much of the crowding now common on the calendars of the court here.

Several other local attorneys expressed themselves as opposed to the bar association taking any action in what they regarded as a local matter for the ranges and the motion to lay one resolution of Mr. Arnold on the table carried.

Under sharp questioning, Hains said that the year following the case were at Mrs. Peter Hains' house at Winthrop, Mass. "It is a fact that one night Anis invited you and your wife to take a ride in an automobile," said the witness, "and you said to him, 'I will take a ride some other night,' and you said to him, 'I'll get even with you if it takes a life-time.'"

"You love your brother."
 "Yes."
 "But you never told your brother of the relationships of his wife with Anis."
 "No."
 "You heard your brother say that he was an intimate friend of Anis, and visited back and forth."

DIPHTHERIA PREVALENT
 Diphtheria was the prevalent contagious disease in Duluth during December, according to the monthly report of Health Commissioner Patton. Eighty-four cases of diphtheria were reported during the month. There were fifteen cases of scarlet fever, and no cases of smallpox.

The incinerator was kept busy. A total of 1,050 yards of material was burned there at a cost of 25 cents a yard. There were 153 loads of paper, 257 loads of refuse and 257 loads of garbage. Five dogs also were incinerated.

The meat inspector visited 102 meat markets.

TOO MUCH SMOKE IS A NUISANCE

Health Commissioner Patton is again all riled up over the smoke nuisance. He says there is a lot of unnecessary smoke floating around, particularly in the vicinity of local laundries, and declares that if the nuisance is not abated there will be some arrests.

A photographer has been commissioned to watch his chance and photograph the buildings in question when a particularly large cloud of smoke is rolling forth. The photographs will be used as evidence in court, unless the owners of furnaces come to their senses.

If a little care was used in feeding the furnaces the smoke nuisance would practically be done away with.

FIVE HORSES TO BE DISPOSED OF

When the new automobile police patrol wagon arrives in Duluth next month from Mankato, Minn., five good police horses will be released from the service of the city. They will be sold to the best possible advantage, for there will be no further use for them at Central station.

It will be necessary to keep a team at the West Duluth station. There are now five horses at the Central station. The oldest horse in the service, Prince, now stationed at West Duluth, will be sold to a kindly farmer, who will give him the right kind of care, and a new horse will be purchased from Central station to replace him. He is 20 years old, and joined the police force in 1903. He would be given a good medal for the faithful performance of duty if the city officials thought he would recognize its significance, and appreciate it.

AMENDING CHARTER

H. H. Phelps Tells Why He Opposes Three Proposed Amendments.

Property is Now Paying All the Taxes It Can Stand.

To the Editor of The Herald.

There are to be submitted to the voters at the coming municipal election in this city, three proposed amendments to the city charter relating to street improvements, and I would appreciate it very much if you would allow me space in your valuable paper to give some of the reasons why these amendments should not be adopted.

The amendments referred to are as follows:

"No assessment for benefits shall be made for any part of the cost of grading, paving or maintaining the intersections of streets with other streets or avenues."

When property has once been assessed for cost of an improvement in any street or highway, it shall never again, after payment of such cost, be subject to assessment for the same improvement or maintaining the same improvement.

The sum which may be assessed against any lot or parcel of land within any five-year period shall not exceed 25 per cent of the assessed value of such lot or parcel of land, except on petition of the majority of the owners, who shall own more than 50 per cent of the frontage to be affected by such assessment."

These amendments did not originate with the charter commission. Five per cent of the voters petitioned for them, and the commission submitted them because it was compelled to.

Street intersections may now be paid for by general taxation under the charter, as it now is. If the city so desires, no change in the charter is needed in order to confer this power. It is entirely in the hands of the common council.

Cost of Intersections. But in any event, it would be unwise to attempt to pay the cost of improving the intersections by general tax levies for the following reasons: In the first place, a large portion of the city has already been improved under the present system and the cost of improving the street intersections has been assessed against the adjoining property.

In the second place, there is no power in the charter to raise any more money by general taxation than is being levied at the present time. If this amendment is passed, the city must take out of the treasury for this purpose that is needed to pay the general running expenses of the city.

Furthermore, if it were possible, an increase in the general taxes of the city to the extent necessary to pay the cost of street intersection improvements at this time would be unwise. Property in the city is paying about all the taxes that it can stand and the city would be very unprosperous.

The Second Amendment. The second proposed amendment provides that when property has once been assessed for the cost of an improvement of a street, it shall never again be assessed for the renewing or maintaining of the same improvement. This means that where the old pavements that were made back in the days when cedar blocks and other temporary paving materials were used, like Fourth street and some of the avenues in the central part of the city and Fifty-fifth and Fifty-ninth avenues west and Eighth street in West Duluth, are torn out, they are already assessed for their replacement. It means that as fast as the pavements on Michigan street, Superior street, First and Second streets and the various avenues connecting them in the center of the city wear out, as they rapidly will because of constant use, they must be replaced by a general levy of taxes on all the property of the city. Every man who owns a cow or a horse or pays taxes on other personal property as well as the farmer up over the hill within the city limits, will have to pay for maintaining the streets in front of the high priced business property that is yielding big incomes in rentals. The advocates of these amendments are urging the changes upon the theory that the high priced property in the center of the city is not paying its share of the cost of improving the streets, but do they not see that it is that are much used that will wear out the fastest and have to be most often replaced? In the outlying residence portions of the city where property is cheap pavements are laid they will last a lifetime, but in the business district they must be replaced every few years. The streets of Chicago are an example. The pavements there are constantly wearing out in the business district. We will all take pride in seeing the streets in our business district kept up. Not so with the outlying residence districts. Nobody will have any particular interest in those except the people living there, and if all the taxpayers have to foot the bill the people directly interested will find it impossible in most cases to wield influence enough to get their streets improved. In other words, the portions of the city having the greatest "pull" will get the improvements.

The Third Amendment. The third proposed amendment provides that not to exceed 25 per cent of the value of any property can be assessed against it in any five-year period unless the improvement is petitioned for by a majority of the owners of the property to be improved. This provision does not relate to street improvements alone, but applies to all improvements, including sidewalks and sewers. The adoption of this amendment would have no particular effect on the higher priced property in the center of the city, but it would seriously affect the cheaper outlying districts. It would place them where growth and improvement would be impossible. On first thought, it would seem that property ought not to be assessed for improvements more than 25 per cent of its value, but there is much property in the city that has no real value unless it can have sidewalks and other improvements. With improvements it becomes inhabitable, without them nobody can use it. In portions of the outlying districts the assessed value of lots is from $5 to $10 per lot. Twenty-five per cent of this would not pay for building a sidewalk. Much of our real estate is owned by non-residents and parties living away from the property. Such persons generally are opposed to any improvement that is to cause them any outlay. To require 50 per cent of the owners in such cases to petition before an improvement can be made, is to prohibit the improvement.

The city is responsible to pedestrians for the condition of the sidewalks. If any person is injured because of a defective sidewalk, the city as a whole must pay for it. Chapter 213 of the laws of 1903 provides that sidewalks in cities of over 50,000 population may be constructed by a four-fifths vote of the members of the common council without any petition, and the cost assessed against the property benefited. This proposed amendment is in direct conflict with this general law of the state.

Duluth Peculiar to Itself. You cannot successfully apply to Duluth the systems of improvements that are in force in Eastern cities. The city is a compact territory, where the conditions are practically the same regarding all the property. There is only one Duluth. It is peculiar to itself. In one part of its territory it has property worth $2,000 a front foot. In another part of the city you can almost lose yourself in the woods. There are unimproved lands within the city limits. We have taken into the city the villages of Fond du Lac, New Duluth, West Duluth and Lakeside; that all have local conditions peculiar to themselves, but governing law must be such that, if possible, it will not work an injustice to any of these localities.

One advocate of these changes in the charter says that the outlying property is not now paying its share of street improvements. At the forfeited office during this last November, there were hundreds of lots in the outlying portions of the city, in Kimberly and Stryker's addition No. 1, and Bay View addition No. 2, and other additions that were offered to purchasers for one-half of the taxes against the property. Nobody would buy them. These lands can be obtained any time by anybody who will pay the taxes. What is the use of putting additional burdens on this property that does not now pay anything toward supporting the city, because of the fact that the taxes against it are more than it is worth? When you cannot collect the taxes, you cannot pay the cost of street improvements, when the property will not now pay its share of the general running expenses of the city, is it ridiculous. Very respectfully,
H. H. PHELPS.

JURY GETS ERB CASE

Prosecution Asks for Two First Degree Murder
Verdicts.

Defense Asks for Acquittals on Self-Defense Ground.

Media, Pa., Jan. 6.—The fate of Mrs. M. Florence Erb and her sister, Mrs. Catherine Beisel, who have been on trial in the Delaware county court for more than a week, charged with the sensational murder of Capt. J. Clayton Erb, the husband of one of the defendants, was placed in the hands of the jury today.

The prosecution asks for a verdict of first degree murder for both women, and while the defense admits Mrs. Beisel shot and killed her brother-in-law, it asks the jury to acquit the defendants on the ground of self-defense. The story of the tragedy was the dramatic feature of the trial. Mrs. Beisel, sobbing violently, stood upright in the witness box and, in a voice choked with emotion, exclaimed:

"I shot him; I pulled the trigger. I don't know how many times. Describing the struggle with Capt. Erb, when it was alleged he chased Mrs. Erb, revolver in hand, on the fatal night, Mrs. Beisel said: "He came toward me, and as he came I sprang at him. I don't know exactly how it happened. We tumbled over the hall for the revolver. He pushed me against the door. He had me up against the wall beside the bathroom door and I tried to hold him off. I gave an awful push and broke loose. He caught me again. I had the pistol and I fired. I was afraid he'd kill my sister."

The witness pointed, as with an imaginary revolver, as she repeated the story, and then dropped back into her seat. "Everything grew dark after that, and I don't know what happened," she said.

In almost every detail the witness corroborated the story of the alleged brutal treatment which she and her sister received at the hands of Capt. Erb, as had previously been given by Mrs. Erb.

Important as throwing light on the Erb family troubles, and showing something of the attitude of Capt. Erb toward the accused widow, were several letters put in evidence.

Among these was a pathetic letter from Mrs. Erb to Mrs. Beisel, in which she wrote:

"This is the solution of all the trouble in my life with my husband. Before I married him I told him every secret of my soul, and this is what he gave me with until I am driven to almost destroying myself. If it were not for the fear of hell, death would indeed be a relief. I fear he will kill me when he is in a drunken state."

At the conclusion of Mrs. Beisel's testimony, a number of witnesses were called to testify to the character of the accused woman. Several physicians were also called to testify regarding the physical condition of Mrs. Erb at various times, and which she had declared were caused by Capt. Erb's brutality. The defense then closed. In rebuttal, District Attorney McDaniel offered in evidence letters written by Capt. Erb to Mrs. Erb while she was in a Chester hospital, and at other times in which he advised her to be cheerful and happy and not worry over the past.

The letters were all kindly in tone and his wife was addressed as "Dear Peggy."

After offering the letters, the district attorney began summing up for the commonwealth. He bitterly arraigned both Mrs. Beisel and Mrs. Erb, picturing the latter as a husband-slaying hypocrite, who came into court with her wiles' wiles to blacken her husband's memory. He declared the murder to have been willful and premeditated, and demanded a first degree verdict.

What to eat, in order to get the best out of one's brain and body, is as important for the modern farmer as the manufacturer, business man or professional worker. An ill farmer writes:

"I am a farmer and was troubled with chronic indigestion for two years—suffered great agony and could find no permanent relief from medicines."

"A friend suggested that I quit using so much starchy foods, which are the principal cause of intestinal indigestion. I began to use Grape-Nuts and have continued with most gratifying results."

"Grape-Nuts food has built me up wonderfully. I gained 6 lbs., the first four weeks that I used it. My general health is better than before, my brain is clear, my nerves strong."

"For breakfast and dinner I have Grape-Nuts with cream, a slice of crisp toast, a soft boiled egg and a cup of Postum. My evening meal is made of Grape-Nuts and cream, alone."

"ELEVATED" SAYS TAWNEY

Minnesotan Will Reply to Roosevelt on House Floor.

Proposition Made to Return Message to the President.

Washington, Jan. 6.—"I have been elevated from the ranks of the criminal class to the Ananias club," declared Representative Tawney, chairman of the house committee on appropriations, commenting on President Roosevelt's special message relative to the secret service. Mr. Tawney returned to Washington yesterday from Minnesota.

"I have nothing to say in reply to the president's message at this time," continued he, except that he has misrepresented any speeches to the house. This controversy lies between the chief executive and the legislative branch of the government and there it should be settled. The president is unwarranted in trying to make an issue between himself and the appropriations committee."

Mr. Tawney is one of those upon whom the president placed the responsibility of the movement to restrict the secret service. He stated that after the special committee to which the message was referred had made its report, he would have something to say on the floor of the house upon the subject of the secret service and the message of the president.

Drastic measures are being considered by the Perkins special committee of the house appointed to recommend to the house action in defense of the body in reply to the criticism made by Roosevelt in referring to secret service legislation.

After a meeting of that committee yesterday, a report spread that the committee would recommend to the house that that portion of the annual message referring to the secret service be expunged from the record. Another report is that the recent message in reply to the request of the house for information on the subject would be returned to the chief executive. It is believed the house will be called on to take action Thursday or by the end of the week at the latest.

Another meeting of the special committee was held today. In contrast with the inability of the committee to agree on a course of action previous to the holidays, it is understood there is practically no difference of opinion now as to what action should be taken. It appears that whatever the nature of the report, it will be unanimous. This unanimity applies to the Democratic members, John Sharp Williams and James Lloyd, as well as to the Republican members, James B. Perkins, Edwin Donby and John W. Weeks.

Members of the committee have gone over the situation carefully with the members of the committee on appropriations, referred to by the president in his recent message, in order that they might become conversant with all the facts in the case. It is believed that in the report of the special committee a long preamble will set forth the results of this investigation.

Russian Steamer Sinks in Collision Near Noworossisk.

The Sviatoslav sank within three minutes. Four of her crew managed to get aboard the Poseidon and were saved. Thirty-four members of the crew were lost.

Death From Hemorrhage. Bagley, Minn., Jan. 6.—An autopsy upon the body of John L. Bartholomew, who died in a shanty on Dec. 31, revealed that death was the result of a hemorrhage of the brain and exposure to the cold. The coroner's jury found a verdict accordingly. Bartholomew carried a policy of insurance in the Woodman lodge of Blue Earth, which apparently is still in force, and is payable to a son, who has not been located.

Grief Causes Insanity. Fergus Falls, Minn., Jan. 6.—Mrs. Pauline J. Klaskavik of the town of Sverdrup, has been committed to the insane hospital here. Mrs. Klaskavik's eldest son, a boy of 9 years, died a short time ago, and grief unbalanced her mind. She has four other small children.

When Daniel Sully played "The Par-

mount hockey team.

They represent the Fairmount Athletic association and under the colors of the association are putting on many fast teams of all kinds. They play baseball, football and hockey in season.

The same boys have played together for years and they have been very successful in their athletic ventures thus far.

They too, are to have a hockey rink of their own, and work has been started on one at Thirty-sixth avenue west. A West Duluth firm has been asked to donate lumber for a warming house and by the end of the week, the boys hope to entertain at their first skating party.

to right, beginning with the top row are: Berthume, St. Germain, Blanchard, Berg, Frank, Crosby, bottom row, Bergun, Berthume brothers, mascots and McDonald.

he says he has the fastest team that ever cast their shadows on the walls of the armory. Of course, this feeling on the part of the former Duluth pitcher is but natural, but the U. C. T. team resents it.

The Commercial Travelers are not slow. They have played a number of games this year and had no difficulty in winning all of them.

Fast Basketball Game Is Scheduled for Friday.

Friday evening at the Y. M. C. A. the Nelson Dewey basketball team will line up against the local team in the second game of the season.

Both teams are strong and a fast contest should result.

The Y. M. C. A. team defeated the fast Blaine team about a week ago and will be looking for a similar success in six years, encouraged the boys greatly, and they are now practicing nearly every night.

Dewey always has a fast team and other words he will take up the white team for a number of years. This year the Duluth men are determined to get even.

The teams will line up as follows:

Columbus. Nelson Dewey, Colton, forward, Buison, Fenlon, forward, Miller, center, Weller, McLean, guard, Jordan, Thompson, guard, Whalen.

Columbia's Take Two Out of Three

The Columbia bowling team took two out of three from the First National Bank team last night in the first bowling contest to be held by the city bowlers after holidays.

Muller of the Columbus rolled the high score and Massey of the same team captured the high average.

The lineup and scores follow:

First National Bank. Muller, 161, 147, 111, Kreidler, 153, 136, 144, Schulz, 150, 150, 150, Dummy, 148, 119, 189, Pettit, 143, 151, 126, Wegman, 89, 80, 80, Handicap, 860, 783, 800.

PLOT TO KILL GOMEZ NOW LAID TO CASTRO

Berlin, Jan. 6.—Ex-President Castro is now able to take nourishment, following his operation.

How Castro's Power Went.
Caracas, Jan. 6.—Castro's power in Venezuela crumbled in a day like a house built of cards, and not a pillar remains standing. Even his own brother, after turning over his gun and ammunition to the appointee of President Gomez, took to ignominious flight into Colombia. Not one of Castro's family has raised his voice for him, for it was his custom to treat them more or less as he did foreign diplomats and his ministers.

Never for a moment did Gen. Gomez and his friends imagine that they could bow to the wishes of the masses and save the nation from its present industrial ruin, brought about by Castro's disastrous domestic and foreign policies, without a struggle, perhaps to the death. There were dark clouds over the horizon in the shape of proletarian barracks in Caracas filled with soldiers antagonistic to the new government, led by a clique of Castro followers, with Governor Cardenas at their head.

For Dr. Jose Jesus De Paul, the foreign minister, to go to the Dec. 10 to the allian, British and Italian ministers and tell them it would howl might arise at any moment which would make it impossible for the government to protect the lives and property of foreigners. Each of these ministers cabled this request to his government, but none responded except the United States, and the vessel, the Dolphin, arrived just six days after the danger was over and eleven days after the cable was sent.

Systematically Starved.
New York, Jan. 6.—Fuller details of the release of more than a score of Castro's political prisoners, their pitiable condition and tales of the treatment they had received in the barbarous dungeons of Fort San Carlos, on an island off Maracaibo, were brought here yesterday by passengers who arrived on the steamship Zulia.

The prisoners, twenty-seven in number, were men of the best families in Venezuela. They were all that remained of the droves of prisoners that had been sent to the fort for political reasons by Castro during his term of office. Maybrick, although the two gentlemen had spent the afternoon to-

The prisoners said they had been systematically starved, the allowance for their keep presumably going into the pockets of the jailors.

In the government employ. They subsisted on such fish as could be caught at the shore and cooked by themselves as well as they could. Communication with relatives and friends, with any one in the outside world, was denied them.

FLORENCE MAYBRICK MAY BE GOING TO MARRY THIS MAN, BUT HE HASN'T SAID ANYTHING TO W. J. BRYAN ABOUT IT

Atlanta, Ga., Jan. 6.—Samuel T. Mc-Cracken, Southern manager of the Lyceum, gave out an interview last night, in which he said Mrs. Florence Maybrick and Charles L. Wagner of Chicago, secretary of the bureau, would be married within the next few weeks.

Relatives of Mrs. Maybrick at Mobile, Ala., refuse to believe it, and that a recent letter from Mrs. Maybrick in Chicago contained no information to this effect.

Wagner Is Mute.
Lincoln, Neb., Jan. 6.—William J.
Bryan, with whom Mr. Wagner conferred yesterday afternoon, said last night that Mr. Wagner had not mentioned his engagement to Mrs. Florence Maybrick although the two gentlemen had spent the afternoon to-

ment from several doctors, but found

Austrian-Serbian CRISIS IS SETTLED.

Vienna, Jan. 6.—The sudden diplomatic crisis between Austria-Hungary and Serbia can be considered settled.

Austria was offended by remarks alleged to have been made by M. Millovanovich, the Serbian foreign minister, before the national assembly to the effect that Austria had made slaves of the people of the annexed provinces of Bosnia and Herzegovina.

The Austrian minister at Belgrade, Count Forgach, was instructed to seek an explanation from the foreign min-

The next year has also seen marked growing interest in industrial education for boys and girls among school officers and the heads of families. In many of our schools, facilities have been installed for the teaching of domestic science and manual arts, and in many cases special teachers have been employed. The work is being introduced into the city schools just as rapidly as teachers able to carry it forward can be found.

own so rapidly that we have come to understand the evident need for bringing agricultural instruction closer to the homes of the farming population, of having rural teachers professionally trained to this particular branch of education. Sentiment favorable to legislative provision for the establishment of a limited number of agricultural schools is rapidly being owned by the state of Minnesota without adequate business address so many years; and now Bureau of mines, forests and land. We owe such action to the public economy and revenue Governor Johnson to the legislature.

It is quite carefully gone over by the legislature; and, while I have no objection to the proposition to make as the number of such schools to be established, it appears to me at this time that the proposition is one worthy your most careful consideration.

The growth of our State, the development, with all its increased duties during the past few years, impels me ment. In view of the enlarged volume of business, it is very properly done, and that the expenditure of money may always be made with the assurance that our people may receive the best possible returns for the money expended. I am confident that the money so appropriated for an additional superintendent, and that clerk hire for the same, will be increased not less than $1,500 year.

LOGS AND LUMBER.

The past year was eventful because of the depression in the financial conditions which have obtained. The stringency of the money market, the depression in the price of cotton affected the lumber industry that the state timber board deemed it wise to suspend its operations during the year. The law provides arbitrarily that the state should not sell its stumpage at less than one cent per cubic foot. The law requires arbiconditions did not justify this, no more than the fact that the work was less difficult than formerly in the adjustment of settlements for the ordinary business of the treasury. Because of the inexorable rule of the board, which is in accordance with the law, timber operators have found it necessary to pay the regular wage and pay for lost time accordingly. There have been some trespasses, but they are not a serious business, a condition much to be desired. The board finds that the law has been violated, and that a hardship to those who have not intended to violate the law has been caused. The board has been obliged to turn cases over to the treasury general, to have the courts decide the case. It is true that it is not so, but which it would do if they were permitted to do under the law.

It seems to me that a board comprising the governor, state auditor, attorney general, and treasurer, would be a better board.

ests of the state and, therefore, should have wider latitude and greater authority in settling controversies and making adjustments than is now possessed.

One great difficulty in the settlement of timber disputes is created by the statute which provides a resale of timber. Under the law, as it now exists, provisions are made for a resale demand by the state auditor.

When the surveyor general, giving the description of the tract upon which he has been appointed, appoints one of his deputies to act upon the tract, the auditor for this purpose, the two to be named by the surveyor general, shall permit and make a report of the same for record with the auditor. The surveyor general, the auditor, the deputies and the estimator agree upon the scale, the number of acres, the value of the land, and the value of the purchase; and, if it shall appear by the report of the auditor that the same is practically correct, the state shall pay to the surveyor general the sum of the value of the land, less the cost of making such rescale, in addition to the salary of the surveyor general, and traveling to and from the land, and that in case of a material difference between the value of the land, the surveyor general shall not be entitled to com-

This condition invites dishonesty and is, inasmuch as it is to secure compensation for his search, a contradiction to the report originally made by him. It would suggest to the contractor the expediency of sending a man to the resale by cruisers appointed by the timber board, and the removal of the discrepancy. The material difference, the surveyor general's office has no right to demand. The contractor received for the original sale on the tract so resold.

It is also suggested that relating to the cash sales, which provides that the auditor may sell the stumpage of any section in area, when the stumpage of the section has been sold, that the auction to the highest bidder for cash, should be repeated entirely. The contractor purchases and almost invariably works a loss to the state. The Warm Reception of Governor Ends Talk of Partisan Split.

Attempt to Re-Establish the State Board of Equalization.

(From a Staff Correspondent.) St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 7.—(Special to The Herald.)—Yesterday's reception of the governor and his message by the legislature didn't leave much of the pre-season talk about a partisan split between the executive and legislative departments of the state government. Indeed, the talk was distinctly "pre-season"; nothing has been heard of it since the members got together. Governor Johnson's reception from the Republican members of the legislature yesterday was just as warm and cordial as any he has yet received; and he has the distinction of having appeared in the capacity of governor before more legislatures than any other governor in the history of the state with one exception. Partisans, of course, figuring from a partisan viewpoint, get rather peevish over the fact

NEBRASKA GOVERNOR INSISTS ON REFORM IN THE BANKING METHODS

GOVERNOR SHALLENBERGER.

Lincoln, Neb., Jan. 7.—Governor Shallenberger, in his message to the Nebraska legislature today, declares he believes that no new or radical legislation is needed at the present time, but that energy should be directed toward amending, improving and correcting the existing laws. He admits the banking laws of Nebraska might be improved, and asserts that it is a reflection upon our American civilization and business methods to longer fail to provide an insurance guaranty fund and banking law which will make every dollar deposited in a Nebraska bank absolutely sure of being returned to its lawful owner when it shall be demanded. "There can be no rule of business ethics," declares the new governor, "which makes it just to secure the state and nation and deny the same protection to the individual depositor. The only question for you to decide, it seems to me, is as to whether the proposed additional guaranty fund can be credited with the certainty that it will provide absolute security to the depositor and not place an unfair burden and responsibility upon the banker. "I believe that the desired security can be obtained by levying a light tax upon the capital stock of each bank transacting business under our laws, thus providing a guaranty fund to pay promptly any possible loss to a depositor by reason of the failure of a state bank; the amount of such tax to be a certain per cent as evidence deposits shown by the reports of the department of banking, payment to be made at stated periods and for a fixed amount." In order to insure to the bankers a share in the control of the state banking department, Governor Shallenberger recommends the appointment of a bipartisan banking board to have control of the issuance of bank charters. The governor recommended that the railroad commission be empowered to appraise the physical value of public service corporations, and to control their debt-making power, and suggested an appropriation for a monument to the memory of Abraham Lincoln.

GIRL CASHIER IS ARRESTED

Charge of Embezzlement Made After She Left Company.

Former Man Employee to Whom She Gave Money, Held.

Kansas City, Mo., Jan. 7.—Miss Nellie O'Donnell, aged 30, a former cashier and bookkeeper for the Schwartzchild and Sulzberger Beer and Provision company, was arrested on a charge of embezzling $4,000, while in the employ of the company. According to the police, Miss O'Donnell has made a confession. The embezzlement took place in July, 1908. Miss O'Donnell asserts that she does not know why she took the money.

Frank O'Dowd, also a former bookkeeper of the company, was arrested shortly after Miss O'Donnell. The police assert he signed a statement admitting having received $500 from Miss O'Donnell. O'Dowd resigned his position and went into the cigar business and Miss O'Donnell also left the company and became his clerk.

In her confession, Miss O'Donnell says O'Dowd did not know she embezzled the money. She entered the employ of the company ten years ago and was promoted from office girl to cashier.

DOUBT THAT MAN HACKED TO DEATH WAS MINISTER

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 7.—With stories of all sorts floating about the countryside today near Columbus township, where a dismembered body was found yesterday afternoon stuffed into a Methodist church stove, there is not a positive development toward solving the mystery which surrounds the crime. Suspicion of the accuracy of the identification of the body as Rev. John H. Carmichael of Adair developed today. Many persons living in the neighborhood expressed doubts as to the minister. Sheriff Wagenseil added weight to the suspicion by stating that he is not positive that Carmichael was the victim of the tragedy. Two men are missing from the neighborhood. They are Carmichael and Gideon Browning, a carpenter, who lived near the minister and for whom the officers are searching. With only the trunk of the body and part of the jaw bone and the false teeth left, the sheriff made the statement today that he did not consider that the identity of the victim is established. The identification as Rev. Carmichael was largely based on the fact that bloody clothing belonging to the minister and other possessions of his, including his spectacles, were found in the church. But Sheriff Wagenseil said today that he did not consider this necessarily positive proof that it was the minister who had been hacked to pieces and burned.

Erb on the night of Oct. 1, 1908, today walked from the Delaware county courthouse free women. After the jury had been out nearly eighteen hours, it brought in a verdict of not guilty in the case of each woman, both of whom had been charged separately and jointly with shooting the captain. Thus ends a trial that has held the interest of the country, and during which much scandalous evidence was brought out, some of which did not reach the reading public.

MICHIGAN GOVERNOR HOT AFTER THE LOBBYIST, IN HIS MESSAGE

Lansing, Mich., Jan. 7.—A law to suppress the legislative lobbyist, and further restrictive measures against the liquor traffic, are recommended by Governor Warner in his third inaugural message, submitted to the assembly today. He says: "The professional lobbyist who stands ready at all times whatever interest is willing to pay his price should be banished utterly from the halls of legislation and those representatives of legitimate interests, who are concerned properly with pending legislation should be required to register and disclose the source of their employment and the measures which they either favor or oppose. The proper discharge of your duty to your constituents demands that this needed legislation be supplied at an early date." The governor recommends that the smaller political units, the cities, villages, and townships, be required to restrict or abolish the liquor traffic. Continuing the executive says: "Over capitalization and stock watering manipulations by corporations is an evil which disastrously affects the general public. The railroads compare in this respect. To the end that the public may be protected, all issues of stocks and bonds of public service corporations at least should, in my opinion, be required to have the approval of some competent authority."

GOVERNOR WARNER.

Governor Warner calls attention to a demand of the people that telegraph and telephone companies be required to pay an ad valorem tax, and mentions the desirability of "checking" the regulation of the business of stock brokers. Enlargement of the primary election law, jurisdiction of the railroad commission over water transportation lines which are operated wholly between Michigan points and active measures to lessen the fire waste are urged.

M. J. DAVIS IS CALLED

Former Mayor of Duluth Dies in Joplin, Mo.

Had Lived in Joplin for the Last Six Years.

Word was received this morning by Mrs. A. E. Davis, of 18 East Third street, of the death of her father, former Mayor Davis of Duluth, at Joplin, Mo., which city he had been making his home since leaving here about six years ago.

No details of Mr. Davis' death were received, only a short telegram saying that he had passed away. It is not known yet what funeral arrangements will be made.

Mr. Davis came to Duluth in the spring of 1871 and made this city his home continuously until a few years ago, when he removed to Joplin. He was prominent in the social and political life of the city, being its mayor at one time.

Marcus Jerome Davis was born in Oswego, N. Y., and was 66 years of age at the time of his death. He married Mary Jane Weston of Duluth, Wis., where they lived five years, coming to Duluth in 1871. They were married in Joplin, Mo., who survives him. He had four children by his first marriage, three of whom survive him. They are Mrs. A. E. Prudden of Duluth, William Edward Davis of Joplin, and Mrs. Francis Elsworth Davis of New York city.

CITY BRIEFS

Loose Leaf Devices. Thwing-Stewart Co., phone, 114.

Sues For $12,000. Joe Balgo led suit for $12,000 against the Oliver Iron Mining Co. in district court yesterday. He claims he was injured by a fall from a mine at Eveleth, April 30, 1904, through the negligence of the company. W. E. Cukin is his attorney.

Correction. In last night's Herald, the omission of the little word "not" twisted an item in Gray-Tallant's ad to say just what it should not have said. The item was one offering 5,000 yards of plain and fancy white goods, checks, stripes, plaids and forty-inch white lawn, worth 10 cents to 15 cents per yard. The offer was for a limited time, for 100,000 yards at 6 1/2 cents the yard. The offer will be repeated on the bargain sales tomorrow.

Many Women Out. Notwithstanding cold weather, Gray-Tallant's company, 111 East Second street, had a large number of women shoppers downtown today. Wise women will come early tomorrow, for the perfect service that will be possible when the crowds come out after the weather moderates.

Guardian Appointed. Judge DuBois of the district court yesterday issued an order appointing M. Lachar as guardian of the person and estate of a minor, the son of a deceased woman, for the purpose of defending a divorce suit brought by the husband, Aaron P. Carlson. Mrs. Carlson is in the insane asylum at Ferguson Falls.

Fire in Store. The Northern Hardware company, West Superior street, had a fire in the store yesterday, which destroyed a $20,000 three-story brick block on Pine street, owned by Henry Blume. The dead: Mrs. Douglas Bolton, aged 30, neck broken and skull fractured when she leaped from a second-story window. EVERILL, aged 2.

Not So Crowded. The extremely cold weather has slightly interfered with the crowds at Duluth's greatest White Sale, nevertheless, the people are buying all the time. But the fact that the aisles are not so packed as they were yesterday, makes it pay you to visit Gray-Tallant's tomorrow!

Stole an Overcoat. Thomas Burns was arrested last night charged with stealing an overcoat which was exhibited on a dummy in a window of the Gray-Tallant's company. Officer Mason took him into custody. He was taken to the police station and held in the city jail.

Proof of Pudding. Is in the eating. Proof of the greatest success by all other White Sales, to come to Gray-Tallant's tomorrow!

Cause Won by Getty. The jury trying the suit of William Getty against the Great Northern railroad, in which $75 was asked for the killing of a cow by the train, yesterday afternoon, brought a verdict of $65 into municipal court.

Official Visit to Duluth. Last year at about this time the common council of Duluth visited the Superior council while in session. The Superior council will today make a return call upon the city fathers of Duluth at their weekly meeting.

Was About to Enter. It develops that Martin Thompson, arrested in St. Paul for the theft of a suit, was preparing to secure enlistment papers for service in the army when taken into custody by the Duluth police. Thompson is in charge of a detective, who was sent down for him.

Passenger Agents Here. F. M. Malone, assistant general passenger agent of the Chicago, Great Western railroad, and Harry Wyand, traveling passenger agent for the same road, are in the city today.

Saloon Man on Trial. Andrew Wilson, a saloon keeper, his New Duluth saloon open after hours, is on trial in municipal court today. A jury has been drawn, and evidence is being taken. It is charged that Wilson sold liquor after 11 o'clock the night of Dec. 26.

Notice. M. E. B. A. No. 75, will meet at M. E. B. A. hall, Friday evening. Election of officers. J. E. Berg, Sec.

Member of Committee. City Controller W. S. McCormick this morning received a letter from John Rogers Woodruff, secretary of the National Municipal league, and with headquarters at Philadelphia, the effect that Charles J. Bonaparte, president of the league, had appointed Mr. McCormick a member of the league.

Youth With Domestic Difficulties Longs to See Real Fighting.
Because her son was "heckled by his wife," a fashionably dressed woman, with her son as material evidence of the wife's ungenial thrusts, applied at the United States recruiting office to secure admission to the army for her son.

Lieut. Arthur Watts informed the lady that married men were not permitted in the army, unless there were unusual circumstances connected with their cases.

However, the lieutenant decided that a man who could not manage his own household—who retreated, as it were, under domestic skirmishes—should receive more training before applying for admission to the army.

The application was rejected and the young man had to return home and learn to master domestic tribulations, before hoping to become a soldier in a more strenuous field of labor.

DELIGHTS DULUTHIANS

The Governor's Message Causes Favorable Comment on All Sides.

Members of Both Political Parties Praise It Warmly.

Duluthians and residents of Northern Minnesota in general are expressing their appreciation of the governor's message to the legislature, which was published in last evening's Herald.

Members of both political parties are warmly praising that part of the governor's message pertaining to Northern Minnesota development. The governor went into the question of Northern Minnesota's resources very fully, and his position in regard to their development was stated very clearly and very wisely.

"It is one of the best messages I have ever read," said T. Wahl, the local real estate dealer, this afternoon. "The governor evidently realizes the possibilities of Northern Minnesota fully, and is determined to do everything in his power to develop them. It is a splendid tribute to this part of the state, and every resident of Duluth should read it. It is also a valuable educational document for those who are not familiar with Duluth and Northern Minnesota, and the governor has certainly done this part of the state a good turn by coming out so strongly for the development of our resources up here."

Mayor Haven, although a Republican, expressed himself as being highly pleased with the message and particularly that part of it which referred to this part of the state.

"The message is certainly a splendid one," said the mayor, "and it should be of great benefit in advertising our resources to the rest of the state and the country at large."

These are but two samples of the comments that were heard on all sides. In spite of the fact that the message was a lengthy one, many Duluthians had read every word of it, and many others have laid it aside, intending to do so at their earliest convenience.

STERILIZE, IS HIS ADVICE

Retiring Governor Sheldon Makes Suggestions Concerning Criminals.

Would Also Prevent the Insane From Having Children.

Lincoln, Neb., Jan. 7.—After calling attention to the increase in insane patients and convicts, Retiring Governor Sheldon in his message Friday asserted that society is justified in adopting laws for protection. He says: "Society is justified in adopting such policies, and in carrying them out against individuals, as will in the long run elevate the human race. Careless and ill-advised marriages have had a direct deal to do in increasing the dependent classes and in producing untold misery. "In order to prevent the confirmed criminal and the incurable insane from producing offspring, I suggest that you give careful consideration to the necessity of passing a law, providing for the sterilizing of that class of people."

MISMATED COUPLES TELL THEIR TROUBLES IN COURT

Three Decrees of Divorce Granted During Morning Session.

"I am a Child of God and I must do as He wills. I cannot live with my husband, John Edlund, as I will only be a needless expense. A Child of God, I cannot live with a man I do not love. I do not know how long I will remain in Denver, as I am in God's hands and I will go wherever He leads. I am a Child of God, I cannot live with my husband, John Edlund, as I will only be a needless expense. A Child of God, I cannot live with a man I do not love. I do not know how long I will remain in Denver, as I am in God's hands and I will go wherever He leads." *****

Because she is a "Child of God," a member of a strange religious sect, with headquarters at Denver, and her husband, John Edlund, was not a member of the sect. Clara Edlund deserted him, took their child, Vera, aged 10 years, to Denver, and took up her residence there, refusing to live with him. This morning Edlund was given a divorce by Judge Ensign in district court.

Edlund told the story of his wife's sudden conversion to the religious sect and her desertion of him, in consequence. He is 40 years old and his wife is 30. They were married at Superior, June 6, 1894, and lived together at Superior until Sept. 18, 1907, when Mrs. Edlund left for Denver, taking the child. Mr. Edlund said he had repeatedly written his wife, asking her to return to him, and on one occasion, he had written her, asking her to return, but she had consistently refused to return, claiming that she could not live with him.

The divorce suit was granted, but only three decrees were granted. One case was submitted, one was held for further evidence, three were continued, and one was still on trial when court adjourned. Nearly all of the divorce cases on the calendar are on the call and the court room was crowded this morning with wronged wives and husbands and their friends.

ART MUSEUM IS UP AGAIN

The Duluth Art Association Holds Annual Meeting.

Discusses Plans for New Building and Increasing Funds.

At the annual meeting of the Duluth Art association, held last night at the Masonic temple, it was decided to take steps towards putting the organization on a sounder financial basis, and to start an movement to build an art museum in Duluth; also to bring the influence of the association to bear on general building and public improvements throughout the city, with an idea of making the municipality more beautiful.

Several art exhibitions will be held during the year, and everything possible will be done to encourage art. The exhibitions are a step in this direction. Up to the present time the membership fee in the association has been $1 a year, and it was decided to increase it to $2 a year, and that the membership fee be increased to $2 a year, and that the membership fee be increased to $2 a year.

A committee also will be appointed to arrange for bringing Tissot's Old Testament paintings to Duluth for exhibition.

COOK IS GIVEN ONE YEAR TERM

Waiter, Convicted of Assault, Is Sentenced to Stillwater.

Clifford Cook, who was convicted at the November term of district court of assault in the second degree, has been sentenced by Judge Pitkin to serve one year in the state penitentiary at Stillwater.

Cook was indicted on a charge of assault in the first degree, in having shot Alexander Vennables through the chest with a .38 Smith & Wesson revolver at the trial the Cook was shot through the chest and a bullet going through a door had pierced Vennables' hand.

Lubeck, Germany, Aug. 25, 1878, and lived together until March 1, 1899, when Mrs. Johnson claimed her husband deserted her. She also told the court that for ten years prior to his desertion, her husband had been an habitual drunkard. There are three adult children. The decree was granted.

"He was a low-down fellow," declared Mrs. Nellie M. Pomeroy of her son-in-law, Roy Gruper, from whom Mrs. Pomeroy, Mrs. Pomeroy's daughter, obtained a decree of divorce. Mrs. Pomeroy declared a lot more. She said she never heard her son-in-law utter a sentence without profanity and she also seen him under the influence of liquor.

Mrs. Gruper said that she was 32 years old and her husband was 33. They were married at Superior Sept. 12, 1895, and lived together until Dec. 23, 1905, when she said her husband deserted her. She is still in the city, she said, and she is living with her mother, supporting the two children by working in a store. She was given the decree of divorce and the custody of the children.

When Angeline La Breck discovered that her husband had repeatedly visited immoral houses in Duluth and Superior and had consorted with the inmates, she said, she left him immediately. She was on hand to ask for a divorce this morning and her husband was there with an attorney to fight the proceedings. He claims the charges are false.

Mrs. La Breck said that she is 23 years old and her husband is 28. They were married in Leland, Mich., April 26, 1904, and two years ago. She followed last spring and in August, she was discovered that he had visited the "red light district," in both Duluth and Superior. She immediately left herself and her two children since Mrs. LaBreck's charges were true and her testimony was received. Repeated objections on the part of Mr. LaBreck's counsel. The case is still being heard when court adjourned at noon.

The case of Alexander Colombe against Annie Colombe was submitted to the court. Mrs. Colombe is in the Northern Michigan insane asylum at Newburgh. The couple were married at Koughton, Mich., and Colombe claims that after their marriage his wife was intimate with another man and a child was born to her, of which he was not the father.

Evelina Whopie, aged 32 years, charged that her husband, Carl Whopie, aged 33 years, deserted her April 15, 1908, and she was married at Superior Oct. 20, 1902. She said he had threatened to leave her and she was finally driven away. A witness, who was expected to be present, did not appear.

The cases of Ole Anderson Hagstad vs. Rikki E. Hagstad, Rosa Markkila vs. Leonard Hagstad and Hilda Hagstad vs. Uldrika Hagstad were continued to the next term of court.

"Karlson," and the artist is Arthur Edwin H. Hewitt, vice president of the Duluth Art association, who is a prominent architect of Minneapolis, delivered the principal address of the evening. He took as his subject "The Relation of Art to the Growth of a City," pointing out the common sense of building, and advising great care in the arrangement of buildings, and in providing sufficient room for future needs.

Mr. Hewitt said that when Minnesota is as densely populated as Ohio, Duluth will have a population of 1,000,000. He endorsed the grouping plan for the city, county and government buildings, and said it could have been brought about at half the expense twenty years ago, and twenty years hence would cost double what it is costing now. He pointed to this as an example of what early action would have done.

He dealt upon the custom of great cities and the science of planning and art to their aid in making the cities beautiful. Art, he said, could even be applied to the construction of warehouses, skyscrapers and business blocks. He stated that interest had been shown in the Duluth art association since the art work in the state capitol building attracted such wide public attention. He said that the Duluth art association to appeal to its wealthy and public-spirited citizens to subscribe sufficient money to build a museum of art, and said $50,000 would be necessary to begin with.

At the business meeting of the association, the old board of directors, made up as follows, was re-elected: Mr. Patrick, Chairman; Congdon, G. G. Hartley, Mrs. John Killorin, Luther Mendenhall, Mrs. H. C. Marshall, Mrs. P. S. Anko, Elsholtz, James McGorrick, and Julius Barnes.

Mr. Patrick is the president, and he presided over the meeting last night. The board of directors met at the Commercial club today to elect president and other officers for the year.

GROWTH OF THE ANANIAS CLUB NOTED IN THE HOUSE

Washington, Jan. 7.—The newspaper announcement that Mrs. Hearns of the army, who has been retired on account of disability, is to accompany President Roosevelt on his African hunting trip, was the basis of an interesting, though brief, colloquy in the house. The question came up in connection with a bill providing for the issuance of commissions, with increased rank to retired officers of the army, navy and marine corps, which was called up by Mr. Hull, chairman of the committee on military affairs, from which it had been reported.

"Does that include the army officer who has just been retired for disability, who has announced his intention of going with the president?" "I don't know," Mr. Hull responded, but he added that if the officer in question had earned his higher rank, which the law provides shall be given for civil war service, he would be entitled to his benefits.

Mr. Mann called attention to a newspaper item, saying that Mrs. Hearns had been designated by a president in office to accompany an ex-president to Africa.

Mr. Hull protested that he did not know whether the story was true.

"Maybe," interjected Mr. Clark of Missouri, amid laughter, "this officer experienced a sudden and miraculous cure after he got his increase."

"Then," said Mr. Mann sarcastically, "it's a libel on the president. I haven't heard anybody put in the Ananias club account of it."

While the members crowded about him, Mr. Hull declared that "if the membership in the Ananias club is to be increased by every report in the newspaper that is not true, it would grow to such proportions that it would constitute a majority of the people, and the rest of us would be in a bad fix."

The bill was passed.

COATLESS AND VACCINATED, JOHN JUST HATES UNCLE SAM

Because he was led into selling a frock coat, a great source of sartorial pride and joy to him, a young man, whose name might be given as John Peterson, because that is as far from it as any, has threatened to bring suit against the United States government.

Not so many days ago the recruit took the examination to join the army. He passed the preliminary examination, taken at the Duluth recruiting office. Then he was sent to Fort Snelling to take the final examination from the United States army surgeon, stationed at the fort.

In the meantime Peterson was so sure that he was soon to wear the blue uniform and the shining brass buttons of the regular army, that he sold all of his clothes, with the exception of a pair of overalls, a faded shirt, and a decidedly worn and frayed coat. It hurt him to part with the frock coat that assured him from the unenviable state of his mind to man's estate, yet what was the use of having all those fancy trunks when he was soon to wear the grand uniform of his country's fighting force?

Peterson took the examination and after the sharp pain of being required to give the name of a friend, and the sharp pain of the trigger upon the trusty rifle, young Peterson beheld himself in the frock coat he had sacrificed at a mere fraction of its original cost. Then he thought of his smarting arm, where the army officials had vaccinated him, and he decided that he had good grounds for suit against the government.

The young man hung around the recruiting office most of this morning. His threats of a suit against the government did not give the army officials the least concern. He said that he had seen the mere announcement. He repeated his threat, yet at the same time he was not troubled by the officials.

The young man informed them that he has been obliged to turn down all invitations to the recruiting office, because of the disposal of his frock coat at a great sacrifice, and that he has lost two nights' sleep because of the itching feeling in his arm where the army put its official trade mark.

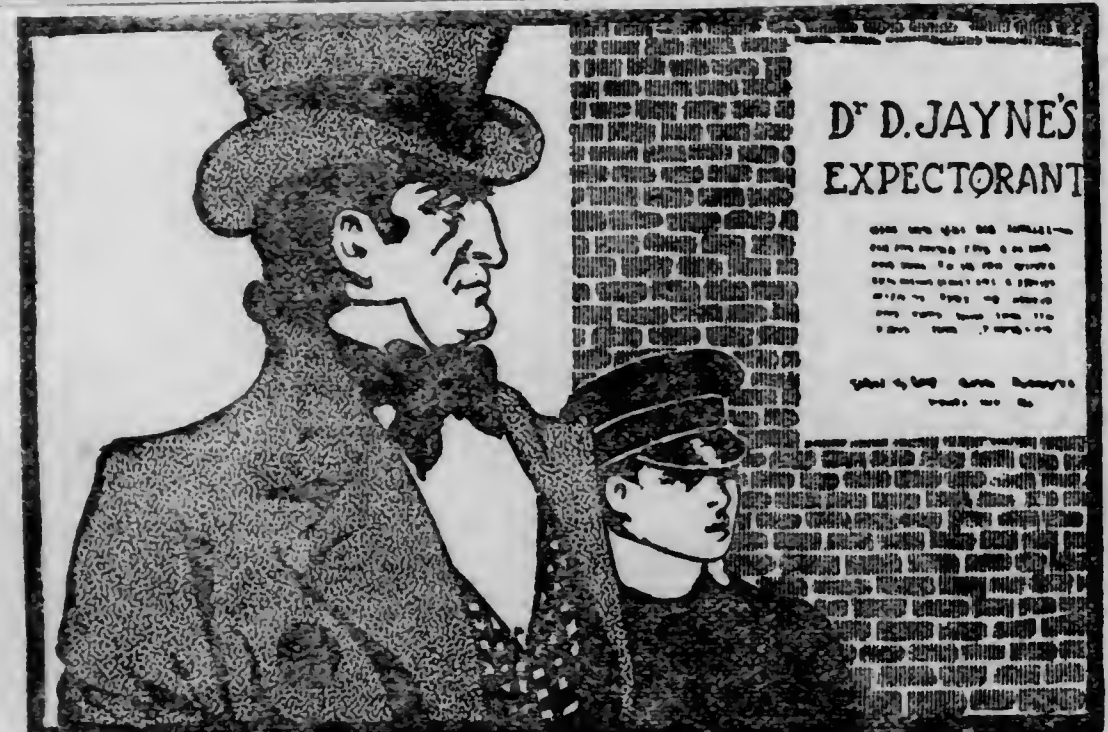

So he believes that his feelings have suffered humiliation, and his material and social welfare have been damaged to that extent where the government should make reparation. Any way, he threatens to make it "hot for you" follows.

And then, besides, that frock coat had been worn down the lapels and had been worn two months when purchased.

STEEL PURCHASE WAS TO AVOID FAILURE; ROOSEVELT EXPLAINS TO THE SENATE

STEEL CORPORATION EMPLOYEES MAY NOW BUY COMMON STOCK

New York, Jan. 7.—A new departure in its profit-sharing plan, giving its employees the privilege of subscribing to the common as well as to the preferred stock of the concern, is announced by the United States Steel corporation. The price at which the stock is being offered to employees is $10 a share for the preferred and $5 a share for the common. The closing prices for these securities on the stock market yesterday were $115 and $12. The price at which the preferred stock is offered to about 60,000 shares, but only about 25,000 shares were allotted. Since the profit-sharing plan was introduced in 1903, the employees who purchased stock have received in dividends and bonuses close to $12,000,000.

Washington, Jan. 6.—President Roosevelt, in informing the senate, as told yesterday, that he had given his approval to the absorption of the Tennessee Coal & Iron company by the United States Steel corporation, and that he had instructed Attorney General Bonaparte not to respond to the senate inquiry as to the reason for his failure to prosecute the steel company, concludes his message with the statement that he does not conceive it "to be within the authority of the senate to give directions of this character to the head of the executive department."

While the resolution was not directed to President Roosevelt, his attention was called to it by Attorney General Bonaparte, who after quoting the requirements of the resolution, said: "As you are aware, no such proceedings have been instituted."

Commenting upon the attorney general's letter, the president says: "As to the question in question, I was personally cognizant of and responsible for its every detail. For the information of the senate, I transmit a copy of a letter sent by me to the attorney general on Nov. 4, 1907, as follows:—

"The White House, Washington, D. C., Nov. 4, 1907.

"My Dear Attorney General:—The Tennessee Coal & Iron corporation, on behalf of the Steel corporation, has asked me to sign a statement that there is a certain business firm (the name of which I have not told, but which is of real importance in New York business circles) and the evening will close with refreshments. United States District Attorney Sims went before Judge Landis and announced that he would like to begin the new hearing next Monday. Judge Landis answered that, in view of his convictions in the case—that each car lot constituted a separate offense—he did not care to sit again in the case.

WATER SPORTS AT

Framed and Date is Announced.

Plans for the winter water carnival to be held in the swimming tank at the Y. M. C. A. announced some time ago are being planned and the date has now been set for Jan. 25.

There will be exhibitions of diving, jumping, all sorts of swimming, and above and under water, and a water polo game. The teams that play the water polo are the Duluth and the Sea Lions, are now being coached for their exhibition game by the three best contest comes off, it is expected that both teams will have gained a high degree of proficiency.

It is seldom that women are admitted to the swimming tank, but on this occasion custom will be thrown to the winds, and an effort made to get them out in force.

There will be many other stunts pulled off that have not yet been arranged for, and it is thought that the water carnival will be highly interesting.

FOOTBALL MEN
GET SWEATERSMembers of High School Team Receive Their Rewards.

The sixteen huskies who battled "for the honor of the school" this morning in chapel, received their reward for their season's showing on the gridiron.

Principal Smith awarded the sweaters, and with a neat little speech complimented each one of the athletes as he handed him his coveted "letter."

BACK TO THE AMATEUR RANKSSheppard and Five Other Athletes Are Given a Hearing.

New York, Jan. 6.—What proved to be a tempest in a teapot in amateur athletic circles was stilled last night when the registration board of the American Amateur Athletic association lifted the ban of suspension for alleged professionalism that ten days ago it placed upon six men who had won international and Olympic honors. The men who thus again are eligible to compete as amateurs are: J. J. Lee of Boston, United States; F. G. Bellairs, N. Y. A. C.; correct; Melvin W. Sheppard, Charles J. Bacon, George V. Boning and H. F. Porter, Irish-American A. C.

The charges of professionalism were covered by an allegation that they had demanded and accepted money for traveling and other expenses to cities outside of New York in excess of what was really necessary. These charges were not sustained by the committee. When the suspensions were announced ten days ago the men demanded a hearing, and under the rules of the A. A. U. this was accorded them. All the athletes except Boning and Porter submitted evidence to controvert the charges.

JEFFRIES MAY FIGHT.
Ex-Champion Begins Light Gymnasium Work in Los Angeles.

Los Angeles, Jan. 7.—That James J. Jeffries, in response to the request of the sporting public that he attempt to wrest the heavyweight championship from Jack Johnson, may decide to don the gloves again, is a belief that was strengthened last night by the announcement of those close to the former champion, that he will begin light gymnasium work today, and continue working out three times a week. Jeffries himself continues to deny that he has decided to fight Johnson, but those closest to him expect the statement from him at any minute that he will try conclusions with the new champion.

Like Ulysses, with copious wads of oakum stuffed in his ears, passing the island where dwell the silver-throated sirens who lure strong men to destruction, James J. Jeffries is giving a deaf ear to the eloquent music of $30,000 purses. The John Burns match, leaving for the United States on Jan. 2, proposed to offer an unlimited amount to the retired champion to fight Jack Johnson, Jeffries absolutely refuses to consider any proposition.

Jeffries' retirement left said that he would re-enter the ring only on one condition. That condition was to win back the championship from a former champion, should the title by any chance fall into his hands. He has stuck faithfully to his word, although he has several times on his mind to break the promise. But they were in no position to offer him a big enough sum, then Jim May and a bunch of other Nevada promoters nearly got the big fellow into the ring with Johnson with a $50,000 offer. But Jeff's wife suddenly reversed that they had a social call to make on the night selected for the conference and negotiations were called off.

According to Billy Delaney, Jeff can put all of his money in one bank. The ex-champion's alfalfa ranch is about as fertile as a billiard table, and his grove shop has not put any cash registers out of commission. He could use $50,000,000 case notes without suffering any remorse. If McIntosh is wise enough to consult with the Western association of pugilism before he approaches the retired professor of alcoholic irrigation, his visit to this country might bear fruit.

How Is Your Digestion Today?

If it isn't right—"there's a reason." The reason is—wrong eating—undigested food. Kodol will digest the food and rest the stomach. It removes cause and "the reason."

Then you have no more indigestion. Indigestion is of course impossible when there is perfect digestion of food. And imperfect digestion of food is impossible where there is Kodol.

If you could see Kodol digest every particle of food, in test tubes, in the laboratory of the man of letters, you would understand this better. Or, what is even more convincing, let it digest the food in your stomach, the first time you have an attack of indigestion.

Of course, you may never have indigestion. Yet most of us, at one time or another, are subject to its pains and discomforts. It is true that this is usually our own fault—but that doesn't help matters any.

Kodol will help the matter very quickly. It doesn't cure dyspepsia understand. It isn't claimed to cure anything. The day of "cure-alls" is past. Modern medical treatment merely aims to assist Nature. Kodol is one of Nature's most invaluable assistants.

The best plan by long odds, is to keep good digestion when you have it. Many persons, however, are unable, for one reason or another to do this. Others don't care to take the trouble to do it. But the "troubles" usually come later, just the same. Then you will want to know about Kodol.

A work recently issued by the U. S. Dept. of Agriculture, says: "In eating, we are prone to let natural instinct be overruled by acquired appetite. . . . We need to observe our diet more carefully—to regulate appetite by reason."

That is the ideal. Simply use reason. Don't starve yourself—eat plenty of good, wholesome nourishing food. But eat it at the proper time, and in the proper way. Starving or dieting never cured anything—or prevented anything.

Don't worry, eat what you want—Kodol will keep your stomach right.

Nature planned that we should take food to sustain life. But what if the food does not undergo the essential processes of conversion into the elements required by the organs and tissues? Nature's entire scheme is frustrated, at the outset.

Here is where Kodol steps in and sets Nature's scheme right again. It does this by completely digesting all food, for a time. Nature then rests, and cures the digestive organs—and they resume work. After that you don't need Kodol—until you put your stomach wrong again.

SECOND FURNACE STARTS AT GARY

Weekly Iron Trade Review Tells of Duluth Contract.

Cleveland, Ohio, Jan. 7.—The Iron Trade Review today says: Conditions in the iron business as indicated by our blast furnace statistics, which show that the production of pig iron for the first half of the year was 6,753,463 tons, while for the second half the production was 8,881,225 tons. For December the production was 1,722,557 tons, an increase of 149,255 tons over November. The second blast furnace has been blown in at the plant at Gary, Ind.

The first sale of iron ore for 400 years has been made in the form of a block of 50,000 tons of non-bessemer. The pig iron market is quiet. In pig iron there has been some activity, an inquiry for 10,000 tons of basic being current in the Philadelphia district and one for 6,000 tons at Cleveland. It has just become known that several weeks ago one of the largest Eastern Pennsylvania plants purchased 10,000 tons of basic. The sale of 10,000 tons of 100 phosphorus iron by an Eastern Pennsylvania plant to a Southern iron and steel company has also just been announced. A New England machinery manufacturer has purchased 10,000 tons of cast iron pipe from the United States Cast Iron Pipe & Foundry company. Duluth and Minneapolis are also active in the market.

In San Francisco bids have been submitted on about 50,000 tons of structural material and several contracts for fair tonnage have been let. Contracts by the American Bridge company include 1,500 tons for R. H. Stearns & Sons, and 1,000 tons for the two Prudential Life buildings, which are to be erected in 1909. The company's December bookings amount to about 20,000 tons, the largest for any month of the year with the exception of November.
